

TEWKSBURY PEOPLE
FAVOR ANNEXATION

Their Chief Objection Being to Our Bad Roads—Rogers Street Complained of—What Chauffeurs Say of Our Roads

Annexation seems to be the watchword in the surrounding towns, or at least it is the main topic of discussion.

Many of the suburban residents speak favorably of the editorial published in The Sun last Monday in which good reasons were set forth for annexing some of the suburban towns. However, some of the townspeople are from Milford and they want to be shown before any real move is started in favor of annexation. In Tewksbury, for instance, some of the citizens want to see good roads in Lowell before they consent to become a part of the Spindle City, while others favor awaiting further developments in South Lowell, which was taken away from Tewksbury a few years ago. Although some of the men are very conservative on the annexation question, one of the town officials believes the annexation of Tewksbury to Lowell would be a mighty good proposition for the town and although some say that South Lowell people have not benefited by the annexation, he seems to believe that great improvements have been made in that part of the city, and in his opinion if the other part of Tewksbury were to be treated as fairly as was South Lowell, he would recommend annexation at once.

"When we good roads in Lowell," said a prominent business man of Tewksbury, "and then we will talk annexation, but not until then. Automobile drivers of the town complain of suffering more wear and tear on their machines while traveling in Lowell than in any other part of the state. This condition of the streets in Lowell is keeping your city from progressing and this is a well known fact throughout the state. Automobile parties coming from other parts of the state through Tewksbury to Lowell, who have not been in the Spindle City for some time, stop in Tewksbury to get rested as to the condition of the roads in Lowell and their first question is, 'Are Lowell streets as bad as ever?' and in many instances the reply is, 'Yes, worse than ever.'"

"We residents of Tewksbury, would like to know how Lowell will manage to keep up the good condition of our roads, when she cannot attend to her own streets at the present time. Some of the main thoroughfares in Lowell are in a very bad condition and almost unfit for travel. The Wamssett end of Rogers street is nothing but a rock and a hole, while Westford street is a disgrace to your city. There are many other streets too numerous to mention that need repaving and repainting, and unless the condition of your streets is brought to a high standard you can rest assured that there will be no annexation of Tewksbury."

Another prominent resident of the town spoke of the South Lowell and Wiggsville districts which were annexed to Lowell some years ago and he said that many of the residents of that locality are not quite satisfied; they think more might have been done in the sewerage line, although the problem there is a very big one. They appreciate the water service, the fire protection and the freedom of the schools. They are hopeful that the big Oakland sewer will be completed some day or else some other means of solving the difficulty found.

Town Official Talks

One of the officials of the town claims that South Lowell and Wiggsville have greatly benefited by the change and he favors the annexation of at least another slice of the town if not the whole of it. He said the water supply the residents of the annexed district are being given and the fire protection they are receiving is worth the difference in tax rate, and he feels that in time the new district will be properly taken care of. He also believes that within a short time a sewerage system will be constructed in that locality and the streets and sidewalks will be put in good condition.

This official said the present tax rate is $18 per thousand and it is very probable this year the assessors will announce an increase of one or two dollars. The increase will be due to the erection of the Shawheen school last year at a cost of $8,000 and also the appropriation of $6,000 for the Clark road improvement. The school debt is to be wiped off at a rate of $2,000 a year, which means that a high tax rate will be in evidence for at least four years. Now another schoolhouse will have to be built and that will be another burden on the town. The town hall has been better than a new building will be needed within a short time and that will mean another jump in the tax rate. The town has been talking for some of installing a water system and as soon as that goes through money will be needed and the taxpayers will be called upon to disburse. There are other numerous improvements needed in the town which cannot be done just because the taxpayers refuse to shoulder the burden. With the annexation to Lowell the city would take care of all the needs and as a whole the town would be better off.

No Fire Protection

"We have practically no water available in case of fire and hardly any fire protection and some day we may find ourselves in the same predicament as the Salem victims. By annexing Tewksbury to Lowell the water mains would be extended to the town. It is also certain that we would have no difficulty in having electric power and lighting and the citizens would get all the benefits," said the official.

DR. CARMAN CONFIDENT

Physician in Whose Office Mrs. Bailey Was Murdered, Believes Wife Innocent of Crime—Mrs. Carman in Jail

FREEPORT, N. Y., July 9.—With Mrs. Florence Conklin Carman in the county jail at Mineola, a prisoner charged with the murder of Mrs. Louise Bailey on the night of June 30 last, District Attorney Smith today was prepared to go before the grand jury and begin the presentation of his case against the accused woman.

One of the first witnesses to appear before the grand jury today, it was announced, would be Elwood T. Baines, the insurance agent, whose testimony yesterday before Coroner Norton caused that official to issue the warrant for Mrs. Carman's arrest. Another witness will be the Carman maid, Celia Coleman, a negro girl. Counsel for Mrs. Carman today said that she was prepared to go before the grand jury and waive immunity, a thing unusual in the case of a person charged with murder.

Mrs. Carman will be brought back to Freeport on Monday for arraignment when she is expected to repeat her plea of not guilty. It is expected that she will be held at that time for the action of the grand jury. Dr. Carman, who accompanied Mrs. Carman to the jail at Mineola, declared his belief in her innocence and confidence in her acquittal.

THE MEXICAN SITUATION IN POLICE COURT

U. S. Government Preparing for New Developments—Await Official News From Rebels

WASHINGTON, July 9.—That the Washington government would give within a few days some manifestation of the policy it intends to pursue to meet any new development in the Mexican situation was the belief expressed today in many quarters. President Wilson and his advisers still awaited official notification of the constitutionalists' attitude toward a proposed peace conference with Huerta's envoys and declined to comment on border reports that the revolutionaries were partially confirmed in Washington to the effect that the revolutionary leaders would not agree to a parity.

Probably the definite expression of his plans for the future will not be made by the American government until the preparation for the conference is settled and specific information on the extent of the Villa-Carranza agreement is reached.

While reports from Torreon stated that the disagreement between the two chiefs had been settled, there remained an undercurrent of comment indicating that the truce was only temporary. The movement today of Villa's troops northward from their Zacatecas campaign was explained by statements from some quarters that the United States and a few European nations had urged that the northern general be not allowed to reach Mexico city first. Administration officials declined to comment on such reports.

That the constitutionalist military campaign was progressing without the immediate co-operation of Villa was indicated in official revolutionary reports that General Obregon's northern forces had beaten back an army of federalists almost at the gates of Guadalajara. Obregon said he believed his men would capture the city without much serious fighting. Probably his forces would be unable, it was said, to attack Huerta's capital without help.

Arthur Leanos will be very careful in the future who he sells beer to. The night before the Fourth Sergeant Petrie and another officer swapped Leanos some of Uncle Sam's currency for several bottles of the hops fluid with the result that Leanos appeared in court this morning charged with the illegal sale of liquor. John J. Harvey, Esq., appeared for the defendant and entered a plea of guilty. The case was continued for sentence until tomorrow morning's session.

Francis Smith, a driver for Friend Brothers bakery, pleaded guilty to driving an auto without a license. The young man possessed a license but did not have it with him when arrested. Smith met disaster on the street of that name. Smith street is a one-way street and the defendant drove in the wrong direction. In order to impress upon his mind the fact that he must have a license in his pocket when driving a car and that Smith street cannot be used in both directions, the defendant was asked to deliver a $5.00 note, to Acting Clerk Toye.

James Glynn was arrested on Dutton street and charged this morning with drunkenness. Two little girls testified against the man and Judge Enright ordered him to pay a fine of $35 and gave him no probationary term in which to pay it.

John T. Riley was accused by his wife of assaulting her. Judge Enright told the defendant that he would allow him to escape with a suspended sentence on promise of good behavior.

There were several old cases up for trial this morning on continuance and a half dozen unfortunates occupied the police dock as well. Sheriff Eveleigh's Thorndike street castle was the destination of the majority. Frederick J. Fogarty, after thinking the matter over carefully, withdrew his appeal and was sent to jail for the next four months. Bartholomew O'Neill and Joseph Dushane accompanied Fogarty to the jail, their terms being one month shorter.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—That American marine men actively are preparing for the opening of the Panama canal was indicated today in reports of the department of commerce showing that seven of the principal merchant ships built in the United States in the fiscal year ending June 30 were for the isthmian trade. Each steamer averages more than 6000 gross tons.

HENRY FORD OF DETROIT
VISITS PRES. WILSON

Continuation of Informal Conferences to Discuss Industrial and Financial Conditions—Other Big Business Men Call

WASHINGTON, July 9.—President

Wilson had another engagement today in continuation of his informal conferences with the heads of "big business" to discuss general industrial and financial conditions of the country. He was prepared to see Henry Ford of Detroit, a committee of bankers from Illinois and a delegation representing the National Association of State Bank Supervisors. The administration's anti-trust program also was expected to form an important part of the discussions.

It was said that Mr. Ford had been invited by the president. He was to be entertained at luncheon at the White House.

Today's engagement was the third in the series of conferences the president had arranged to talk over with leaders in the industrial and financial world general business conditions, as well as measures in congress.

One direct result of the conference yesterday with the Chicago business men is the possibility that the trade commission bill which has passed the house and is now pending in the senate may be modified as to details. The delegation suggested certain modifications which, they contended, would make it a strengthening agency, helpful to all business.

They advocated a trade commission with broad powers of investigation and with authority to order the discontinuance of practices contrary to law. They objected to making all corporations return annual reports to the commission and thought the bill as it now stands contains too many definitions of illegal practices. After listening carefully to their arguments, President Wilson telegraphed the author of the bill, Representative Covington, at his Maryland home to come to Washington to confer with the delegation. He was expected here early today.

FAVOR EQUAL SUFFRAGE

"Political Equality for Both Sexes Necessary for Best Interest of Nation," Say Educators

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 9.—At today's session of the National Education association a resolution is to be introduced endorsing the principle of equal suffrage.

The resolutions committee embodied in its report a resolution stating that the educators of the country believe "political equality for both sexes necessary for the best interest of the nation."

While the business meeting was in session various problems pertaining to the welfare of children were being discussed by the delegates in different departments and plans outlined for the solution of questions vital to the educational world.

Speaking before the department of child hygiene Dr. Louis Rapier of the New York training school for teachers advocated education as a means of eliminating enormous national financial loss due to ill health.

"The average workingman's family has an economic loss of between five and six per cent of the annual income due to ill health," Dr. Rapier said. "The principal method of eliminating this waste is through education."

"City boys with useless experience become convicts, while country boys educated in a natural environment by family responsibility become doctors, lawyers, merchants and teachers," according to Rufus Stanley of Elmira, N. Y., who spoke before the state and national club leaders.

ASHMONT STORE KEEPER BATTLED WITH THUGS IN HIS STORE—ROBBED AND BEATEN

BOSTON, July 9.—Louis A. Cooper, proprietor of the Independent Beef company at 1802 Dorchester avenue, Ashmont, was attacked by a robber, choked, beaten and then thrown into his own refrigerator yesterday afternoon just before 2 o'clock while hundreds of people passed by, including three policemen, who rode past the store on an open car, while the encounter was at its height.

Cooper was quickly revived by the cold, the thermometer registering a few degrees above zero. The refrigerator, a massive affair, stands in the rear of the store. Gaining his feet, he scratched off the frost from the windows and peered out. He saw the robber hastily fumbling about the cash register.

With a blow of his fist he smashed the glass and then used his foot. With the opening thus made he climbed out. The robber, angered because he could not open the register, again attacked Cooper and the two were soon mixing it up on the floor. Cooper shouted for help, but the sound of the unusual commotion had attracted clerks in a neighboring store and they rushed in, while the robber rushed out by a rear door.

Several customers found Mr. Cooper seated on a barrel of potatoes adjusting his clothes. His throat was marked by the fingers of his assailant. Cooper was alone in the store when the stranger walked in.

"I would like a pound and a half of sausage," was the request of the man. Cooper went to the big refrigerator, got the goods and was stepping back into the store when he saw his would-be customer with something in his hand. "What's that you have behind your back?" asked Cooper.

Then came the assault. Mr. Cooper says the man was about 26 years old, light complexion, and husky. He wore a blue serge suit and a checkered golf cap.

WILBUR F. WOODBURY CLAIMS CONTRACT STILL IN FORCE AS MANUAL TRAINING INSTRUCTOR

NEWBURYPORT, July 9.—Wilbur F. Woodbury, instructor in manual training, has brought suit against the city for his unpaid salary. Since the sensational closing of the manual training school by Mayor Landford Feb. 26, which created state-wide interest, the city auditor has refused to approve the payroll of the school department, so far as it applied to Mr. Woodbury's salary.

The school board has taken the position that Mr. Woodbury is still a teacher in the public schools and entitled to the salary voted him at the beginning of the scholastic year. It recently declined to discharge him.

Mr. Woodbury has reported daily for work, but owing to the closing and the removing of the apparatus, he has been unable to continue the teaching of manual training.

Mr. Woodbury was elected in 1911. He was re-elected in June, 1913, to serve for the ensuing year. As his term did not expire until the end of June this year, he was debarred from bringing suit until that time, although his pay was out of last March.

Under the act recently passed by the legislature, which allows the mayor to make up the appropriation budget, Mayor Landford tried no appropriation for manual training and closed the school. He claims that Mr. Woodbury has no contract with the city.

It is expected that the suit will be tried at the October term of the superior court, which sits in this city. The manual training teacher takes the position that by virtue of the contract when he was employed, his salary must be paid.

In spite of the fact that a threatening cloud bank overpended the sky toward sunset, no showers are expected here.

URGES VOTES FOR WOMEN

DUCHESS OF MARLBOROUGH DESCRIBES WORK IN ENGLAND AT MEETING IN NEWPORT, R. I.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 8.—Votes for women were urged yesterday by the Duchess of Marlborough in an address before the Political Equality association. The meeting was held at Marble house, the splendid Newport residence of the duchess's mother, Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont, president of the association, and was attended by many women prominent in the movement for suffrage extension.

The greater part of the duchess's address was devoted to a description of two British reforms in which she is interested, the houses for prisoners' wives and children and the hostels for women.

The hostels, she said, were designed to furnish homes for women and girls who would otherwise be subjected to moral dangers as well as disease and infection in the unhygienic and dirty surroundings of the common lodging houses. Many of the hostels, she said, are now nearly self-supporting.

In the homes for prisoners' wives and children, the women are given employment as seamstresses and laundresses, by which they may maintain their economic independence. Assistance is often given the prisoner when his sentence has expired.

The duchess told one refreshing story of a prisoner who was supplied by the home with money for the purchase of tools. The next day his wife reported that he had been arrested again. "But didn't he buy tools and return to work?" the duchess asked the woman.

"Oh, yes," the wife replied, "but they were burglar's tools and he broke into a house last night."

Show Increase of Business Over Last Year—Lowell Banking Business Done Largely in Boston

If bank clearances can be taken as a business barometer there has been a big improvement in conditions in various New England cities within a year. Lowell, however, does not show up as well as some other cities for the reason that the banking of the mills of

Lowell is done in Boston or outside of Lowell. Although the money is used in the city, no trace of it is to be found in the statements of the clearing house. The June, 1913 and 1914 figures of 11 cities follow:

How to Beautify a Summer Soiled Face

It's really a simple matter to renovate a face soiled by sun, wind or dirt. Ordinary mercerized wax, used like cold cream, will transform the worst old complexion into one of snowy whiteness and velvety softness. It literally peels off the outer veil of surface skin, but so gently, gradually, there's no discomfort. The worn-out skin comes off, not in patches, but evenly, in tiny particles, leaving no evidence of the treatment. The younger, healthier, under-skin, forming the new complexion, is one of captivating loveliness. One ounce of mercerized wax, to be had at any drug store, is enough to remove any tanned, reddened, pimply, freckled or blotchy skin. Apply before retiring, washing it off morning.

Many skins wrinkle easily with every wind that blows, with heat, worry, etc. An excellent wrinkle-remover, because it tightens the skin and strengthens relaxed muscles, is a wash lotion made as follows: Powdered saxatille, 1 oz., dissolved in witch hazel, ½ pt. This gives immediate results.

STRIKE IN ALMSHOUSE

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., July 3.—Desperate over the lack of a meat diet at Lake View, the almshouse in this city, following the edict of the superintendent that "all able-bodied" inmates must work, the inmates went on a strike yesterday.

A large number of them were set to work haymaking on the large almshouse farm. After several meals in which no meat appeared and, they say, little other food of any other kind, they refused yesterday morning to go to the field.

A special session of the board of charities was called. After discussion the inmates were given the desired diet. They returned to work at noon yesterday.

THE NEW MANAGEMENT insists on the stock being reduced $50,000 before stock taking August 1st. Drastic reductions will take place. Profits will be thrown to the winds. The sale is general throughout the store. All kinds of merchandise sold under our roof must be sacrificed. SELL AND SELL NOW are the orders. Tomorrow Morning at 9 O'Clock

It should interest you to save money. It will help you to come here tomorrow "on suspicion" as Elbert Hubbard used to say, that you will find something to make you glad you came.

HUB PERDUE

Hub Perdue is dissatisfied with his new berth in St. Louis, where he was sent by the Boston Braves in exchange for Whitted and Cather. It seems that Hub had designs on New York and would have become a Giant but for the alleged interference of Owner Gaffney, who, he says, blocked the deal. Therefore he has expressed the desire to become a Fed and may soon be drawing salary from the Gilmore organization.

ATHLETICS IN HIGH SCHOOLS
BOSTON, July 9.—Athletics will be compulsory course for all the pupils in the high schools of this city beginning next September. Dr. Franklin B. Dyer, superintendent of schools, announced yesterday. Boston will be the first city in the country to take such action. It is understood. The rule will apply to both boys and girls.

CHALLENGES FREDDIE WELSH
CLEVELAND, O., July 9.—James Dunn, manager for Johnny Kilbane, yesterday issued a challenge to Freddie Welsh of England, new lightweight champion, for a bout between Kilbane and Welsh for the lightweight title.

Rube DeGroff, baseball player and comedian is famous all over New England wherever he goes. He has been with the Lowell club as a comedian during the past three years. Although the Rube has always been well up around the top of the league's entertainment when the evening averages were computed he is probably more noted for his antics on the stage than for his play.

DeGroff is a born entertainer. Even when off the field, he sometimes has been seen in the city. He is a comedian on the same team with the Lowell club has looked up from his seat and thought that a circus was heading for the city when he saw the Rube and his fellow ball players. There is no extra about that at all—DeGroff is funny in everything he does and simply has the knack of tickling the nerves of others.

People who have never seen the Rube should take in a ball game just to see for themselves what kind of a character the Lowell right fielder really is. The local club has probably received more advertising out of the Rube's comedy than any other one thing.

In Hartford last fall during the past season the fans down in Connecticut went wild over the Lowell player's gyrations while on the base. DeGroff is also very witty, and his remarks are not the sort that grow tiresome, nor are they abusive. In fact, the Rube is a wonderful baseball comedian.

Rube hasn't been playing the brand of baseball yet this season that he is capable of. Although he was up over for a few days in his batting, he is only hitting for .253 at present.

DeGroff is a slugging, pure and simple. He stands up there at the plate and takes the healthiest swing at the ball of any man in the league. If he hits the ball square on the nose, we wouldn't dare to say how far it will go, but we have all seen it disappear from sight over the fence on many occasions.

But if the Rube doesn't hit the ball he looks awfully bad. Bets have been made that he would either strike out or make an extra-base hit. And that is just about the way he does.

In the field DeGroff isn't as good as some in the league, but is a mighty steady ball player. He seldom drops a ball once it touches his glove and is too experienced an outfielder to allow a drive to get beyond him very often. DeGroff is a rule hater, his best strike town, at the end of the season so that he may expect more results from his bat from now until the close of the season.

BASEBALL TRADE
CINCINNATI, July 9.—Claude Derrek, the infielder purchased by the Cincinnati National League club from Baltimore was yesterday traded to Chicago in exchange for First Baseman Fred McWitz and Outfielder Cy Williams.

It was for this purpose that Derrek was purchased for a big sum, the trade having been consummated before Derrek's purchase.

WITH THE PADDED MITTS

Just what is going to happen next in the lightweight division? Freddie Welsh had no sooner been awarded the decision over Ritchie than several fight promoters in this country began making overtures for a return match before the close of the summer. Although both men claim to be signed up for a coast bout a better offer from some other promoter might change their meeting place.

And Charlie White, of course, is showing no signs of hashfulness. White claims that as he beat Ritchie in their Milwaukee bout he should have the first crack at Ritchie and is of the opinion that the Briton has no more claim to the title than has he. However, with Ritchie weighing 133 pounds in the Milwaukee mess, Charley might not be saying so much now. At least Ritchie is the man who deserves all of Welsh's attention just at present.

With a return bout in this country Ritchie would probably be the favorite in the betting. The Californian would not be harridan from using his free hand in the clincher under the American style of ring tactics and many critics think that this one factor lost him the fight Tuesday night. Welsh, however, surprised even his own seconds by his vicious rally in the last round and the magnificent manner in which he went at the fighting.

To come back to a prospective bout nearer at home, what do you think of the Matty Baldwin-Gilbert Gallant match? Matty is all ready to meet the Chelsea fighter provided Gallant makes 136 pounds and the match seems to be settled. Gallant won the New England lightweight title by his defeat of Eddie Murphy, but Baldwin thinks that he is the better man of the two. When the two get together the row out to be well worth the price of admission.

Johnny Griffith, the hard hitting Akron, Ohio, lightweight, has been offered $20,000 for four bouts in Australia by Snowy Baker, the Kangaroo promoter. Griffith has sent no word across the water as yet, but it will be strange if the offer does not attract him. There are various quintets of bouts in this country where a boxer of second rate calibre can pull down a like amount.

There has been much talk about a Gardner Brooks-Mickey Brown clash, but nothing but talk has developed thus far. These two boys are undoubtedly the best 115 pounders in New England and although we want to be fair we don't just see how Brown could possibly beat the local boy. The Malden lad is a boxer pure and simple and would depend upon his speed and science to draw down the decision. But Brooks is some boxer himself, has the reach on Brown and can hit harder. This bout would make a hummer for any club to stage.

The Gunboat Smith-Georges Carpenter battle is the next big international fight engagement which will attract attention from both sides of the Atlantic. Bearing in mind always that Smith is a slugger, Gunboat has been learned to box better than ever before. Even in his bout with Sam Lufford in Boston Smith displayed a far greater knowledge of the game than people generally gave him credit for. But Carpenter is touted as being one of the cleverest boxers of any weight today and can also deal out quite a hefty wallop. Should Smith win decisively it is more than likely that a bout between he and Johnson would prove the biggest ring attraction of the year.

Perhaps this is a scheme which local boxing promoters can make use of. Out in San Diego, Cal., four round bouts were inaugurated. Then the limit was jumped to ten rounds and finally Tench Cross and "Red" Watson fought 20 periods. The last bout, however, closed festivities in the boxing line for the lid was put on by the mayor and screwed down tight. However, California isn't Massachusetts nor is San Diego Lowell.

KEITH SUES FOR $10,000

FOR LOSS OF BONDS AND STOCK
—W. S. RADWAY AND MOTHER
ARE DEFENDANTS

BOSTON, July 9.—Edward P. Keith of Brockton has entered suit in the superior court against William S. Radway of Worcester and his mother, Sarah E. Radway of this city, to recover $10,000 for the loss of bonds and stock, as the result of alleged expectation in connection with the Credit Reporting company of New England.

The company was first organized under the laws of Maine, with a capital of $100,000. In 1909 Keith owned 234 shares of stock, worth $30 each at par. On June 30 of last year Radway, he alleges, acquired control of the corporation and put some of his holdings in the name of his mother.

Nominally Keith was vice-president. At the time Radway assumed control there was due Keith $500 for salary, and he alleges that Radway induced him to accept in payment of the salary 20-year 6 per cent. bonds of the corporation. Keith alleges that Radway promised to see that the bonds were redeemed at an early date.

Subsequently, Keith alleges, he was induced, against his wishes, to take $1125 more of the same bonds, for which he gave his note. In December, 1913, Radway formed a new company, styled the Credit Reporting Co. of New England, under the laws of Massachusetts, with a capital of $50,000 in shares of $10 each. Radway subscribed for all the stock of the new corporation.

Then Keith asserts that Radway had the Maine corporation turn over its business, assets and good will to him in exchange for 13,440 shares of stock in the new corporation.

HEIGHT OF 21,200 FEET IN MON-OPLANE

JOHANNESBURG, Germany, July 9.—A world's altitude record for an aeroplane carrying only the aviator was made today by Otto Linnekogel who at the aerodrome here attained a height of 6600 metres or approximately 21,200 feet in his monoplane.

The existing record was held by M. LeGagneux, a Frenchman, who flew to a height of 6120 metres.

Carpenters Met

The Carpenters' union, local 1613, held its regular business session in the carpenter's hall in the tunnels, building last night. Business of an important nature was transacted, and seven new members were admitted. Several applications for membership were also received. After the meeting an impromptu entertainment was given and the numbers were all good. The report of the secretary showed all members to be working and the union in a good financial condition.

Street Railway Men's Union

The Amalgamated Association of Street Railway and Electric Railway Employees of America, of which the two locals 250 and 551 of this city are affiliated, was organized at Indianapolis, Indiana in September, 1892 by Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor. There were forty cities that had local organizations that responded to the call for the formation of the association. It was the first organization of its kind to be placed in proper working order the memorable panic of 1893 swept over the country and the employees quickly took advantage of the demoralized industrial conditions that the panic produced to destroy the newly formed organization. In 1895 a convention was held in Cleveland, Ohio, and W. D. Mahan took up the work of trying to reorganize and establish the organization. This took several years, for the companies everywhere were opposed to the organization and fiercely contested the rights of the employees to organize.

Whenever men attempted to organize and the fact became known to the company, before the men were fully united on the system, they were discharged and their organization was destroyed. This made it necessary for the men at that time to organize secretly. Secret organization was necessarily slow and tedious, and this, coupled with the fact that they had no funds to finance the work, made it all the more disagreeable and hard, and there was made a brave good stand after making a struggle to organize under these conditions, gave up the battle and considered it hopeless. But they held their conventions annually. At the time of holding these conventions the officers always made it a rule to donate their salaries in order to clear the books and start anew. It was under these conditions that these men worked for the first four years. During the year 1897 things began to change for the better and the organization began to advance slowly in membership and in strength. From that time on the growth has been steady. Today the association has 207 local organizations throughout the United States and Canada in perfect working condition and in good standing. The majority of these local divisions have written agreements with the companies. The other divisions are working.

HOW A MAN'S LIVER DEFENDS HIS LIFE

The liver is usually a quiet, unassuming organ, and we do not think much about it. It has, however, protective functions that should command respect.

In the process of intestinal indigestion there are set free what physicians and scientists call "toxic bodies," in other words poisons. If these poisons enter into the circulation of the blood, biliousness or sick headache results.

Regularly the liver is able to destroy these toxic bodies but if it fails in its work they quickly form in amounts excessive enough to trouble. Headache, constipation, dizziness, furred tongue, wind on the stomach, and complexion are the means by which nature gives warning that the liver needs help.

The remedy is to stimulate the liver by the use of Pinkettes, the gentle laxative pills that do not grip or purge but simply assist nature. Harmful acids and salts of the liver are also taken to correct. Pinkettes, taken regularly for a time, really do correct constipation.

Your own druggist can supply you with Pinkettes or they will be sent by mail, postpaid, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., at 25 cents per bottle. Send for helpful pamphlet.

upon voluntary and unwritten understanding. These written agreements specify wages, hours of labor and other conditions. They also provide for arbitration in case of any dispute between the company and the association that can not be mutually agreed upon. This is a great advance from early conditions. When they first sought to establish an understanding with the companies they were refused consideration, and when they appealed for arbitration, they were told that there was nothing to arbitrate.

QUINCY MAN DROWNED

ALBERT M. ASHLAND FELL OVERBOARD FROM SLOOP—EFFORTS TO RESUSCITATE HIM FAILED

REVERE, July 9.—Albert M. Ashland of 22 Beebe road, Quincy, was drowned shortly after 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon by falling overboard from the sloop of James S. Hoffes of 318 Waltham avenue, Beachmont, with whom he was sailing, near the Revere breakwater.

Guy B. Fisher of 24 Campbell ave., made a valiant attempt to save the life of Ashland, but the man probably died while Fisher was rowing him to shore in his tender.

Fisher was working on his sloop, the Parada, which was at her moorings, when Hoffes and Ashland sailed past him, inviting him to accompany them on a sail. Fisher replied that he had not time to do so.

When the Hoffes boat was about 150 yards away from him, Fisher saw Ashland, who was standing up, fall overboard and begin to struggle in the water. Hoffes shouted for help and Fisher, accompanied by Adam Benene, who was working with him on the Parada, jumped into the tender and rowed as fast as he could toward Ashland.

The latter swam for a few moments, then sank, coming to the surface a few minutes later and floating with his face down. He was in this position when Fisher reached him and hauled him into the tender. Although unconscious, Fisher feels certain that Ashland was still living when he snatched him from the water.

Fisher rowed rapidly for the shore, while Benene worked over the unconscious form of Ashland, succeeding in getting a quantity of water from his lungs. Upon reaching Ocean pier, Fisher shouted for a doctor, but there was a delay of more than 20 minutes before one arrived upon the scene.

Meanwhile every effort was made to resuscitate Ashland, but everything failed to produce a spark of life. Dr. R. W. Brown, who also worked over the body, had no better results and Ashland was finally pronounced dead. The body was taken to the Metropolitan Park police station, where it was claimed early in the evening by Mrs. Ashland.

TWO BOYS DROWNED

BYRON WARREN AND ELMER CARPENTER OF FALL RIVER VICTIMS NEAR Y. M. C. A. BOYS' CAMP

LITTLE COMPTON, R. I., July 9.—Two members of a Young Men's Christian association boys' camp were drowned in a pond between here and Westport harbor yesterday. The victims were Byron Warren, aged 20, and Elmer Carpenter, 13 years old, both of Fall River, Mass.

When an ear went overboard, Carpenter jumped and swam for it, then cried for help. Warren went to his assistance, but almost immediately both went under. Neither came to the surface again.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

R. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

"The House of Temperley," a five reel photo drama produced under the supervision of G. K. Hollingsworth, the London film magnate, will be shown at the R. F. Keith theatre the remaining three days of this week, beginning this afternoon. Hollingsworth, who has had much experience in the directing of motion picture masterpieces, selected "The House of Temperley" as one of his best stories, as the drama with which to startle London. Giving it the name of "The House of Temperley," it was shown many weeks in various London theatres, and for three weeks at the Strand Theatre, in New York. Everywhere it has met with a warm reception, and doubtless it will prove a striking feature in this city. The story, like all of Doyle's, is chock full of action and it holds some of the well known impossible things which fit so well into motion pictures nowadays. A realistic contest between the hero and the bad man of the story cuts the climax. No body can watch this without having his blood stirred. In addition to the five-reel feature there will be three other single reels, embracing comedy and dramatic subjects. Admission to performances will remain the same as heretofore; 10 cents, with a few seats reserved at 15 cents, and children five cents.

CANOE LAKE THEATRE

It would be hard to imagine a comedy sketch so funny and so heartily laughed at as "Brown's Vacation" is being presented by the Roman's Musical Revue at Canoe Lake park theatre this week and the company of artists who have said it seem to enter into the fun with the rest of those present. Barney Williams as Mr. Brown is a veritable cyclone of fun and the rest of the cast do not allow him to monopolize the fun-making either. The description of the "hottest-of-hotness" vacation in the mountains with its terrifying incidents all vouched for by the deacon of the church, is side-splitting to put it mildly. May Wright, a well-light, handsome appearing girl with a splendid voice and more than the usual amount of ability as an actress, figures strongly when the honors are passed out, being "in the front row" so to speak. In all of her numbers she has received cordially by the patrons and promises to be one of the big favorites of the summer season. Miss Nancy Shannon, the prima-donna with the big voice, really needs no mention, the patrons themselves saying about all that could be said. The Oxford Four, theatre with enthusiasm from their first appearance to their last and figured strongly in an after-piece of the audience in a Field's type which kept the audience in continual roars. Gordon and the Bligh Sisters made a hit with their Texas Tommy Dance.

of theatre have by special arrangements with the Thanover Film company obtained the rights for the production of the entire series of "The Million Dollar Mystery" and the first episode will be shown in two reels at both theatres Friday and Saturday and will be continued each week hereafter on the same days. The entire series will take twenty-three weeks and ten thousand dollars will be given to the man, woman or child who solves the mystery. To do so successfully each episode should be seen as it is produced at these two theatres each week. This picture is the result of many months' work on the part of the company and has cost over a half a million dollars to produce. Never before has the moving picture public been offered a production of such magnitude. The story is filled with thrills from beginning to end and it is said to surpass in interest either "What Happened to Mary" or "The Perils of Pauline." and is acknowledged by the press and public as one of the most fascinating and charming serial stories ever shown.

The Lowell public is fortunate in having the opportunity of seeing this picture which the great modern detective, Wm. J. Burns, has acknowledged to be a master work of incen-

and the latest and best pictures in the market are shown. Next Sunday the Spindle City band will give an afternoon and evening concert at Lakeview Park, offering a selected program.

THE OWL THEATRE

The Owl's program of photo-plays contains many new and interesting features. "Through Dante's Planes," a four-part drama, is a cleverly plotted play that will not fail to interest "film" a two-part feature is also a new drama, while "Izzy," a Keystone comedy, two other subjects and Jack Dalton's singing will complete one of the genuinely good programs of the week. The sliding roof keeps you cool and comfortable.

THE KASINO

Now and then one hears a protest against "that nonsense" of orchestral music, and frequently, with good reason, but the same is not true of Miners' orchestra, which introduces quality and variety most pleasing to all. To entertain successfully requires versatility. A good orchestra sometimes goes stale if its members have little in reserve. The Miner organization always has something up its sleeve to keep people interested. Dancing every night and on the Saturday afternoon.

STAMP OUT ANARCHY

It must have become apparent to those at the head of great labor organizations that at times of labor unrest undesirable elements strive to inject red anarchy into the situation. In the case of the Lowell strike, the anarchists have been doing all they can to create a feeling of lawlessness and violence.

When a strike is in progress, the hope of a peaceful settlement is often dashed by the actions of a few lawless individuals. These individuals are often the ones who are most easily influenced by the suggestions of the anarchists. They are the ones who are most likely to resort to violence and to create a feeling of lawlessness.

The greatest danger is that the members of one party will help another party. This is a danger that must be kept in mind. It is a danger that must be kept in mind. It is a danger that must be kept in mind.

The eyes of this country and of the world are on our government at the present time. When such incidents are in the air, so closely following on the recent assassination of the Austrian heir and his consort in Bosnia, it is wise that the American toleration of the past should be shown. It is prudent that the dark plotters of every country in Europe should abuse the liberty of this free land and attack our institutions with impunity.

The great market of American people are law-abiding, sane, and unemotional in all relating to their political and industrial life. They will not for a moment countenance any injustice, even to anarchists, and they will demand that the rights of free speech and personal freedom be observed. But they will back up their officials in every station who seek to prevent the making of bombs and the throwing of them in this land of democracy.

Here is something for the jinxes to take up instead of war with Mexico or any other nation. Let us in peace and righteousness arm ourselves against the anarchy which is growing up and thriving in our own country and let us strive to exterminate it so thoroughly that the poisonous brand of anarchy and conspirators against justice may perish automatically for want of their presidential atmosphere.

ABOLISHING PARTY TIES

One of the last important acts of the 121st legislature was the passage of the bill for the abolition of party enrollment in the direct primaries. With a referendum cause attached, and in due time the citizens of the commonwealth will be called upon to pass on its merits. It is almost certain that it will be adopted. The direct primary itself is a trend of modern politics to get away from anything looking like technicality and red tape and more towards the adoption of direct methods. Yet it is not well for the public to entice too much over the innovation, for it may be disappointing in some important phases just as the direct primary itself has been. The principle of the thing is most acceptable, but it will be at the mercy of the ruling public and the voting public does not as yet lay claim to any great idealism. In the machinations of practical politics, the abolition of party enrollment may be abused until it is worse than the evil it wishes to supplant. It remains in the hands of the electorate to make it an instrument of good or of ill, just as they may happen to choose. In the abstract, the proposed reform should have two most important results: the driving away of undesirable influences on the voting public and the cultivation of a larger vote at primaries and elections. Hereafter, many will be compelled to adhere to the party tag, perhaps against their soundest convictions, and some will be driven from voting because the party designation forced them around too strictly. Now, there can be little excuse for this type of individual to neglect his voting privilege or duty. The party enrollment will stand between a man and his conscience.

The greatest danger is that the members of one party will help another party. This is a danger that must be kept in mind. It is a danger that must be kept in mind. It is a danger that must be kept in mind.

WAREBURG WITHDRAWS

The refusal of Mr. Paul M. Warburg of the New York banking house of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. to serve on the new federal reserve board has been an undoubted disappointment to President Wilson and in some degree to the country at large. For Mr. Warburg was regarded as the pre-eminent strong man of a strong combination. He also possesses the detailed knowledge of international finance among the intricacies of which the new board will conduct many important activities. His resignation is said not to be final and it is no secret that the president would like him to reconsider his action and to serve on the very important body for which he is so thoroughly qualified.

Judgment of Mr. Warburg's withdrawal of his name will vary very much according to the bias of the individual who discusses it. For it was undoubtedly due to a very delicate weighing of the attendant circumstances. Owing to his connection with leaders of finance, or for some other such reason, the senate committee did not confirm his name immediately but selected him for a number of questions arranged for by the new law. This procrastination was quite natural and it was quite as natural that Mr. Warburg should resent the delay and the intention of interviewing him and that he should decline an honor which he did not seek. If he persists in his determination the loss is upon the country but it is problematical if the blame is on anybody, except on the gentleman himself, who showed almost abnormal sensitiveness.

It would be easy for the superficial observer to reflect that the refusal of Mr. Warburg to give an account of his financial stewardship of himself shows his unwillingness for a high post calling for patriotic service and utmost disinterestedness, but this would be unjust. Mr. Warburg, despite his unpopularity, has had a clean record and there is nothing to prevent his accepting the momentous post with honor. Perhaps when the import of the congressional delay becomes plain to him he will accept it gracefully and acknowledge its importance. It is to be hoped so, for the sake of the currency law which will work well in relation to the ability and simplicity of those selected to administer its provisions. If he persists in refusing, the president will not find it hard to fill the place acceptably.

OIL SPRINKLING

The Fall River Herald, commenting on some conditions of oil sprinkling on the streets of that city issues some warnings that are pertinent to Lowell, where municipal oil sprinkling has scarcely passed the experimental stage. It seems that in the sister city the dust is beginning to blow on some of the streets that have been sprinkled, and the condition is far worse than before the treatment. For dust carrying oil particles is anything but a welcome visitor to the household. It is suggested that in the early stages of street oiling many applications should be given until the possibility of dust blowing is removed. "Complaint was made last year," says the Fall River Herald, "that the service was superficial and that in order to accomplish what was desired the surface of the highways should be treated with oil-sprinkling, as has been done elsewhere and with several of the in other cities. After that, a coating of oil-sprinkling was applied in the spring and the surface was left to last through the year."

Undoubtedly on many of our streets there should be attended to the application of oil-sprinkling, but so that Commissioner Morse in some cases the streets were not so well cared for as they should be. Then, again, rain fell immediately after some of the applications and washed much of the oil away.

SHINGLES TO GO

Warned by the lesson of its neighbor, Fall River, Lowell is said to be considering a municipal regulation which would eventually banish the wooden shingles from the roofs of the city. The proposed ordinance is expected to be passed in August 1, and will set a date, possibly 1922, when all roofs must be covered with non-combustible material. Mayor Newhall is in favor of the innovation, provided it is worked so that no unnecessary burden is imposed on property owners.

UP TO COMMISSIONER MORSE

Strike or no strike, it is up to Commissioner Morse to keep the work of the street department moving without interruption. To allow the entire public to be inconvenienced by the strike of a few teamsters, will bring criticism not to the strikers but to the commissioner in charge. Don't let the paving job lag, Mr. Commissioner. There are other jobs to be attended to when that is finished or before, and the precautions are the neglected condition of the thoroughfares entering our city is the possible consequences.

SEEN AND HEARD

Have you had that vacation feeling come over you yet? Curiously mistaken ideas keep many people from developing their talents. Many a harmless looking bottle contains a lot of fish stories. And one good action is worth more than a hundred good intentions. Gold may be the key to society, but poverty is the strongest bar. It isn't what people expect of you tomorrow. It's today's actions that count.

Dreaming sweet dreams comes as natural to a girl as a fly to a plate of butter. With one foot in the grave it doesn't take a man very long to get there with both feet. One way not to be happy is to have more time and money than you know what to do with.

The New York Times says wise is the woman who gets through changing her mind before she arrives. The Pittsburgh Eagle finds the first Roosevelt commandment to be: Thou shalt have no other boss before me. The Albany Journal finds that some men do a lot of talking about the lot of talking they say women do.

A maid of 20 tries to act like a widow of 40; a widow of 49 tries to act like a maid of 20—and there you are. The Florida Times-Union says there is only one creature with as much curiosity as a woman and that is a man.

The Chicago News says of course an heiress may be honest, but if she waits for a young man to tell her so she will never get next to the fact. The Taunton Gazette remarks that thousands of people are flocking to the bathing resorts in order to be able to condemn the shocking costumes intelligently.

The Cleveland Plaindealer says a good many people are perfectly willing to make hay while the sun shines provided they can find a steady place in which to do the making. Luke McLuke says: "The old-fashioned

What is the condition of the street connecting with the boulevard what was desired the surface of the highways should be treated with oil-sprinkling, as has been done elsewhere and with several of the in other cities. straight answer to a plain question. "Now," he demanded, "were you or were you not in the plaintiff's office at 4 p. m. on this particular afternoon?" "If I had been," replied the exasperated witness, "how—" But before he could get further, counsel interrupted him. "I want no explanations," he rapped out, "merely a plain answer! I suggest that you were in the plaintiff's office. Is that so?" The witness pursed his lips, then obstinately shook his head. "Well," continued the barrister, "I've answered you," retorted the witness; "I shook my head."

STRETCHING THE STORY

"You'd scarcely believe," said the man with the long whiskers, "how excessively damp it is along the Gulf coast of Texas. We all use rawhide harness, and a real hot, damp day sure does cause the tugs to stretch amazingly. One day I drove down on the Brazos river bottom more than a mile from home and loaded up three-quarters of a cord of wood. Just as I had finished loading a shower came up and the water that fell was as hot as the so-called hot coffee in restaurants. Well, I started the mules and drove on home, and when I got there the wagon was still down on the bottom and the tugs were stretched out as small as shoestrings. What did I do to get the wood home? That's easy. I just unharnessed and threw the gears over a stump in the back yard. Fifteen minutes later the sun shone out, dried up the dampness and in less than an hour that wagon came creeping up the hill. Yes, sir, that's a fact."

WORTH WHILE

He doesn't care that I'm not rich. Or that I'm poor and dressed. That I'm a toiler in the ditch. He hasn't even guessed. My faults that other people know. He doesn't even see. For every night, with eyes aglow, He tumbles up to me. Although I'm just a common man. An ordinary day. His cheek to mine he's glad to rub. Before I go away. And every night when I return. He's glad as he can be. And, though but little I may earn, He tumbles up to me.

To come to me he'd leave a king. If one were sitting near. Up to me he'd leave a king. If one were sitting near. Up to me he'd leave a king. If one were sitting near.

And as I've reason to be glad. And reason to rejoice. It's worth the world to be a dad. To be a baby's choice. There is no prize fame can bestow. No joy can ever be. So real as when with eyes aglow, He tumbles up to me.

SPECIAL DAYS
Dr. Anna Howard Shaw wants a mother's day. We have already mothers' day and fathers' day; mothers' day may come next after the suggest special days for the bachelor uncle, the old child, grandma, grandpa, mother-in-law, and all the rest. FOREIGN POLICIES

So far, the one bright deed in President Wilson's foreign policy is the repeal of the Panama tolls provision. Even that was extravagantly qualified to save any possible right to make such distinction. And, broadly, that repeal was but a backing out from a hogwash delusion of the obligation of an international contract. The $5,000,000 treaty with Colombia is the best but a late and shabby settling-up for a brazen wrong done by a preceding president.—Lowell Sun.

THE MEXICAN ELECTION

None of the meager accounts of Sunday's election in Mexico report more than two per cent of the vote out, even in the parts of the country Huerta controls. As no election can constitutionally be held while a rebellion is in progress, of course the balloting reported to record a majority for Huerta as regular president, is only a joke. It is not easy to see what Huerta could be doing at all, unless to claim a vote of confidence to dignify his retirement. It had been supposed that his scheme was to make a successor out of Lacerdun, to whom as secretary of state, the position of provisional president, legally fell after the murder of Madero. He held it just 26 minutes, to take the oath and resign, while Huerta stood by.—Worcester Post.

ROOSEVELT IN NEW YORK

WHETHER HE WILL RUN FOR GOVERNOR OR NOT MAY BE DECIDED AT TODAY'S MEETING

OYSTER BAY, July 8.—Whether Colonel Roosevelt will accept the progressive nomination for governor of New York may possibly be decided today at a meeting at progressive national headquarters here of the state leaders. Delegations of progressives from various parts of the state said frankly that they had not even considered another name for the head of the ticket.

Colonel Roosevelt came to New York by train from Oyster Bay and went at once to progressive headquarters. He declined to talk politics but intimated that he might have something to say later.

Although Colonel Roosevelt has said several times that he would not accept the nomination he admits that his denials have made little impression on his political associates.

Ever since his return from Europe, Col. Roosevelt has been receiving letters and telegrams from progressive leaders in various parts of the country urging him not to accept the nomination. In some instances these messages charged that the New York leaders were willing to run the chance of injuring the party in the union for the sake of making a good showing in this state.

Among those who talked with Col. Roosevelt were H. P. Gardner, national committee man from Maine and progressive candidate for governor of that state, and Irving E. Vernon, progressive state chairman in Maine.

INTENDED BRIDE MISSING

MISS ELIZABETH ZALOUSKA, AGED NINETEEN, DISAPPEARS MYSTERIOUSLY

Mystery surrounds the sudden disappearance of Miss Elizabeth Zalowska of this city, aged 19 years, who was to have been married Sunday in the Lithuanian church at the corner of Rogers and Pleasant streets to Stanislas Chlirawicz, aged 20, who is employed in the Saco-Lowell machine shop here. The bride-to-be left home Tuesday and the matter has been reported to the police, but as yet no clue as to her whereabouts has been discovered.

Miss Zalowska and her parents have been in this country for a little over a year. So far as is known by the young woman's parents or friends, she had no objection to her intended husband and no reason for her disappearance has been brought to light.

The prospective bride lived with her parents in Bent's court off Gorham street and has been employed in one of the local mills which is closed this week for the summer vacation. Last Monday afternoon she and her mother visited several downtown stores and secured articles needed for the wedding next Sunday. She said nothing, according to her mother, against the coming marriage.

Speaking of the matter, the would-be groom said that he went with the consent of his intended bride three weeks ago to the Lithuanian priest and arranged for the marriage. He appears to be greatly worried over the disappearance of Miss Zalowska and at times entertains fears for her safety.

The girl can read and write in both the English and Polish languages, but, it is said, she had no correspondence with anyone in this country. She was about five feet three inches tall and of light complexion.

SUIT AGAINST CAN CO.

TESTIMONY GIVEN BY FIVE WITNESSES AT RESUMPTION OF THE HEARING

BOSTON, July 8.—Testimony was given by five witnesses today at the resumption of the government's suit against the American Can Co. for alleged violation of the Sherman anti-trust law. Three of the five witnesses, Samuel Marzinski, Uriah B. Campbell and Charles H. Campbell, were manufacturers who had sold their businesses to the American company.

Marzinski, who did business as the New England Can Co., testified that he sold to the American company for $250,000 his business, which represented an original investment of $35,000.

RESOLUTE WON CONTEST

VANITIE CROSSED LINE FIRST, BUT HERRESHOFF SLOOP WON BY TIME ALLOWANCE

NEW YORK, July 8.—Vanitie crossed the line first in today's race but Resolute won the contest on time allowance. The yachts finished as follows:

Vanitie 3:43.56
Resolute 3:41.01

As Vanitie allowed Resolute about a minute and 20 seconds, the Herreshoff sloop wins today's contest by about 30 seconds.

It was the closest and best sailed contest that has been held between the two sloops since they first met off Larchmont, N. Y., early in June.

DEAD MAN ELECTED

W. J. Mosley Who Died Ten Years Ago Was Elected in County Primary

JACON, Ga., July 8.—W. J. Mosley, who died ten years ago, was elected a member of the 11th county democratic executive committee in the recent county primary. Two thousand voters cast ballots for him without knowing that for a decade Mosley had been in his grave. A relative who had been in newspaper of Mosley's election today informed officials of the error.

DISAPPEARED AGAIN

George Surprenant, the young man who caused his parents considerable anxiety over his disappearance about a month ago, returned to his home Saturday and Tuesday morning he again went out and his present whereabouts are unknown. Two years ago he suffered an injury to his head and he has been erratic ever since.

AS RESULT OF STRIKE

The paving work in Gorham street, which it was granted is still being held up because of the fact that Mr. Carmichael's guess is correct, Coal Teamsters' strike, the street people are fairly standing on their feet. Members of the municipal council in Lowell because of the holdup of the paving work in Gorham street. It was stated today that the municipal council is refusing to handle the work unless the public in general is somewhat more understanding of the situation. his own teams and that I would deduct the cost of teaming from the bill. It means considerable expense to me to put the car there, but I wanted to do what I could to help out the paving job. I cannot understand why there should be any hitch now. Our teamsters are not in any way connected with this particular car. The city teamsters and street employees in general are, as I understand it, mostly union men. In that event I do not see why they should refuse to handle the car.

Mr. Morse said yesterday he was in hopes that the conference between the state board of arbitration and arbitration would result in some tangible understanding between the parties in question and inasmuch as the state board did not make any headway, Mr. Morse will have to take the reins in his own hands. It has been suggested that the mayor call a special meeting of the municipal council to take some action in the matter, but it is not Mr. Morse's first experience with men and unions and the chances are he will straighten matters out without the assistance of his brother members in the council. The straightening out process cannot come too quickly as the demand for Gorham street as a public thoroughfare is very great and not only that, but the people in the Highlands are up in arms, too, over the Westford street job. If the holdup in Gorham street should continue for any considerable length of time, it would mean "good night" to the Westford street job and they can see the handwriting on the wall. Something has got to be done right away and Mr. Morse will certainly have the assistance of his brother members on the board and public support as well in any move that he may make toward the resumption of operations, in full, in Gorham street.

Sewer in Chestnut Street
Sewer department men are busily engaged in removing a portion of an old drain in Chestnut street in order to lay a city sewer there. The old drain was built in 1882 and it will be replaced in Chestnut street by 500 feet of sewer that will connect with the High street sewer. The old drain, in question starts up around Nesmith street, comes down over streets and crosses lots including the Immaculate Conception church grounds and thence into the river. The old sewer has been intercepted at various points and

JUAN VELASCO EXECUTED

YERBA CRUZ, July 8.—Delay in the payment of a ransom of 1,000,000 pesos has resulted in the execution by Zapata of Juan Velasco, the manager of a cotton manufacturing concern, who was taken prisoner near Atlixco, State of Yucatan, according to Velasco's brother, who left Yucatan yesterday for the purpose of obtaining his release, but returned last night from his unsuccessful mission.

The prisoner Velasco was compelled to send to the officials of the company in Puebla the demand for the ransom, and Velasco's brother started out immediately to aid him. He proceeded to Apizaco, near Puebla, where he was going to get in touch with the Zapata, when he was informed that the captive had already been killed.

When he related the story to his aged mother and sister they faintly. The circumstances of the case have been placed on record at the French consulate, with the claim that Velasco was a Frenchman, not a Spaniard, as was previously thought.

MATRIMONIAL

At 2 o'clock this afternoon the marriage of Mr. Adolph Dufresne and Miss Emma Doucet took place at St. Joseph's rectory, the officiating clergyman being Rev. E. J. A. Chaput, O. M. I. The witnesses were Joseph Doucet and Joseph Dufresne. The couple left immediately after the ceremony for Boston, where they will spend their honeymoon. They will return to this city Saturday evening at which time they will be tendered a reception at the home of the bride's parents, 13 West Merrimack street. They will make their home at 185 Moody street.

SALE OF WALPOLE CO. POSTPONED
BOSTON, July 8.—Judge Dodge, in the U. S. district court, has postponed until Aug. 12 the sale of the Walpole Tire & Rubber company property scheduled for today. Attorney Curtis G. Hartzel, representing the stockholders' reorganization committee, petitioned for the postponement on the ground that the creditors' committee had reached an agreement which contemplated a method of payments to creditors in full and an opportunity for the existing stockholders to continue an interest in the reorganized business. It is understood that the reorganization plans to buy in the property. The latest arrangement promises to protect both creditors and stockholders.

ON EDUCATIONAL TOPICS

ST. PAUL, July 8.—With harmony in the ranks of the National Education association assured as a result of the withdrawal from the presidential race last night of Dr. David Johnson of Rockville, S. C., and L. R. Alderman of Portland, Ore., in favor of Dr. David Starr Jordan, the convention today put aside political activity and held 32 meetings for the discussion of educational topics.

Committees reported and speakers discussed salaries, mental tests for children, school gardens, use of moving pictures in schools, sex hygiene and other problems.

Segregation of mentally defective children was recommended in a paper read by Dr. Franklin Barrows of Buffalo, New York, state medical inspector of schools, before the department of special education.

That moving pictures are destined to revolutionize the contentment of teaching was the contention of speakers at a meeting devoted to the discussion of their use. They said that motion pictures give visibility and quicken the imagination of the child to a far greater degree in a few minutes' time than the text book would in days of study.

Representatives of smaller schools are behind a resolution which is before the committee on resolutions disapproving of the Sage foundation, the Carnegie foundation, the various Rockefeller boards and similar organizations and the board for the pensioning of teachers in the big educational institutions. The resolution recites that the foundations injure the small schools and demands that a committee be appointed by the association to investigate with a view to learning whether the various foundations and boards in reality have stimulated teachers to study and industry or have decreased their ambition by providing them with a certainty of livelihood after their teaching days have ended.

GOING TODAY

The annual outing of the members of the Children of Mary sodality of the Immaculate Conception church was held today at Silver Lake. The trip to the summer resort was made by special cars, which left East Merrimack street near the church at 9 o'clock this morning, and it was a most pleasant one.

Out-door amusements of all descriptions were enjoyed and a dainty dinner was served on the green. The clergyman present was the pastor, Rev. Lawrence F. Tighe, O. M. I., Rev. Fr. Sullivan, O. M. I., Rev. Fr. McCartin, O. M. I., and Rev. Fr. McQuaid, O. M. I. The return trip will be made late this afternoon.

The boys and girls of the West Chelmsford church Sunday school enjoyed a picnic at Lakeview today. The children, accompanied by their teachers, were conveyed to the park in electric cars and they spent a most enjoyable day.

RETURNS FROM IRELAND

Humphrey O'Sullivan arrived in Lowell today from his visit to Ireland in the best of health and spirits and most enthusiastic over the prospects for the future of the old country.

While in Cork Mr. O'Sullivan read John Redmond's appeal to the Irish in America and immediately responded with the following letter to the Irish leader:

Victoria Hotel, Cork, June 25, '14.
Dear Mr. Redmond:
I have read the appeal which you have made to our race in America and I am anxious at once to respond to it. I am just now paying a visit to Ireland and I am impressed beyond measure at the strength and vitality of the Irish Volunteer movement. Your recognition of the movement and the practical and earnest support which you have given now make it incumbent on every Irishman in every part of the world to give prompt and practical assistance and I therefore enclose my check for 100 pounds. On my return to America I trust to be able to organize further assistance and to show that you have behind you the strength and fidelity of our race in the United States.

Yours faithfully,
Humphrey O'Sullivan, Esq.
In reply to Mr. O'Sullivan's letter,

HUMPHREY O'SULLIVAN

Hon. John E. Redmond sent the following: June 26, 1914.

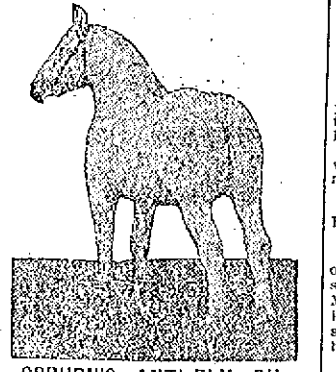

Dear Mr. O'Sullivan:
Pray accept my heartfelt thanks for your letter and your generous contribution of 100 pounds toward the Irish Volunteers.

I trust that on your return visit you will find a thoroughly organized and armed force in existence.
Very truly yours,
John E. Redmond.
Victoria Hotel, Cork.

Mr. O'Sullivan says the organization of the volunteers in Ireland is a clever stroke and he bears a message from Mr. Redmond to the friends of Ireland in this country for united action in support of the volunteers until the home rule question is settled.

The contribution of $500 was greatly appreciated by Mr. Redmond and other leaders.

Beverly Woman Tells Police That Directors Turn Agreement Down — Tell McReynolds "String" Law Cannot be Accepted

BEVERLY, July 9.—What the police fear may develop into a murder was brought to the attention of Chief of Police S. Walker Woodberry late yesterday afternoon, when Mrs. Benedetto DiValo appeared at station 1 and asked the aid of the police to assist her in finding her husband, Gatano DiValo, who, she said, has been missing from his home, 2 Cabot street, since Monday morning.

Mrs. DiValo told a most exciting story to Chief Woodberry in connection with the disappearance of her husband. She stated that on Saturday morning, July 4, about 3 o'clock, her husband, with Mr. and Mrs. Gatano Barlato, who also reside at 2 Cabot street, left the house to go berrying.

About 11 o'clock the same morning, DiValo and Mrs. Barlato returned to the house, but Mrs. Barlato was not with them. Mrs. DiValo said she asked her husband and Mrs. Barlato as to the whereabouts of Mr. Barlato, and they informed her that he had secured a job as a farmhand and would not return home for a month.

She said her husband acted very queer and appeared restless. On Sunday morning, she said, he informed her that he had killed Barlato and dragged his body into the woods about one-half mile from the Wenham line, where Barlato had been at work cleaning trees about a week ago.

She went on to tell that he said he stabbed Barlato several times and after he was sure that Barlato was dead, he took his body to the woods and told the police about the killing. She said she became frightened and promised not to say a word about the story he had told her.

On Monday morning, according to Mrs. DiValo's story, her husband informed her that he wanted to go to Boston to buy some tobacco for the store which he conducts in the house at 2 Cabot street. He demanded all the money she had, which amounted to $50. This she gave him and after securing it he left the house.

It was also brought out by the questioning of the police that her husband was quite fond of Mrs. Barlato and had paid considerable attention to her for some little time. The Barlato family occupied the upper rooms of the 11-2-story house.

She said Mr. Barlato returned home to his supper Friday night and inquired why his supper was not ready. Mrs. Barlato then served the supper, but would not eat with him. Barlato then refused to eat, thinking there was poison in the food, according to Mrs. DiValo's story.

When her husband would not eat the food Mrs. Barlato threw it out the window into the river, which is at the rear of the house. After a little while her husband made up with Mrs. Barlato and she asked him if he would get some berries as she liked them very much.

He told her that he did not know where they could go berrying, and on this reply Mrs. Barlato said that she and Mrs. DiValo would go in the morning with him, which was July 4.

After learning the story, Chief of Police Woodberry left for the Wenham line, where he met Tree Warden Jas. D. Barnes, and inquired of him if Barlato had been in his employ. On learning that he had, the two men went to the last place in the woods where he had been at work.

They then searched about the woods for traces of a body, but after two hours' effort gave up for the day at 6 o'clock last night.

The search will be continued today by Chief Woodberry, with the aid of officers from Beverly, Wenham and Hamilton. Mrs. Barlato has been missing since Monday morning, according to Mrs. DiValo. It is the opinion of Mrs. DiValo that Mrs. Barlato is with DiValo, for she says they left the house about the same time, 3 o'clock, Monday morning. She has not returned since.

NEW YORK, July 9.—The directors of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad yesterday rejected the agreement made with the federal department of justice and the authorities of Massachusetts for the divorce of the Boston & Maine railroad.

In resolutions unanimously adopted they put the blame on the conditions set by the Massachusetts legislature, the so-called "string" legislation, which would allow the commonwealth of Massachusetts at any time to take the Boston & Maine shares in question at a price fixed by agreement or the courts.

These conditions, they say, "are so different from anything which was contemplated at the time of the original agreement that the board has not the right to accept them and involve such severe and apparently necessary loss that it ought not to recommend or expect their acceptance by the stockholders themselves."

This conclusion, which reaffirms their statement of June 25, the directors set forth at greater length in a statement to the stockholders, copies of which they have sent to Gov. David I. Walsh of Massachusetts, Pres. Calvin Coolidge of the senate, Speaker Graham D. Coughlin of the house and Chairman Frederick J. Macdonald of the public service commission of that state.

In this statement they take issue with the argument that the "string" provision gives the commonwealth of Massachusetts no new power since the shares can always be taken by the holders themselves.

"To express our regret to the attorney general of the United States that the conditions on which the Massachusetts legislature is willing to permit the company to try out this agreement with the department of justice are so different from anything which was contemplated at the time of the original agreement that the board has not the right to accept them and that they involve such severe and apparently necessary loss that it ought not to recommend or expect their acceptance by the stockholders themselves."

DIES FROM POISONING HEIR TO THE THRONE

FATHER DECLARES THAT YOUNG WADE TOOK DEADLY BICHLORIDE OF MERCURY BY MISTAKE

CHICAGO, July 9.—The efforts to save the life of Lee Wade, son of Dr. Francis Wade of Cambridge, Mass., ended in vain a few minutes after 7 o'clock last evening when the boy died at Wesley hospital. The cause of the death was poisoning by bichloride of mercury which the young man had taken by mistake at the Culver Military academy in Indiana, where he was the president of the junior class.

The youth, who was 21 years old and a graduate of Harvard, was rushed to Chicago on a special train in charge of an instructor when he was found in his room suffering from the effects of the poison. His father and mother hurried to the bedside of their son from Salem, where they were helping the victims of the recent fire, in time to be on hand when he was operated on in an effort to remove the fatal drug from his kidneys. Considerable mystery was attached to the manner in which the youth took the bichloride, but his father now makes the following statement:

"Last Thursday night after retiring the boy remembered he had neglected to take a laxative tablet as he had intended to do before going to bed. There was a bottle of laxative tablets and a bottle of mercury tablets on a shelf above his head. He reached up in the dark, took what he thought was the bottle of laxative tablets and swallowed one—a mercury tablet."

FEDERAL AID FOR SALE EX-PECTED AFTER CONFERENCE BETWEEN WILSON AND WALSH

WASHINGTON, July 9.—The unanimous adoption by the senate yesterday afternoon of an amendment to the sundry civil bill for an appropriation of $200,000 for the relief of Salem, coupled with the visit of Gov. Walsh to the White House and the capital, has given impetus to the proposal for federal aid for the destitute of the devastated city.

Members of the Massachusetts delegation were confident that the house would concur in the amendment and that the money, asked for last Friday by President Wilson in a special message to congress, would be available within a day or two.

The attitude of the members of the senate was gratifying to Congressman Gardner and the members of the state delegation who have been urging the appropriation. They declared that the senators fulfilled the letter of the maxim that "he gives twice who gives kindly," for the proceedings, which concluded with the attachment of the rider to the sundry civil bill, occupied only a short time.

Gov. Walsh's visit to the president probably had a great deal to do with the prompt action of the senate. The governor arrived in Washington at 1:30, accompanied by Sec. of State Denahan, and was met by Congressman Gardner Murray and Galligan.

ONLY SIXTEEN, GIRL VERY SICK

Tells How She Was Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

New Orleans, La.—"I take pleasure in writing these lines to express my gratitude to you. I am only 16 years old and work in a tobacco factory. I have been a very sick girl but I have improved wonderfully since taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and am now looking fine and feeling a thousand times better."

—Miss ANELLA JAQUILLARD, 3961 Tchoupitoulas St., New Orleans, La.

St. Clair, Pa.—"My mother was alarmed because I was troubled with suppression and had pains in my back and side, and severe headaches. I had pimples on my face, my complexion was sallow, my sleep was disturbed, I had nervous spells, was very tired and had no ambition. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has worked like a charm in my case and has regulated me. I worked in a mill among hundreds of girls and have recommended your medicine to many of them."

—Miss ESTELLA MAGUIRE, 110 Thwing St., St. Clair, Pa.

There is nothing that teaches more than experience. Therefore, such letters from girls who have suffered and been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound should be a lesson to others. The same remedy is within reach of all.

No one sick with woman's ailments does justice to herself if she does not try this famous medicine made from roots and herbs, it has restored so many suffering women to health.

RUSSIAN FATHER HERE TO FIND LOST DAUGHTER

Believes She is Either in Lowell or in Lincoln, N. H. — He Has Letters to Show That She Corresponded With Some Man and Left Her Home in Russia

Believing that his nineteen-year-old daughter is married and living in this city, an elderly gentleman who gives the name of Peter Goverski, said to own a large farm in northern Russia, arrived in Lowell about 9:30 o'clock this forenoon to make a tour of investigation in the hope of locating his daughter and if possible to take her back to the old country. According to Mr. Goverski he has information which leads him to believe that the young woman is living either in Lowell or in Lincoln, N. H., and he says he will visit the up-country city next week if he fails to find her here.

What led the anxious father to believe that his only daughter, who was known in Russia by the name of Marie, is residing with a husband in this city, he will not tell; but he claims that he has letters which will prove that the young woman lived with a man in this city and at Lincoln, N. H., during the past six months. He believes that she is married to a man who formerly lived in the Granite State for he says that his daughter carried on a correspondence for several months with a man who resided at Lincoln in that state.

Mr. Goverski is by no means a stranger in Lowell, having worked in Manchester, N. H., for five years to earn money to purchase a farm, where he hoped to make a home for his wife and only daughter. While the man worked in a paper mill, near Manchester, his wife and daughter lived together in a little town in Russia, waiting for him to return. When he did return they purchased a small farm and gradually enlarged it until today he claims that he has a very comfortable home. Mr. Goverski claims that his daughter left home during the month of December and since then he has spent considerable time and money in an attempt to find a clue as to her whereabouts and only recently he learned that she had lived in Lincoln, N. H., but is believed to be in Lowell at present, where she works in a cotton mill. The anxious father feels confident that he will see Marie before he returns, although he knows that he may have a hard time. The only picture of the girl which the parents possess was left with the mother in the old country as the father does not believe that it would aid him in ascertaining the whereabouts of his girl.

When asked what course he would pursue to find his daughter, Mr. Goverski said that he had friends in Lowell, who reside on Lakeview avenue, with whom he would spend a few days and during that time he will investigate some of the information which he claims to have received before she left home. If he finds that the young woman has left Lowell, he says that he will follow her, but if she is married and living happily, he will not attempt to drag her from her husband, but if she is not married nothing will be left undone to find the person responsible for the girl's leaving home.

Mr. Goverski arrived at the Middlesex street station shortly after 9:30 o'clock and he talked at length with an employee in the depot yard about the sudden disappearance of Marie and of his plans to locate her. He said that the girl's mother was waiting anxiously in her home across the water in Russia, waiting for him to return. When he did return they purchased a small

COMMISSIONER MORSE TALKS ON PAVING JOB

He Thinks Trouble Will be Settled in a Week—Paving Job on Gorham Street Tied up—Nobody Can Give Any Good Reason Why—Aldermen Investigate Civil Service Operation in Cambridge

According to the specifications accompanying the city's contract with E. A. Wilson & Co., for the cement to be used on the paving job in Gorham street, now at a standstill as a result of the coal teamster's strike, the city, in the event of the contractor failing to deliver the cement at the place required, may purchase the cement of other parties and may charge the extra expense of such purchase and delivery to the contractor.

This fact was admitted this morning as the result of interviews had by The Sun at city hall. Mr. Morse was the first to be interviewed. He said that the situation remains unchanged and he asked to have it stated, as emphatically as possible, that the city teamsters have not at any time refused to unload or handle cement in any way.

He was then asked why it was that the city teamsters were not employed to unload the cement from the car that Mr. Wilson placed on Runnel's siding, close by the scene of the paving job, and Mr. Morse said the contractor when he is to make deliveries. "Thirty-six hours' notice will be given the contractor of the place where the cement is to be delivered and the kind and quantity required by the city. Should the contractor fail to deliver the cement in the time, place and quantity required by the city, he is hereby agreed that the city shall have the right to purchase the cement of other parties and deliver the amount at the place required, and the extra expense of such purchase and delivery over the sum which would have been due the contractor under this contract for such delivery and purchase shall be deducted and retained by the city of Lowell from money due or which may become due him."

Asked if he had any plan in mind for the resumption of the paving work in Gorham street, Mr. Morse said he did not have anything definite in mind, but he believed the matter would straighten itself out in a week or so.

No Special Meeting
It was reported that the mayor would call a special meeting for the purpose of having the council, as a whole, take some action relative to the holding up of paving and sewer work on account of the commissioner of streets and highways being unable to obtain the cement. Asked if he would call the meeting, Mayor Murphy said: "I have no intention of calling a special meeting at this time. I do not think that it is yet time for the municipal council to take action. The matter properly belongs to the commissioner of streets and highways."

The mayor said he could not understand why the city teamsters could not unload the cement from the car placed by the contractors in Runnel's siding, and he also suggested that if the contractor failed to deliver the cement the city could purchase from other parties. Then came some discussion as to the contract and the mayor sent his private secretary to the auditor's office to get it. The mayor went over the contract very thoroughly and said: "The contract holds the key to the situation. If the contractor fails to deliver the cement in the time, place and quantity required, the city may purchase from other parties and charge the extra expense to the contractor. I rather think this solves the problem."

Part of Specifications
The mayor then called attention to the concluding section of the specifications accompanying the contract. The section has to do with time and place of delivery and reads as follows:

"The cement to be delivered at such places and at such time and in such quantities as the commissioner of streets and highways shall designate to the purchasing agent. All orders for cement will be issued from the office of the purchasing agent and the contractor will notify the purchasing agent when he is to make deliveries. "Thirty-six hours' notice will be given the contractor of the place where the cement is to be delivered and the kind and quantity required by the city. Should the contractor fail to deliver the cement in the time, place and quantity required by the city, he is hereby agreed that the city shall have the right to purchase the cement of other parties and deliver the amount at the place required, and the extra expense of such purchase and delivery over the sum which would have been due the contractor under this contract for such delivery and purchase shall be deducted and retained by the city of Lowell from money due or which may become due him."

Hard to Fill Places
"If you should discharge all of the men in your employ who refuse to go on with the work in Gorham street, or who are delaying the work because of their sympathy with the coal teamsters, do you think you could fill their places?"

Asked if he thought it would be a good idea to let the work out by contract, Mr. Morse said: "It would take a majority of the municipal council to settle that matter. Personally I am not in favor of contract work."

City Fathers in Cambridge
Mayor Murphy and Commissioners Brown, Donnelly and Morse went to Cambridge yesterday to find out how the civil service as applied to city laborers is operating in that city. Cambridge was the first city in the commonwealth to apply civil service to city laborers and the mayor and other heads of departments there are quite well satisfied with it. "As far as we could learn, and we went into the matter very thoroughly," said Mayor Murphy, "the thing works all right in Cambridge. It was adopted there in 1892 and it has had ample time to work itself out. The heads of departments like it because it relieves them of a whole lot of worry, responsibility and annoyance. There are 1200 or 1400 names on the waiting list all the time and when ten men are wanted for street or sewer work or any other city work, the department head makes application to the local civil service commissioner of labor who, in Cambridge, is a man connected with the water department. He supplies the names and that's all there is to it. When a man goes to a head of a department looking for work the department head simply asks him if his name is on the list. If he says his name is on the list he is told that he will have to wait his turn and if his name isn't on the list there's nothing doing. It's a fine thing for heads of departments, but the laborer gets the short end of it just the same in case of emergency. A department can hire men without making application, but must notify the civil service commissioner of labor in Cambridge, as stated before, is an employee of the water department. He acts through in the water department office at 5 o'clock and then he goes to an office in the basement where he attends to registration. He is paid $300 a year for his work as commissioner of labor."

The Civil Service Again
As the result of notice received from the civil service commission, Mayor Murphy went from Cambridge to Boston yesterday afternoon, and consulted with Commissioner Dudley and others.

Tentative Plans for Rebuilding Fire Swept District Announced — To Eliminate All Narrow Lanes and Streets — To Plant 1000 Shade Trees

SALEM, July 9.—Tentative plans for rebuilding the district devastated by the fire of June 25 were made public today.

The principal object in devising the plans has been to provide for the general widening of all streets and the main arteries of traffic. The elimination of all narrow lanes and streets in the Point district, which before the fire was a close network of narrow streets crowded with tenement houses whose roofs almost overlapped, is another important feature of the reconstruction plans.

Boston street, where the fire started, is to be widened to 70 feet and a new street will be laid out to Broad street at a uniform width of 70 feet. In the Point district the principal alteration proposed is the widening of Congress street to 100 feet and extending it across the South river to Bertram square. Another important change is the connecting of new Dorsey street with Derby street, making a ninety foot thoroughfare to Bertram square which will relieve congestion of traffic in the center of the city. The plans also call for the planting of 1000 shade trees. The superintendent of the Massachusetts Agricultural college said he believed that many of the trees which were partly burned could be saved.

STOLE JEWELRY

Keyworkers Ransacked a Cottage House on Maple Street

It seems that the sick key workers who so successfully looted several residences in this city last year have returned to Lowell and again they are performing their work with much success, despite the efforts of the police to round them up.

The last case reported to the police was a theft committed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. August Johnson, 25 Maple street, where it is claimed the intruders got away with about $60 worth of jewelry without leaving the slightest clue as to their identity.

The key workers made their entrance into the house through the rear door of the cottage and after ransacking everything from the kitchen to the bed rooms upstairs, made their escape through the front door. This occurred sometime in the forenoon while Mrs. Johnson was away, and when she returned at noon she was astonished to find the door opened. She immediately investigated and found that the house had been entered and that a gold watch valued at $35, a ring valued at $20 and several other pieces of jewelry were missing, these articles having been taken from a bureau drawer in a sleeping room on the second floor. It was also found that the front door was unlocked, which led the police to believe that the intruders left the house through that way. The police are working on the case, but as yet the thieves are still at large.

SERIES OF BURGLARIES

FOUR BOYS ARRESTED—ONE LED POLICE TO WOODS WHERE REVOLVERS AND $250 WERE FOUND

ST. JOHN, N. B., July 9.—By the arrest of four youths today the police believed they had captured the persons responsible for a recent series of burglaries. John Leggett, 17, led the police to the woods where a number of revolvers, 1500 rounds of ammunition, $250 in cash and other alleged stolen property were found.

Today's arrests resulted from an investigation of the shooting of Policeman O'Leary a few days ago, while attempting to arrest John Braman, 18 years old. Braman is one of the youths now in custody. O'Leary's condition remained critical today.

DR. CARMAN CONFIDENT OF WIFE'S ACQUITTAL

FREEMONT, N. Y., July 9.—With Mrs. Florence Conklin Carman in the county jail at Mineola, a prisoner charged with the murder of Mrs. Louise Bailey on the night of June 30 last, District Attorney Smith today was prepared to go before the grand jury and begin the presentation of his case against the accused woman.

One of the first witnesses to appear before the grand jury today, it was announced, would be Elwood T. Barnes, the insurance agent, whose testimony yesterday before Coroner Norton caused that official to issue the warrant for Mrs. Carman's arrest. Another witness will be the Carman maid, Celia Coleman, a negro girl.

Counsel for Mrs. Carman today said that she was prepared to go before the grand jury and waive immunity, a thing unusual in the case of a person charged with murder.

Mrs. Carman will be brought back to Freemont on Monday for arraignment when she is expected to repeat her plea of not guilty. It is expected that she will be held at that time for the action of the grand jury.

Dr. Carman, who accompanied Mrs. Carman to the jail at Mineola, declared his belief in her innocence and confidence in her acquittal.

NOT SUFFICIENT EVIDENCE YET FOR INDICTMENT, SAYS ASST. DIST. ATTY. WEEKS

MINEOLA, L. I., July 9.—It is not at all certain there will be enough evidence for a grand jury indictment against Mrs. Florence Conklin Carman, charged with the murder of Mrs. Louise Bailey and yesterday committed to the county jail awaiting an examination on the charge. This was the opinion Assistant District Attorney Weeks expressed today.

Mrs. Carman's case was expected to come up before the grand jury late today but, according to Mr. Weeks, there was little likelihood of an indictment.

The number of witnesses to be examined would preclude this possibility today.

"It is not unlikely," said the assistant district attorney, "that when Mrs. Carman appears on Monday before Coroner Norton who will then be acting in the capacity of justice of the peace she will be discharged." At that time Mrs. Carman's attorney will have a right to cross examine the witnesses who testify against the prisoner.

Dr. Carman, who has come to Mineola for the day, found his wife in better spirits when he visited her in jail. She seemed to have recovered her composure and to be less nervous.

Mrs. Carman Broke Down
After her husband left, Mrs. Carman broke down and her condition became so acute that the prison authorities called in the staff physician. She was taken to the warden's office where she became quieter after receiving a hypodermic. She refused, however, to go to bed.

George Levy, attorney for Mrs. Carman, said today that he had discovered two new witnesses whose testimony he considered extremely valuable.

ASHMONT STORE KEEPER BATTLED WITH THUGS IN HIS STORE—ROBBED AND BEATEN

BOSTON, July 8.—Louis A. Cooper, proprietor of the Independent Beef company at 1824 Dorchester avenue, Ashmont, was attacked by a robber, choked, beaten and then thrown into his own refrigerator yesterday afternoon just before 2 o'clock while hundreds of people passed by, including three policemen, who rode past the store on an open car, while the encounter was at its height.

Cooper was quickly revived by the cold, the thermometer registering a few degrees above zero. The refrigerator, a massive affair, stands in the rear of the store. Gaining his feet, he scratched off the frost from the windows and peered out. He saw the robber hastily scrambling about the cash register.

With a blow of his fist he smashed the glass and then used his foot. With the opening thus made he climbed out. The robber, angered because he could not open the register, again attacked Cooper and the two were soon mixing it up on the floor. Cooper shouted for help, but the sound of the unusual commotion had attracted clerks in a neighboring store and they rushed in, while the robber rushed out by a rear door.

Several customers found Mr. Cooper seated on a barrel of potatoes adjusting his clothes. His throat was marked by the fingers of his assailant. Cooper was alone in the store when the stranger walked in.

"I would like a pound and a half of sausage," was the request of the man. Cooper went to the big refrigerator, and the goods were being weighed back into the store when he saw the stranger's customer with something in his hand. "What's that you have behind your back?" asked Cooper.

Then came the assault. Mr. Cooper says the man was about 20 years old, dark complexion, and heavy. He wore a bowler suit and a checked golf cap.

TEACHER SUES THE CITY

WILBUR E. WOODBURY CLAIMS CONTRACT STILL IN FORCE AS MANUAL TRAINING INSTRUCTOR

NEWBURYPORT, July 8.—Wilbur E. Woodbury, instructor in manual training, has brought suit against the city for his unpaid salary. Since the sensational closing of the manual training school by Mayor Landford Feb. 26, which created state-wide interest, the city auditor has refused to approve the payroll of the school department, so far as it applied to Mr. Woodbury's salary.

The school board has taken the position that Mr. Woodbury is still a teacher in the public schools and entitled to the salary voted him at the beginning of the scholastic year. It recently declined to discharge him.

Mr. Woodbury has reported daily for work, but owing to the closing and the removing of the apparatus, he has been unable to continue the teaching of manual training.

Mr. Woodbury was elected in 1911. He was re-elected in June, 1913, to serve for the ensuing year. As his term did not expire until the end of June this year, he was declared from holding suit until that time, although his pay was cut off last March.

Under the act recently passed by the legislature, which allows the mayor to make up the appropriation budget, Mayor Landford need an appropriation for manual training and closed the school. He claims that Mr. Woodbury has no contract with the city.

It is expected that the suit will be tried at the October term of the superior court, which sits in this city. The manual training teacher takes the position that by virtue of the contract which he was employed, his salary must be paid.

URGES VOTES FOR WOMEN

DUCHESS OF MARLBOROUGH DE-SCRIBES WORK IN ENGLAND AT MEETING IN NEWPORT, R. I.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 8.—Votes for women were urged yesterday by the Duchess of Marlborough in an address before the Political Equality association. The meeting was held at Marble house, the splendid Newport residence of the duchess's mother, Mrs. Oliver H. Belmont, president of the association, and was attended by many women prominent in the movement for suffrage extension.

The greater part of the duchess's address was devoted to a description of two British reforms in which she is interested, the honor for prisoners' wives and children and the hostels for women.

The hostels, she said, were designed to furnish homes for women and girls who would otherwise be subject to moral dangers as well as disease and infection in the congested and dirty surroundings of the common lodging houses. Many of the hostels, she said, are now nearly self-supporting.

In the homes for prisoners' wives and children, the women are given employment as seamstresses and laundresses, by which they may maintain their economic independence. Assistance is often given the prisoner when his sentence has expired.

The duchess told one refreshing story of a prisoner who was supplied by the home with money for the purchase of tools. The next day his wife reported that he had been crated and put to work.

"Oh, yes," the wife replied, "but they were burglars' tools and he broke into a house last night."

How to Beautify a Summer Soiled Face

It's really a simple matter to renovate a face soiled by sun, winds or dirt. Ordinary mercurized wax, used like cold cream, will transform the worst old complexion into one of snowy whiteness and velvety softness. It literally melts off the outer veil of surface skin, but so gently, gradually, there's no discomfort. The worst skin comes off in patches, but evenly, in dry particles leaving no evidence of the treatment. The younger, healthier under-skin forming the new complexion, is one of captivating loveliness. One ounce of mercurized wax, to be had at any drug store, is enough to remove any tanned, reddened, pimply, freckled or blotchy skin. Apply before retiring, washing it off mornings.

Many skins wrinkle easily with every wind that blows, with heat, worry, etc., an excellent wrinkle-remover because it tightens the skin and strengthens relaxed muscles. Is a wash lotion made as follows: Powdered mercurized wax, dissolved in witch hazel, 12 p. t. Give immediate results.

STRIKE IN ALMSHOUSE

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., July 8.—Desperate over the lack of a meat diet at Luke View, the almshouse in this city, following the edict of the superintendent that "all able-bodied" inmates must work, the inmates went on a strike yesterday.

A large number of them were set to work haying on the large alms-

ORIGINAL GENUINE

A special session of the board of charities was called. After discussion the inmates were given the desired diet. They returned to work at noon yesterday.

Men Fight on Their Stomachs

Napoleon so said. A man with a weak stomach is pretty sure to be a poor fighter. It is difficult—almost impossible—for anyone, man or woman, if digestion is poor, to succeed in business or socially—or to enjoy life. In tablet or liquid form helps weak stomachs to strong, healing action—helps them to digest the food that makes the good, rich, red blood which nourishes the entire body.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

This vegetable remedy, to a great extent, puts the liver into activity—oil the machinery of the human system so that those who spend their working hours at the desk, behind the counter, or in the home are rejuvenated into vigorous health.

Has brought relief to many thousands every year for over forty years. It can relieve you and doubtless restore to you your former health and strength. At every post office and drug store for a trial. Send 10¢ for a trial bottle. For full information, send for a free copy of Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" to Dr. J. C. Rusk, Lowell, Mass.

You can have Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser for 1000 Pages for 80¢.

Saying that things are wonderful values does not make them so. Look for yourself and judge. While looking keep in mind that the qualities are up to the standards that you have found right.

DE GROFF FAMOUS AS COMEDIAN

Lowell Right Fielder
Known All Over the Circuit

Rube is Also Some Slug-
ger When He Lays His
Wand Against the Ball

Rube DeGross, baseball player and comedian, is famous all over New England wherever resides a fan who has seen a game in the "little old league" with the Lowell club as a contestant during the past three years. Although the Rube has always been well up around the top of the league's outer gardeners when the season's averages were computed he is probably more noted for his antics on the coaching lines than he is for his playing.

"RUBE" DEGROSS
Comedian and Right Fielder of the
Lowell Club

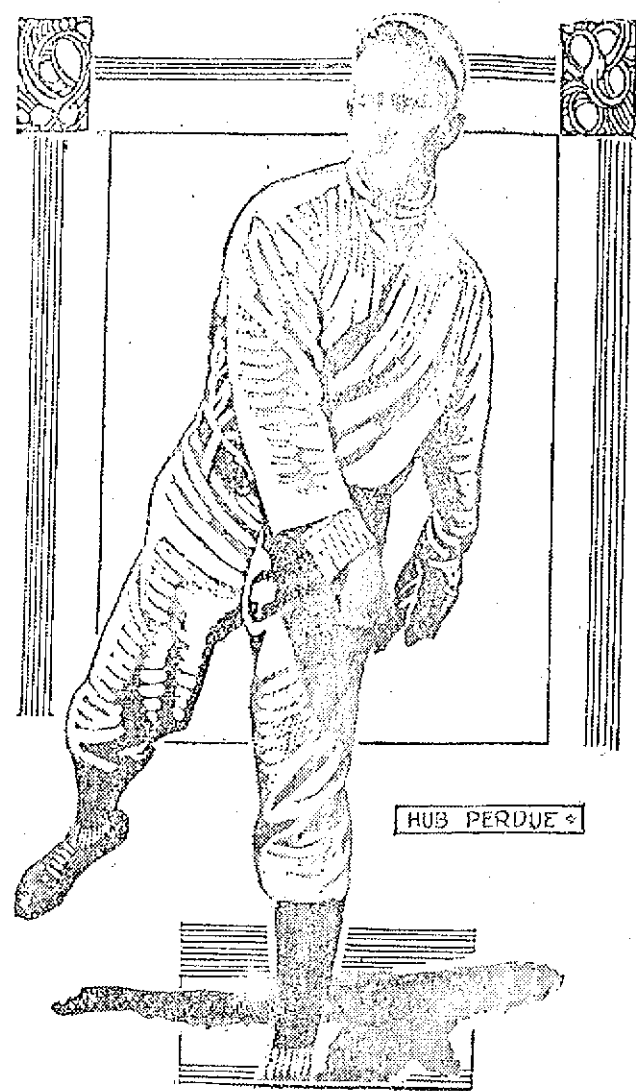

People who have never seen the Rube should take in a ball game just to see for themselves what kind of a character the Lowell rightfielder really is. The local club has probably received more advertising out of DeGross's comedy than any other one thing.

In Hartford last fall during the post-season series the fans down in Connecticut went wild over the Lowell player's gyrations while on the base-lines. DeGross is also very witty, and his remarks are not the sort that grow weary, nor are they abusive. In fact, the Rube is a wonderful baseball comedian.

Rube hasn't been playing the brand of baseball yet this season that he is capable of. Although he was up over 250 for a few days in his batting, he is only hitting for .233 at present.

DeGross is a slugger, pure and simple. He stands up there at the plate and takes the healthiest swing at the ball of any man in the league. If he hits the ball square on the nose we won't dare to say how far it will go, but we have all seen it disappear from sight over the fence on many occasions.

But if the Rube doesn't hit the ball he looks awfully bad. He has been made that he would either strike out Hub Perdue is dissatisfied with his new berth in St. Louis, where he was sent by the Boston Braves in exchange for Whitted and Cather. Therefore he has expressed the desire to become a Fed and may soon be drawing salary from the Gilmore organization.

Boston will be the first city in the country to take such action. It is understood. The rule will apply to both boys and girls.

WITH THE PADDED MITTS

Just what is going to happen next in the lightweight division? Freddie Welsh had no sooner been awarded the decision over Ritchie than several fight promoters in this country began making overtures for a return match before the close of the summer. Although both men claim to be signed up for a coast bout a better offer from some other promoter might change their meeting place.

And Charlie White, of course, is showing no signs of bashfulness. White claims that as he beat Ritchie in their Milwaukee battle he should have the first crack at Ritchie and is of the opinion that the Briton has no more claim to the title than has he. However, with Ritchie weighing 133 pounds in the Milwaukee miss, Charley might not be saying so much now. At least Ritchie is the man who deserves all of Welsh's attention just at present.

With a return bout in this country Ritchie would probably be the favorite in the betting. The Californian would not be barred from using his free hand in the clinches under the American style of ring tactics and many critics think that this one factor lost him the fight Tuesday night. Welsh, however, surprised even his own seconds by his vicious rally in the last round and the magnificent manner in which he went at the lightning.

To come back to a prospective bout nearer at home, what do you think of the Matty Baldwin-Gilbert Gallant match? Matty is all ready to meet the Chelsea fighter provided Gallant makes 135 pounds and the match seems to be settled. Gallant won the New England lightweight title by his defeat of Eddie Murphy, but Baldwin thinks that he is the better man of the two. When the two get together the row ought to be well worth the price of admission.

Johnny Griffith, the hard hitting Akron, Ohio, lightweight, has been offered $20,000 for four bouts in Australia by Snowy Baker, the Kangaroo promoter. Griffith has sent no word across the water as yet, but it will be strange if the offer does not attract him. There are various quibbles of course in this country where a boxer of second rate caliber can pull down a like amount.

There has been much talk about a Gardner Brooks-Mickey Brown clash, but nothing but talk has developed thus far. These two boys are undoubtedly the best 115 pounders in New England and although we want to be fair we don't just see how Brown could possibly beat the local boy. The Madden had in a boxer pure and simple and would depend upon his speed and science to draw down the decision. But Brooks is some boxer himself, has the reach on Brown and can hit harder. This bout would make a hummer for any club to stage.

The Gunboat Smith-Georges Carpentier battle is the next big international fight engagement which will attract attention from both sides of the Atlantic. Bearing in mind always that Smith is a slinger, gambler, also has learned to box better than ever before. Even in his bout with Sam Langford in Boston Smith displayed a far greater knowledge of the game than people generally gave him credit for. But Carpentier is touted as being one of the cleverest boxers of any weight today and can also deal out quite a hefty wallop. Smith will win, of course, if it is more than likely that a bout between he and Johnson would prove the biggest ring attraction of the year.

Perhaps this is a scheme which local boxing promoters can make use of. Out in San Diego, Cal., four round bouts were inaugurated. Then the fight was jumped to ten rounds and finally Leach Cross and "Red" Watson fought 20 periods. The last bout, however, closed festivities in the boxing line for the lid was put on by the mayor and sawed down tight. However, California isn't Massachusetts nor is San Diego Lowell.

KEITH SUES FOR $10,000

FOR LOSS OF BONDS AND STOCK
ARE DEFENDANTS

BOSTON, July 9.—Edward P. Keith of Brockton has entered suit in the superior court against William S. Radway of Worcester and his mother, Sarah E. Radway of this city, to recover $10,000 for the loss of bonds and stock, as the result of alleged experiences in connection with the Credit Reporting company of New England.

The company was first organized under the laws of Maine, with a capital of $100,000. In 1909 Keith owned 254 shares of stock, worth $50,000 at par. On June 30 of last year Radway, he alleges, acquired control of the corporation and put some of his holdings in the name of his mother.

Nominally Keith was vice-president. At the time Radway assumed control there was due Keith $500 for salary, and he alleges that Radway induced him to accept in payment of the salary, year 6 per cent. bonds of the corporation. Keith alleges that Radway promised to see that the bonds were redeemed at an early date.

Subsequently, Keith alleges, he was induced, against his wishes, to take $1000 more of the same bonds, for which he gave his note.

Game to Fitchburg
—Score 7-6

Although outbid by Lowell yesterday afternoon Fitchburg managed to win an eleven inning victory 7-6. Pete Condon, the Lowell boy twirling for Fred Lake, was in the box and Manager Gray used Shenk, Weaver and Ring.

The game was loosely played by both teams, Lowell having five errors and Fitchburg making four misplays. The local team played indifferent ball at stages when the game should have been clinched. The score:

Carpenters Met

The Carpenters' union, local 1019, held its regular business session in the Carpenters' hall in the Bunches building last night. Business of an important nature was transacted, and seven new members were admitted. Several applications for membership were also received. After the meeting no entertainment was given and the numbers were all good. The report of the secretary showed all members to be working and the union in a good financial condition.

Street Railway Men's Union

The Amalgamated Association of Street Railway and Electric Railway Employees of America, of which the two locals 280 and 551 of this city are affiliated was organized at Indianapolis, Ind. in September, 1912 by Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor. There were forty cities that had local organizations that responded to the call for the formation of the association. But before the organization could be placed in proper working order the memorable panic of 1913 swept over the country and the employees quickly took advantage of the demoralized industrial conditions that the panic produced to destroy the newly formed organization. In 1913 a convention was held in Cleveland, Ohio, and W. D. Mullan took up the work of trying to re-organize and establish the organization. This took several years, for the companies everywhere were opposed to the organization and fiercely contested the rights of the employees to organize.

Whenever men attempted to organize and the fact became known to the company, before the men were fully united on the system, they were discharged and their organization was destroyed. This made it necessary for the men at that time to organize secretly. Secret organization was necessarily slow and tedious, and this, coupled with the fact that they had no funds to finance the work, made it all the more disagreeable and hard, and there was many a brave good soul who, after making a struggle to organize under these conditions, gave up the battle and considered it hopeless. But they held their conventions annually. At the time of holding these conventions the officers always made it a rule to donate their salaries in order to clear the books and start anew. It was under these conditions that these men worked for the first four years. During the year 1897 things began to change for the better and the organization began to advance slowly in membership and in strength. From that time on the growth has been steady. Today the association has 207 local organizations throughout the United States and Canada in perfect working condition and in good standing. The majority of these local divisions have written agreements with the companies. The other divisions are working

The liver is usually a quiet, unassuming organ and we do not think much about it. It has, however, protective functions that should command respect.

In the process of intestinal indigestion there are not free what physicians and scientists call "toxic bodies," in other words poisons. If these poisons enter into the circulation of the blood biliousness or sick headache results.

Regularly the liver is able to destroy these toxic bodies but if it lags in its work they quickly form in the blood in excessive enough to be troublesome. Headache, constipation, dizziness, furred tongue, wind on the stomach, bad complexion are the means by which nature gives warning that the liver needs help.

The remedy is to stimulate the liver by the use of Pinks, the gentle laxative pills that do not grip or purge but simply assist nature. Pinks laxatives and salts often do harm by aggravating the conditions they are taken to correct. Pinks, taken regularly for a time, really do correct constipation.

Your own druggist can supply you with Pinks or they will be sent by mail, postpaid, by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., at 25 cents per bottle. Send for helpful pamphlet.

upon voluntary and unwritten understanding. These written agreements specify wages, hours of labor and working conditions. They also provide for arbitration as a means of settling any dispute between the company and the association that can not be mutually agreed upon. This is a great advance from early conditions. When they first sought to establish an understanding with the companies they were refused consideration, and when they appealed for arbitration, they were told that there was nothing to arbitrate. The minimum wage at first was 5 cents an hour. The employees now receive at the very lowest 25 cents per hour.

QUINCY MAN DROWNED

ALBERT M. ASHLAND FELL OVERBOARD FROM SLOOP—EFFORTS TO RESUSCITATE HIM FAILED

QUINCY, July 9.—Albert M. Ashland of 22 Beebe road, Quincy, was drowned shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon by falling overboard from the sloop of James S. Hoffes of 310 Winthrop avenue, Bennington, with whom he was sailing, near the Revere breakwater.

Guy B. Fisher of 21 Campbell ave. made a valiant attempt to save the life of Ashland, but the man probably died while Fisher was rowing him to shore in his tender.

Fisher was working on his sloop, the Narada, which was at her moorings, when Hoffes and Ashland sailed past him, inviting him to accompany them on a sail. Fisher replied that he had not time to do so.

When the Hoffes boat was about 150 yards away from him, Fisher saw Ashland, who was standing up, fall overboard and begin to struggle in the water. Hoffes shouted for help and Fisher, accompanied by Adam Benene, who was working with him on the Narada, jumped into the tender and rowed as fast as he could toward Ashland.

The latter swam for a few moments, then sank, coming to the surface a few minutes later and floating with his face down. He was in this position when Fisher reached him and hauled him into the tender. Although unconscious, Fisher feels certain that Ashland was still living when he reached him from the water.

Fisher rowed rapidly for the shore, while Benene worked over the unconscious form of Ashland, succeeding in getting a quantity of water from his lungs. Upon reaching Ocean pier, Fisher shouted for a doctor, but there was a delay of more than 20 minutes before one arrived upon the scene.

Meanwhile every effort was made to resuscitate Ashland, but everything failed to produce a spark of life. Dr. E. W. Brown, who also worked over the body, had no better results and Ashland was finally pronounced dead.

The body was taken to the Metropolitan Park police station, where it was claimed early in the evening by Mrs. Ashland.

TWO BOYS DROWNED

BYRON WARREN AND ELMER CARPENTER OF FAIR RIVER VICTIMS

NEAR Y. M. C. A. BOYS' CAMP

LITTLE COMPTON, R. I., July 3.—Two members of a Young Men's Christian association boys' camp were drowned in a pond between here and Westport harbor yesterday. The victims were Byron Warren, aged 20, and Elmer Carpenter, 12 years old, both of Fair River, Mass.

When an ear went overboard, Carpenter jumped and swam for it, then called for help. Warren went to his assistance, but almost immediately both went under. Neither came to the surface again.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

R. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

"The House of Temperley," a five reel photo drama produced under the supervision of G. K. Rodkinson, the London film magnate, will be shown at the R. F. Keith theatre the remaining three days of this week, beginning this afternoon. Rodkinson, who has had much experience in the directing of motion picture masterpieces, is seized on "Rodney Stone," one of Sir John Doyle's stories, as the drama with which to startle London. Giving it the name of "The House of Temperley" it was shown many weeks in various London theatres, and for three weeks at the Strand theatre, in New York. Everywhere it has met with a warm reception, and doubtless it will prove a striking feature in this city. The story, like all of Doyle's, is a check of action and it holds some of the well known impossible things which fit so well into motion pictures nowadays. A realistic contest between the hero and the bad man of the story runs the climax. Nobody can watch this without having his blood stirred. In addition to the live-reel feature there will be three other single reels, embracing comedy and dramatic subjects. Admission to performances will remain the same as heretofore, 10 cents, with a few seats reserved at 15 cents, and children five cents.

CANADIAN LAKE THEATRE

It would be hard to imagine a comedy sketch with more genuine hearty laughs than "The House of Temperley," which is being presented by the Canadian Lake Theatre at the Canadian Lake park theatre this week and the company of artists who present it seem to enter into the fun with the zest of those present. Barney Williams as Mr. Brown is a veritable cyclone of fun and the rest of the cast do not allow him to monopolize the fun-making either. The description of the "house of temperley" in the mountains with its terrifying incidents all vouches for the reason of the church, is side splitting to put it mildly. May Wright, a well-built, handsome appearing girl with a splendid voice and more than the usual amount of ability as an actress figures strongly when the honors are passed out, being "in the front row" go to speak. In all of her numbers she has received cordially by the patrons and audiences to be one of the big favorites of the summer season. Miss Nance Shannon, the prima-donna with the big voice, really needs no mention, the patrons themselves saying about all that could be said. The Oxford Four, a theatre with enthusiasm from their first appearance to their last and their first appearance in an after-piece of the Weber and Fields type which kept the house in a continual roar. Gordon and the Pinks Sisters made a hit with their Texas Tommy Dance.

el theatre have by special arrangements with the Thanouser Film company obtained the rights for the production of the entire series of "The Million Dollar Mystery" and the first episode will be shown in two reels at both theatres Friday and Saturday and will be continued each week hereafter on the same days. The entire series will take twenty-three weeks and ten dollars will be given to the man, woman or child who solves the mystery. To do so successfully each episode should be seen as it is produced at these two theatres each week. This picture is the result of many months' work on the part of the company and has cost over a half a million dollars to produce. Never before has the moving picture public been offered a production of such magnitude. The story is filled with thrills from beginning to end and it is said to surpass in interest either "The Hunch of Phaulton" or "The Perils of Pauline," and is acknowledged by the press and public as one of the most fascinating and charming serial stories ever shown. The Lowell public is fortunate in having the opportunity of seeing this picture which the great modern detective, Wm. J. Burns, has acknowledged to be a master work of ingenuity and the latest and best pictures in the market are shown. Next Sunday the Spindie City band will give an afternoon and evening concert at Lakeview Park, offering a selected program. The Owl Theatre The Owl's program of photo-plays contains many new and interesting features. "Through Dante's Planes," a four-part drama, is a cleverly plotted play that will not fail to interest. "Jim," a two-part feature is also a new drama, while "Fuzzy," a Keystone comedy, two other subjects and Jack Dalton's singing will complete one of the genuinely good programs of the

It must have become apparent to those at the head of great labor organizations that at times of labor unrest, undesirable elements strive to inject real anarchy into the situation, hoping to cover the veins of their facts under the guise of emotional necessity and to get a foothold for their diabolical principles on the sympathies of the public. Occasionally they overreach their mark as they are doing at present with a vengeance in New York and in Wakefield.

When a week ago, a death-dealing bomb of fearful power exploded in a New York tenement block carrying three anarchists to destruction, the plot of the conspirators stood out in all its hideous nakedness. Uncounted veritable evidence linked the den of infamy with the I. W. W. and other pernicious bands that have sought to sow disruption in Lawrence, in Lowell, in Wakefield and wherever class feeling has been raised to any degree by labor disputes. With most amazing efficiency the leaders of such bodies, instead of scurrying under cover the revealed rats, came out in glorification of the potential murderer who was blown to fragments and punitive action and announced that the miserable wretches were "murders." It is even proposed to hold a public funeral in their honor with all the trappings and trappings that the I. W. W. knows how to use only too well.

New the papers that announce the New York plans tell how the home of an official of the same factory in Wakefield, in which the I. W. W. strike was declared recently, was wrecked partially by an informal machine placed in the kitchen by some conspirator similar to those who were killed in the New York explosion. Once again it is evident that these responsible for the proposed funeral and for the Wakefield explosion hold the laws in absolute contempt and revel in the "No God, no country" slogan that sent a warning broadcast at the time of the Lawrence strike.

The eyes of this country and of the world are on our government at the present time, when such incidents are in the air, so closely following on the recent assassination of the Austrian heir and his consort in Bosnia. Is it wise that the American toleration of the past should be shown? Is it prudent that the dark plotters of every country in Europe should abuse the liberty of this free land and attack our institutions with impunity? Far from it. While such things can happen and while the leaders of Godless and lawless groups may flock to our underworlds from every country on earth, there is a terrible and a growing menace like a cancer at the very root of our national life. When conspirators and incendiary orators dare to assert their treacherous independence on the eve of such terrible revelations, may not the leaders of our people pause and ask if we are not tolerant to the point of folly?

The great masses of American people are law-abiding, sane, and unemotional in all relating to their political and industrial life. They will not for a moment countenance any injustice, even to anarchists, and they will demand that the old rights of free speech and personal freedom be observed. But they will back up their officials in every station who seek to prevent the making of bombs and the throwing of them in this land of democracy. Here is something for the jingoes to take up instead of war with Mexico or any other nation. Let us in justice and righteousness arm ourselves against the anarchy which is growing up and thriving in our own country and let us strive to exterminate it so thoroughly that the poisonous brood of malcontents and conspirators against justice may perish automatically for want of their pestilential atmosphere.

ABOLISHING PARTY TIES

One of the last important acts of the 131 legislature was the passage of the bill for the abolition of party enrollment in the direct primaries, with a referendum clause attached, and in due time the citizens of the commonwealth will be called upon to pass on its merits. It is almost certain that it will be adopted—like the direct primary itself—because the trend of modern politics is more and more away from anything looking like technicality and red tape and more towards the adoption of direct methods. Yet it is not well for the public to enthrone too much over the innovation, for it may be disappointing in some important phases just as the direct primary itself has been. The principle of the thing is most acceptable, but it will be at the mercy of the voting public—and the voting public does not as yet lay claim to any too great idealism. In the machinations of practical politics, the abolition of party enrollment may be abused until it is worse than the evil it wishes to supplant. It remains in the hands of the electorate to make it an instrument of good or of ill, just as they may happen to choose. In the abstract, the proposed reform should have two most important results:

First, the doing away with undesirable influences on the voting public and the cultivation of a larger vote at primaries and elections. Heretofore many felt compelled to adhere to the party tag, perhaps against their soundest convictions, and some refrained from voting because the party designation begged them around too closely. Now, there can be little excuse for this type of individual to neglect his voting privilege or duty, and no party enrollment will stand between a man and his conscience.

Second danger will be in the introduction of influences into political affairs which have no rightful place in deciding the popular preference. Under the old system a party name often kept undesirable features out of political fights, and it is to be hoped that if the abolition of party names at primaries is sanctioned by the public, nothing less desirable will be substituted as a means to register political preference.

The greatest danger is that the members of one party will help nominate weak candidates for an opposing party in order that they may be defeated on election day. That is an old party trick that has often been resorted to with success in Lowell and elsewhere.

WARBURG WITHDRAWS

The refusal of Mr. Paul M. Warburg of the New York banking house of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. to serve on the new federal reserve board has been an undoubted disappointment to President Wilson and in some degree to the country at large. For Mr. Warburg was regarded as the pre-eminent strong man of a strong combination. He also possesses the detailed knowledge of international finance among the intricacies of which the new board will conduct many important activities. His resignation is said not to be final and it is no secret that the president would like him to reconsider his action and to serve on the very important body for which he is so thoroughly qualified.

Judgment of Mr. Warburg's withdrawal of his name will vary very much according to the bias of the individual who discusses it, for it was undoubtedly due to a very delicate weighing of the attendant circumstances. Owing to his connection with leaders of finance, or for some other such reason, the senate committee did not confirm his name immediately but selected him for a number of questions arranged for by the new law. This procrastination was quite natural and it was quite as natural that Mr. Warburg should resent the delay and the intention of interviewing him and that he should decline an honor which he did not seek. If he persists in his determination the loss is upon the country but it is problematical if the blame is on anybody, except on the gentleman himself, who showed almost abnormal sensitiveness.

It would be easy for the superficial observer to reflect that the refusal of Mr. Warburg to give an account of his financial stewardship of itself shows his unfitness for a high post calling for patriotic service and utmost disinterestedness, but this would be unjust. Mr. Warburg, despite his unpopular alliances, has had a clean record and there is nothing to prevent his accepting the momentous post with honor. Perhaps when the import of the congressional delay becomes plainer to him he will accept it gracefully and acknowledge its importance. It is to be hoped so, for the sake of the currency law which will work well in relation to the ability and sincerity of those selected to administer its provisions. If he persists in refusing, the president will not find it hard to fill the place acceptably.

OIL SPRINKLING

The Fall River Herald, commenting on some conditions of oil sprinkling on the streets of that city issues some warnings that are pertinent to Lowell where municipal oil sprinkling has scarcely passed the experimental stage. It seems that in the sister city the dust is beginning to blow on some of the streets that have been sprinkled, and the condition is far worse than before the treatment, for dust carrying oil particles is anything but a welcome visitor to the household. It is suggested that in the early stages of street oiling many applications should be given until the possibility of dust blowing is removed. "Complaint was made last year," says the Fall River Herald, "that the streets were so filthy that in order to accomplish what was desired the surface of the highways should be treated with oil. It was oil-sprinkled, as has been done in other cities. After that a coating applied in the spring may be sufficient to last through the year."

Undoubtedly on many of our streets the application of oil was liberal, but in some cases the streets were not sufficiently prepared and the coating either blew away or was lifted by wheels of passing vehicles or by auto tires. Then, again, rain fell immediately after some of the applications and washed much of the oil away.

For some of this street department cannot be blamed, but the example of Fall River should be a guide to future activity along the same lines. All will agree that our contemporary does not exaggerate when it says in conclusion: "There is certainly no great economy in oil-sprinkling that is not sufficient to hold the road surface in dustless condition from one sprinkling to another."

UP TO COMMISSIONER MORSE

Strike or no strike, it is up to Commissioner Morse to keep the work of the street department moving without interruption. To allow the entire public to be inconvenienced by the strike of a few teamsters, will bring criticism not to the strikers but to the commissioner in charge. Don't let the jangling job lay, Mr. Commissioner. There are other jobs to be attended to when that is finished and the wretched condition of the thoroughfares entering our city is the possible consequence.

SHINGLES TO GO

Warned by the lesson of its neighbor Salem, Mass. is said to be considering a municipal regulation which would eventually banish the wooden shingle from the roofs of the city. The proposed ordinance is expected to prohibit shingles on any building erected in Lynn after August 1, and will set a time, possibly 1922, when all roofs must be covered with non-combustible material. Mayor Newhall is in favor of the innovation, provided it is worded so that no unnecessary burden is imposed on property owners. In Worcester recently Mayor Wright recommended sweeping changes in the building laws, including the banning of the shingle from congested areas. Lowell has received the recommendations of our recent investigating experts on the same subjects. All progressive cities now see the danger of the wooden shingles as neglected, and if precautions are not taken, the cities must be ready for thoroughfares entering our city is the possible consequences.

STRETCHING THE STORY

"You'd scarcely believe," said the man with the long whiskers, "how extensively tramp it is along the Gulf coast of Texas. We all use rawhide harness, and a real hot, damp day sure does cause the tugs to stretch amazingly. One day I drove down on the Brazos river bottom more than a mile from home and loaded up three-quarters of a cord of wood. Just as I had finished loading a shower came up and the water that fell was as hot as the so-called hot coffee in restaurants."

"Well, I started the mules and drove on home, and when I got there the wagon was still down on the bottom and the tugs were stretched out as small as shoestrings. What did I do to get the wood home? That's easy. I just unharnessed and threw the gears over a stump in the back yard. Fifteen minutes later the sun shone out, dried up the dampness, and in less than an hour that wagon came creeping up the hill. Yes, sir, that's a fact."

He doesn't care that I'm not rich. Or that I'm poor. Or that I'm a tinner in the ditch. He hasn't even guessed. My faults that other people know. He doesn't even see. For every night, with eyes aglow, He tattles up to me.

Although I'm just a common man And ordinary, He checks to mine the glad to rub. Before I go away, And every night when I return He glads as he can be. And, though but little I may earn, He tattles up to me.

To come to me he'd leave a king. If one were sitting near. Unto no millionaire he'd cling. If only I'd appear. And, though but tattered rags are mine, He tattles up to me.

When I get home to tea, With eyes that fairly beam and shine, He tattles up to me.

And so I've reason to be glad And reason to rejoice. It's worth the world to be a dad. To be a baby's choice. There is no prize fame can bestow, No joy can ever be. So rent as when, with eyes aglow, He tattles up to me.

SPECIAL DAYS
Dr. Anna Howard Shaw wants a maiden aunt's day. We have already mothers' day and fathers' day; maiden aunt's may come next, after that suggest special days for the bachelor uncle, the only child, grandma, grandpa, mother-in-law, and all the rest. FOREIGN POLICIES
So far, the one bright deed in President Wilson's foreign policy is the repeal of the Panama tolls provision. Even that was avariciously qualified to save any possible right to make such distinction. And, broadly, that repeal was but a backing out from a hogwash delusion of the obligation of an international contract.

The $25,000,000 treaty with Colombia is at the best but a late and shabby setting-up for a brazen wrong done by a preceding president.—Lowell Sun.

THE MEXICAN ELECTION
None of the meager accounts of Sunday's election in Mexico report more than two per cent of the vote out, even in the parts of the country Huerta controls. As no election can constitutionally be held while a rebellion is in progress, of course the halting report is to record a majority for Huerta as regular president, is only a joke. It is not easy to see what the astute oldascal is driving at, unless to claim a "vote of confidence" to dignify his retirement. It had been supposed that his scheme was to make a successor out of Lascruain, to whom as secretary of state, the position of provisional president, legally fell after the murder of Madero. He held it just 26 minutes, to take the oath and resign, while Huerta stood by.—Worcester Post.

HYSTERIA
If any one fails to understand the hysteria that prevailed in Salem at the time of the witching he can read how the hysterical swooning of a perfectly innocent woman in the office of a prominent doctor in the little town of Freeport, N. "Now," he demanded, "were you or were you not in the plaintiff's office at 4 p. m. on this particular afternoon?"

"If I had been," replied the exasperated witness, "how—"

But before he could get further, counsel interrupted him.

"I want no explanations," he rapped out; "merely a plain answer! I suggest that you were in the plaintiff's office. Is that so?"

The witness pursed his lips, then obstinately shook his head.

"Well?" continued the barrister.

"I've answered you," retorted the witness; "I shook my head."

"Yes, yes, I know you did. I heard it rattle, but wasn't sure whether it was up or down or from side to side. Now, a plain answer, please! Yes or no?"

It was the park committee's idea to open the Aiken street playground and give up the Greenhalge on account of lack of funds, but it seems that the Lawrence Mfg. However, an understanding was reached between the park committee and the officials of the Lawrence Co. and the result will be the opening of the Aiken street ground, which will be very beneficial to the children of the congested district.

ROOSEVELT IN NEW YORK

WHETHER HE WILL RUN FOR GOVERNOR OR NOT MAY BE DECIDED AT TODAY'S MEETING

OYSTER BAY, July 8.—Whether Colonel Roosevelt will accept the progressive nomination for governor of New York may possibly be decided today at a meeting at progressive national headquarters here of the state leaders. Delegations of progressives from various parts of the state said frankly that they had not even considered another name for the head of the ticket.

Colonel Roosevelt came to New York by train from Oyster Bay and went at once to progressive headquarters. He declined to talk politics but intimated that he might have something to say later.

Although Col. Roosevelt has said several times that he would not accept the nomination he admits that his denials have made little impression on his political associates.

Ever since his return from Europe, Col. Roosevelt has been receiving letters and telegrams from progressive leaders in various parts of the country urging him not to accept the nomination. In some instances these messages charged that the New York leaders are willing to run the chance of injuring the party in the union for the sake of making a good showing in this state.

Among those who talked with Col. Roosevelt were H. P. Gardner, national committeeman from Maine and progressive candidate for governor of that state, and Irving E. Vernon, progressive state chairman in Maine.

MILITANTS DRIVEN OUT

HAD MADE DESPERATE ATTEMPT TO ATTRACT ATTENTION OF KING AND QUEEN

DUNBARTON, Scotland, July 8.—Militant suffragettes made desperate efforts today to attract the attention of King George and Queen Mary, who are making a tour through Scotland. At Balloch bridge, at the foot of Loch Lomond, the women cut down all the decorations and at Dalnair, ten miles from Glasgow, they managed to break out a huge banner bearing the words "Your majesty, stop the forcible feeding and torturing of women" across the route as the procession arrived. At the same time one woman armed with a megaphone, howled denunciations of forcible feeding.

Neither the king nor the queen paid the slightest attention but the crowd who had gathered to see their majesties displayed such a hostile attitude that the militants beat a hasty retreat.

REBELS WILL NOT ACCEPT

OPPOSED TO CONFERENCE WITH HUERTA REPRESENTATIVES TO NAME GOVERNMENT

LAREDO, Texas, July 8.—The constitutionalists are unlikely to accept the offer of the Niagara mediators for a conference with representatives of Huerta to arrange a provisional government in Mexico. This announcement coming from unquestioned sources, reached the border today.

It was declared by arrivals here that the generals of the constitutionalist army to whom the proposition was submitted for advice by General Carranza and with the exception of the generals of Obregon's division, who have not yet had time to report, strongly opposed any such conference.

THIRDS IN ODD PLACES

Two Wild Palms Thrive on a Wall and a Peach Tree Sprouts on the Top of Roof
NEW YORK, July 8.—Judging from the experience of two small wild palms and a peach tree, vegetation has a difficult time finding a place to take root in the great city of New York. Looking from the windows of the Yorkville police court, the two wild palms may be seen, ten feet up on the rear brick wall of the palm garden, which faces an eighty-eight street. In some way the seeds found lodgment there and the palms took root in the cracks. The trees are now about three feet high and seem to be thriving.

MISS ELIZABETH ZOLKOWSKA, AGED NINETEEN, DISAPPEARS MYSTERIOUSLY

Mystery surrounds the sudden disappearance of Miss Elizabeth Zolkowska of this city, aged 19 years, who was to have been married Sunday in the Lithuanian church at the corner of Rogers and Pleasant streets to Stanislas Chrymawicz, aged 23, who is employed in the Saco-Lowell machine shop here. The bride-to-be left home Tuesday and the matter has been reported to the police, but as yet no clue as to her whereabouts has been discovered.

Miss Zolkowska and her parents have been in this country for a little over a year. So far as is known by the young woman's parents or friends, she had no objection to her intended husband and no reason for her disappearance has been brought to light.

The prospective bride lived with her parents in Bent's court off Cornhill street and has been employed in one of the local mills which is closed this week for the summer vacation. Last Monday afternoon she and her mother visited several downtown stores and secured articles needed for the wedding next Sunday. She said nothing, according to her mother, against the coming marriage.

Speaking of the matter, the would-be groom said that he went with the consent of his intended bride three weeks ago to the Lithuanian priest and arranged for the marriage. He appears to be greatly worried over the disappearance of Miss Zolkowska and at times entertains fears for her safety.

The girl can read and write in both the English and Polish languages, but, it is said, she had no correspondence with anyone in this country. She was about five feet three inches tall and of light complexion.

NEW YORK, July 8.—New Haven shares were the features of today's early irregular market by reason of the announcement that the government purposes carrying out its dissolution suit against the road. The stock fell a fraction over a point but did not reach its recent low record. The movement otherwise was a mixture of gains and losses, none in themselves especially important. Gold securities were again subjected to pressure, with pronounced weakness in Missouri Pacific bonds which sold at 47 1/2, a loss of 2 1/2 points, while Denver Improvement fives lost a point. The movement became more confused later high class stocks improving while selling of the Gould group increased. Unfavorable reports concerning Missouri Pacific were current but failed to attract more than passing attention. New Haven repeated its recent low price of 63 3/8 and Chesapeake & Ohio also was heavy. American Smelting was the strongest feature, rising over two points, chiefly on short covering. Another gold export of $100,000 to Paris was regarded as a special transaction.

Further declines in the Gould securities overshadowed all other features. Missouri Pacific broke a point. Denver issues sold off again in sympathy and Kansas & Texas common and preferred also reflected weakness. Indefinitely Rock Island collaterals descended to their lowest price and other cheap railway issues were heavy. The monthly copper report showing an increase in supplies of almost 22,000,000 pounds was unexpectedly poor.

Liquidation of Gould stocks ceased in the last hour and prices steadied under the beneficial effect of the crop report but wavered again toward the end. Selling of Gould stocks at severe discounts constituted the feature of today's market. The closing was heavy.

HENRY FORD OF DETROIT VISITS PRES. WILSON

Continuation of Informal Conferences to Discuss Industrial and Financial Conditions — Other Big Business Men Call

WASHINGTON, July 9.—President Wilson had another important day in the continuation of his informal conferences with the heads of the business world to discuss industrial and financial conditions of the country. He was prepared to see Henry Ford of Detroit, a member of the National Association of Manufacturers, and a representative of the National Association of State Bank Supervisors. The administration's anti-trust program was expected to form an important part of the discussion.

It was said that Mr. Ford had been invited by the president. He was to be entertained at luncheon at the White House.

Today's appointment was the third in the series of conferences the president had arranged to talk over with leaders in the industrial and financial world general business conditions, as well as measures in congress.

One direct result of the conference yesterday with the Chicago business men is the possibility that the trade commission bill which has passed the house and is now pending in the senate may be modified as to details.

The president suggested certain modifications which, they contended, would make it a strengthening agency, helpful to all business.

They advocated a trade commission with broad powers of investigation and with authority to order the discontinuance of practices contrary to law. They expected to make all corporations return annual reports to the commission and thought the bill as it now stands contains too many definitions of illegal practices. After listening carefully to their arguments, President Wilson telegraphed the author of the bill, Representative Cawthorne, at his Maryland home to come to Washington to confer with the delegation. He was expected here early today.

FELL DEAD ON FLOOR TURNED UPSIDE DOWN

STRANGER IN ROOM OF ARTIST IN NEW YORK VICTIM OF APOPLEXY

NEW YORK, July 9.—Miss Louise Bunker sent a letter call at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon for a physician from her home in the Antwerp apartment, No. 189 West Fifty-fifth street. Dr. B. C. Tupper of No. 265 West Fifty-fifth street responded and found a man of middle age, dead, stretched on the floor. The physician said that apoplexy had killed him.

Constable Bickerton and the police found on the man's body a bank book and papers, which identified it as that of Edward J. Lillian, lawyer, linguist and editorial writer for the Staats-Zeitung, who lived with his wife, son and daughter at No. 2165 Sixty-seventh street, Brooklyn.

Miss Bunker said that Lillian had called at her home to look at two paintings she had advertised for sale. "I was about to show him the paintings," Miss Bunker said, "when he fell to the floor and died almost immediately. I had never seen him before."

The body was taken to the West Sixty-seventh street police station where later it was claimed by members of the family.

The widow said last night that her husband, who was fifty-three years of age, had been in poor health and she expected that he had gone to see his physician.

"My husband's right name is Lillian," she said, "when he came to this country five years ago he dropped the 'l'."

TURNED UPSIDE DOWN

AUTO STRUCK BY TROLLEY CAR AND RAVENHILL PEOPLE WERE INJURED

OLD ORCHARD, Me., July 9.—A touring car containing Lyman Campbell, the driver; Mrs. Margaret Campbell, his wife; their daughter, Alice, Dr. and Mrs. Charles N. McCuen and son Robert, all of Haverhill, Mass., was struck by a car of the Old Orchard street railway on the Old Orchard road last evening and turned upside down, imprisoning the occupants beneath it.

All the motorists were bruised and shaken, but none was seriously hurt except Mrs. McCuen, Dr. J. A. Randall of Old Orchard, who examined her, said no bones were broken, though her back was badly wrenched.

The party had been in camp. At a point between Old Orchard and Saco, whether they were bound in driving to avoid mail puddles part of the car was protruded to overtop the railway track.

The motorist, Herbert H. Wakefield, said in a distance of 16 feet more he could have brought his car to a stop. The trolley passengers asserted that an blame should be attached to him.

Mrs. McCuen declined to go in a hospital. All the motorists were taken to an Old Orchard hotel. The auto was badly damaged.

FIRE AT U. S. GUNBOAT

DOMINICAN REBELS SENT SEVERAL SHOTS AGAINST HULL OF MACHINES AND GUN REPLY

WASHINGTON, July 9.—Recklessly firing, Dominican rebels sent several shots against the hull of the American gunboat Machias in Puerto Plata harbor, and drew upon themselves a warning volley from the Machias' three-pounders and automatic rifles. The shooting from the shore stopped at once.

SNAKES GOT HIS ROLL

BROOKLYN MAN WHO TACKLED RATTLESNAKES IS WALKING HOME

MIDDLEBURY, N. Y., July 9.—"I lost $25 trying to kill rattlesnakes, and now I am going to walk back to my home in Brooklyn," explained a man about forty-five years old, who said he is Ezra Sellen, here yesterday.

Sellen said he started for a walk from his boarding place yesterday, encountered a lot of rattlesnakes, killed some, and then the others, waded a stream and then crossed his rifle of bills. He said he had just taken enough left to ride to this city and took the state road out of town. Whether the rattlers picked his pockets in not yet settled.

ATHLETES AND ATHLETICS

Although the Redwells won on her time allowance yesterday the showing of the Vanille was by far the best of the three yachts which are striving for the honor of meeting the Shamrock IV. Yesterday's race was the most stirring of any of the matches held thus far.

Fred Lake has two good men on his ball club, Kibben and Sweet. Both of these players were acceptable to any manager in the circuit and must be worth pretty fair money at Fitchburg.

Let Chicago's club down with four time allowance yesterday the showing of the Vanille was by far the best of the three yachts which are striving for the honor of meeting the Shamrock IV. Yesterday's race was the most stirring of any of the matches held thus far.

Fred Lake has two good men on his ball club, Kibben and Sweet. Both of these players were acceptable to any manager in the circuit and must be worth pretty fair money at Fitchburg.

Mayor John F. Hurley, Salton's famous executive, plans to be present at the "Tall Hat" contest game at the Bunting grounds Saturday, the receipts of which will be turned over to the relief of the Salton sufferers.

Jimmy Dunn has challenged Freddie Welsh in behalf of William Kilgore for a lightweight title battle. Kilgore's manager has kept Jimmy out of the lightweight ranks up to the present time in spite of the featherweight champion's assertion that he could land a beating to the best of them. Now that a boxer and not a fighter holds the title, Dunn evidently holds the opinion that his man can beat the lightweight title as well.

Alie Pearson certainly got a hamstring at Worcester yesterday in the first game of the Lawrence-Worcester double header. Burleigh's men collected 12 hits off the veteran's delivery and took the contest 11-6. Lawrence came back in the second game with Fuller in the box and beat Van Dyke 4-2.

Ode and Hadoff did some fine pitching in the Haverhill-Lewiston brace of games. In the first Radloff

Captain Johnny Evers of the Braves once more ambled out of the ball park before the close of the game when he talked back rather violently to umpires Johnson and Byron. Tommy Leach and Heine Zimmerman also left the Cubs' home grounds prematurely. George Tyler worked for the Braves.

Christy Mathewson got his win yesterday when the St. Louis Cardinals took a 4-3 game from the Glens. Matty, however, was not to blame for error behind him, so the winners' tally.

Referee Corri is coming in for much hard criticism over his decision in the Welsh-Ritchie battle. One thing is certain, however, when Corri rendered his verdict he considered it a contest between two men on a fair decision and will be obliged to defend Ritchie again before the public will believe that he is the better man.

The Framingham track record was lowered yesterday when the Short Ship Circuit card was trotted and paced there. The mile on the "bull track" was stepped off in 2:12 1/2, twice by Clara Walker (Downer) the former mark being 2:14.

THE PEACE CONFERENCE ARMY CANTEN SCANDAL FOR AUTOS ON BOULEVARD LIMBS ARE LENGTHENING

CARRANZA AGENT IN WASHINGTON CONFIDENT OF SETTLEMENT—MINISTER NAON IN NEW YORK

WASHINGTON, July 9.—Rafael Zubaran, confidential agent here of General Carranza, said today that while he had received no word as to the attitude of the constitutionalist chief toward the proposed informal peace conference with Huerta's representatives, he had by no means lost hope of a favorable answer. Zubaran indicated they would continue their efforts to bring about the conferences and that probably one of their junta here would leave in a day or two for Saltillo to press the argument in person.

Minister Naon of Argentina who is in New York today conferring with Minister Suarez of Chile and the Huerta delegates, is understood to have communicated with Mr. Cabrera before leaving Washington learning that the constitutionalists here would not relax their efforts in behalf of the peace conferences. Mr. Naon was believed to have gone to New York to convey that word of encouragement to the Huerta delegates.

CRIMINAL PROSECUTION OF SIR THOMAS LIPTON AND OTHERS SUGGESTED BY SIR MARKHAM

LONDON, July 9.—Criminal prosecution of Sir Thomas Lipton, the chairman, and his co-directors in Lipton, Ltd., was suggested by Sir Arthur Markham, a liberal member, in a question addressed to the attorney general appearing in today's parliamentary papers.

The question, the putting of which was postponed by arrangement, asks whether, in view of Justice Darling's statement that the defendants in the army canteen scandal case was acting on a system which was encouraged by the directors of the company, the attorney general has had the papers in the case before the public prosecutor or with a view to criminal proceedings for fraud and bribery, against Sir Thomas Lipton and his co-directors.

The question arose out of the recent conviction of nine British army officers and eight civilian employees of Lipton, Ltd., on charges of receiving and giving bribes to influence the allotment of supply contracts for the army canteens.

REVEREND MEN ASK FOR REPEAL OF ORDER—LIPTON BARRY SPEAKS FOR THE PETITIONERS

BOSTON, July 9.—A plea for the repeal of the order of the Metropolitan Police Commission shutting off automobiles from the Revere beach boulevard between Elliot Circle and Revere street during the rush hours at Revere beach, was made at a hearing given by the commission yesterday afternoon to representatives of Revere and Lieut. Gov. E. D. Barry.

Representative Andrew A. Casassa, town solicitor of Revere, conducted the hearing, and associated with him were Solicitors Gordon and Howard H. Trask, Charles L. Ridgway, James A. Rothman and William Kline, the last four representing the business interests of the beach.

The petitioners argued that the commission's order, which keeps the automobiles off the boulevard during the busy hours of Saturdays, Sundays and holidays, does more harm than good, since it forces the cars all into Ocean avenue, which everybody coming to the beach must cross, and makes a dangerous congestion there.

They held, too, that when the automobiles were allowed on the boulevard there were no accidents during the busy hours, since the cars were obliged to go slowly and the roadway was well paved. "This was the contention of Lieut. Gov. Barry, who said he spoke not as a state official, but as an interested individual observer."

The business men argued that the order worked an injustice to them in two ways. Not only did they lose the desirable automobile trade, but since the town government had been obliged to prohibit the stopping of taxis and delivery of goods on Ocean ave. when the automobiles were turned into it, they were unable to get milk, bakery goods, express parcels or anything else during the very hours that their trade was busiest.

"This was not a public hearing and there was no opposition. The commissioners took the matter under advisement."

YOUNG DWARF, AGED FOUR YEARS, BEING TRANSFORMED INTO NORMAL PROPORTIONS

ALTOONA, Pa., July 9.—The Blair County Medical society by the use of thyroid glands of lambs and sheep is transforming a young dwarf of Hollidaysburg, Jules Schrodner, four years old, into normal proportions. The boy is suffering from Cretinism but under treatment his arms and legs are lengthening. It was said by members of the society last night.

The experiment is being watched with interest by the medical fraternity.

MATRIMONIAL

A double marriage was solemnized last night at St. Michael's rectory, when Misses Katherine R. Kelly and Margaret J. Kelly, two sisters, were united in the bonds of matrimony to Edward McDermott and Charles Hurley, respectively. The ceremony was performed by the pastor, Rev. John J. Shaw, each couple acting as witnesses for the other. At the close of the ceremony the bride party repaired to the home of the brides' mother, 19 Hawthorne street, where a reception was held. The couples will spend their honeymoon together at Atlantic City and upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Hurley will make their home at 49 Humphreys street, while Mr. and Mrs. McDermott will reside in Concord, N. H.

WATER WAGON FIRE

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 9.—Firemen here assert they have extinguished the strangest blaze on record. It was started by a water wagon. The "food for the flames" was a street.

Early yesterday the tank of a motor-driven street sprinkler, filled with gasoline which trickled over a lantern at the rear. That fired the gasoline. The blaze ran along the trail of liquid spilled on Atlantic avenue and the asphalt pavement was ignited.

The flames spread until a half square of the street was blazing. The firemen were half an hour in putting out the flames.

WARBURG RECONSIDERS

BANKER WILL SERVE ON FEDERAL RESERVE BOARD IF HE IS NOT CROSS-EXAMINED BY SENATE

WASHINGTON, July 9.—Paul Warburg, the New York banker, has reconsidered his request that President Wilson withdraw his nomination as a member of the federal reserve board on condition that he will not consent to appear before the senate banking committee to be cross-examined.

After receipt of a telegram from Mr. Warburg today it was said by officials close to the president that an action night would be made for the conference. It was declared that should the banking committee fail to report the nomination favorably the president expects the senate as a whole to act.

Mr. Warburg's telegram to the president was not given out but after his receipt officials at the White House said that the name would not be withdrawn. That followed a visit by Senators Thomas and Shafroth to the White House. They are understood to have told the president that only a very few democrats would oppose Mr. Warburg's confirmation.

The situation as to the nomination of Thomas D. Jones of Chicago remained unchanged and it was said at the White House that the president would continue to press for his confirmation.

A letter from the Chicago delegation of business men received yesterday by the president endorsing Mr. Wilson's statement in support of Mr. Warburg and Mr. Jones was made public at the White House.

"No more hopeful, helpful, finer words ever have come from the White House and we believe they will meet with the nation's hearty approval," said the letter.

SUES FOR THE REWARD

CHAUFFEUR WANTS $100 FOR GIVING INFORMATION TO MR. HALLIAN

BOSTON, July 9.—A suit against Joseph Hallian to recover $100, the sum said to have been offered by him as a reward for information as to the whereabouts of his daughter, Edith Hallian, and Louis Elsmann, the chauffeur with whom she eloped, has been brought by Daniel Brassat of Boston, according to his counsel, Brassat is the chauffeur who says he drove the couple from Boston to South Lawrence on the day they disappeared.

Inquiries made of Joseph Hallian yesterday to learn whether he offered such a reward and knew about the suit, were met with a flat refusal to discuss the matter. The inquiries were referred to his counsel, Atty. Sughrue. At the latter's office it was stated Atty. Sughrue was out and that he would probably follow the example of his client in refusing to answer inquiries as to the alleged offer of the reward.

It was also received from Portland that Mrs. Roper of that city, who furnished information leading to the finding of the elopers, had entered a claim for the award.

Mrs. Hallian said yesterday: "Several claims have been made for the $100 reward offered by my husband. I don't know who made the claims."

A summons has been issued for Louis Elsmann by Judge Hayden in the Roxbury court on complaint of Patrolman Smith and Councilor of the Roxbury Crossing station, who charge the chauffeur with over-speeding on Columbus avenue, near Egleston square, June 24. The summons is returnable Wednesday next. It has no connection with any other charges which have recently been brought against Elsmann in other courts.

JOHN D. CELEBRATES

NEW YORK, July 9.—For the first time in years John D. Rockefeller celebrated his birthday yesterday on his 73rd birthday. He is 73 years old. It has been his custom heretofore to go to his Cleveland estate early in June and remain there until fall. The campaign against him conducted by the anarchists and I. W. W. leaders is believed to be partly the reason for Mr. Rockefeller's long stay at his estate at Pocantico Hills. He does not like to retire under duress.

The estate just outside of Tarrytown is in a state of siege. Armed guards are at each of the seven gates. No one is permitted to enter unless he is known and expected by the sentinels. Sheriff Wm. J. Doyle of White Plains said he has his deputies on the grounds. Yesterday the sheriff himself was there. At night the guards are doubled and watchdogs are turned loose.

A signal system not unlike that used by the police has been installed by Mr. Rockefeller. If he wakes up at night and wishes to know how watchful are his guards, he has merely to press a button beside his bed. Red and blue lights flash around the estate, warning the men to go to the nearest signal box and record their visit.

Heretofore Mr. Rockefeller has not denied himself to newspaper men upon his birthday, but has made that day an occasion to give advice to one who reaches an advanced age and acquires a fortune. Yesterday, however, no reporters were welcomed.

"Mr. Rockefeller has received many requests for an interview," said his secretary, Mr. Simms, "but is sorry to say that he must deny himself to every one."

Owing to the poor health of Mrs. Rockefeller and her sister and the absence of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., who is at Seal harbor, there was no family party at dinner last night.

ASSAULT CASE TRIED

NIGHT BEFORE FOURTH—OTHER CASES IN COURT

Arthur Leakes will be very careful in the future who he sells beer to. The night before the Fourth Sergeant Petrie and another officer swapped Leakes some of Uncle Sam's currency for several bottles of the hops fluid with the result that Leakes appeared in court this morning charged with the illegal sale of liquor. John J. Harvey, Esq., appeared for the defendant and entered a plea of guilty. The case was continued for sentence until tomorrow morning's session.

Francis Smith, a driver for Friend Brothers bakery, pleaded guilty to driving an auto without a license, but did not have it with him when arrested. Smith met disaster on the street of that name. Smith street is a one way street and the defendant drove in the wrong direction. In order to impress upon his mind the fact that he must have a license in his pocket when driving a car and that Smith street cannot be used in both directions, the defendant was asked to deliver a $500 note to Acting Clerk Toye.

James Glynn was arrested on Dutelle street and charged this morning with drunkenness. Two little girls testified against the man and Judge Enright ordered him to pay a fine of $25 and gave him no probationary term in which to pay it.

John T. Riley was accused by his wife of assaulting her.

Judge Enright told the defendant that he would allow him to escape with a suspended sentence on promise of good behavior.

There were several old cases up for trial this morning on continuance and a half dozen unfortunates occupied the public dock as well. Sheriff Eveleth's Thordike street castle was the destination of the majority.

Frederick J. Forgarty, after thinking the matter over carefully, withdrew his appeal and was sent to jail for the next four months. Bartolomeo O'Neil and Joseph Dushene accompanied Forgarty to the jail, their terms being one month shorter.

William Mercer pleaded not guilty, through his counsel, Lawyer Hamel, to assault and battery upon Daniel Morlarty. Defendant and complainant are both young fellows.

The scene of the alleged assault was Fort Hill and the time this night before the Fourth. An argument ensued between the two and they went at it in earnest.

Young Morlarty testified that while the defendant and himself were fighting he felt a pain in his thigh which later proved to be wounds from some sharp instrument.

Dr. Phinegan informed the court that he had treated the complainant. The physician described the wounds and said that he took six stitches in one and two stitches in the other. Two of the complainant's companions told practically the same story as that of Morlarty. No one saw a knife in Mercer's hand.

The defendant testified that the complainant swore at him and that he, the defendant, pushed him. Mercer's eye was still discolored this morning from where he says, he was struck that night. He stated emphatically that he did not stab Morlarty.

Four young fellows who were with Mercer the night of the trouble corroborated Mercer's story in its essential details.

Judge Enright found the defendant guilty. The court, on account of the vicious nature of the assault, ordered the defendant committed to the jail for a term of three months.

Analyst Merriam Hotel
Supt. Welsh has filed a complaint against the proprietors of the Merriam hotel with the license commission, alleging a violation of the conditions under which the license was granted.

The police allege that two young men bought several bottles of beer from the night clerk at a few minutes before midnight before the Fourth. A hearing will be held by the commission at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning.

TEWKSBURY PEOPLE FAVOR ANNEXATION

Their Chief Objection Being to Our Bad Roads—Rogers Street Complained of—What Chauffeurs Say of Our Roads

Annexation seems to be the watchword in the surrounding towns or at least it is the main topic of discussion. Many of the suburban residents speak favorably of the editorial published in The Sun last Monday in which good reasons were set forth for annexing some of the suburban towns. However, some of the townspeople are from Massachusetts and they want to be shown before any real move is started in favor of annexation. In Tewksbury, for instance, some of the citizens want to see good roads in Lowell before they consent to become a part of the Spindle City, while others favor awaiting further developments in South Lowell, which was taken away from Tewksbury a few years ago. Although some of the men are very conservative on the annexation question, one of the town officials believes the annexation of Tewksbury to Lowell would be a mighty good proposition for the town and although some say that South Lowell people have not benefited by the annexation, he seems to believe that great improvements have been made in that part of the city, and in his opinion if the other part of Tewksbury were to be treated as fairly as was South Lowell, he would recommend annexation at once.

"Show us good roads in Lowell," said a prominent business man of Tewksbury, "and then we will talk annexation, but not until then. Automobile drivers of the town complain of suffering more wear and tear on their machines while traveling in Lowell than in any other part of the state. This condition of the streets in Lowell is keeping your city from progressing and this is a well known fact throughout the state. Automobile parties coming from other parts of the state through Tewksbury to Lowell, who have not been in the Spindle City for some time, stop in Tewksbury to get posted as to the condition of streets in Lowell and their first question is, 'Are Lowell streets as bad as ever?' and in many instances the reply is, 'Yes, worse than ever.'"

"We, residents of Tewksbury, would like to know how Lowell will manage to keep up the good condition of our roads, when she cannot attend to her own streets at the present time. Some of the main thoroughfares in Lowell are in a very bad condition and almost unfit for travel. The main street, Rogers street, is nothing but a hole and a hole, while Westford street is a disgrace to your city. There are many other streets too numerous to mention that need repaving and repainting and unless the condition of your streets is brought to a high standard your car test secured there will be no annexation of Tewksbury."

Another prominent resident of the town spoke of the South Lowell and Wigganville districts which were annexed to Lowell some years ago and he said that many of the residents of that locality are not quite satisfied; they think more might have been done in the sewerage line, although the problem there is a very big one. They appreciate the water service, the fire protection and the freedom of the schools. They are hopeful that the big Oakland sewer will be completed some day and some other means of solving the difficulty found.

Town Official Talks
One of the officials of the town claims that South Lowell and Wigganville have greatly benefited by the change and he favors the annexation of at least another slice of the town if not the whole of it. He said the water supply the residents of the annexed district are being given and the fire protection they are receiving is worth the difference in tax rate and he feels that in time the new district will be properly taken care of. He also believes that within a short time a sewerage system will be constructed in that locality and the streets and sidewalks will be put in good condition.

This official said the present tax rate is $18 per thousand and it is very probable this year the assessors will announce an increase of one or two dollars. The increase will be due to the erection of the Shawshank school, two years at a cost of $8,000 and the appropriation of $5,000 for the Clark road improvement. The school debt is to be wiped off at a rate of $2,000 a year, which means that a high tax rate will be in evidence for at least four years. Now another schoolhouse will have to be built and that will be another burden on the town. The town has been seen better days and a new building will be needed within a short time and that will mean another jump in the tax rate. The town has been talking for some of installing a water system and as soon as that goes through money will be needed and the taxpayers will be called upon to disburse. There are other numerous improvements needed in the town which cannot be done just because the taxpayers refuse to shoulder the burden. With the annexation to Lowell the city would take care of all the needs and as a whole the town would be better off.

No Fire Protection
"We have practically no water available in case of fire and hardly any fire protection and some day we may find ourselves in the same predicament as the Salem victims. By annexing Tewksbury to Lowell the town mains would be extended to the town. It is also certain that we would have no difficulty in having electric power and lighting and the citizens would get all the benefits," said the official.

News of the Town

The annual outing of the Tewksbury Congregational church Sunday school was held yesterday at Bass Point. Two special electric cars left the Centre in the forenoon and conveyed the excursionists to the famous resort where a pleasant day was spent. The party was composed of children, who were in charge of Rev. Sarah Dixon and Clayton Coffey.

The annual outing of the members of the Junior Holy Name society of the O. M. U. Novitiate will be held on Saturday at Haver beach, special cars to convey the young folks to the sea shore.

The Tennis club is making arrangements for their annual outing which will be held in the near future at Canobie lake park. The court of the club is in the rear of the Congregational church and is being put in shape for the season.

On Saturday, Aug. 1, an interesting baseball game will be played between the boys of the State Infirmary and the town boys and it is believed that the game will be largely attended, for there is considerable rivalry between both teams.

Both aggregations crossed bats last Saturday with Dr. H. M. Laverne acting as umpire and at the close of the ninth inning the score stood 6 to 6. It seems that the boys from the Infirmary were on the bat.

There was one man out and the batter tied in left field. The fly was caught and sent right back to the home plate, and according to the umpire the man who was endeavoring to reach the home plate was put out, the score being then six to six, but the Infirmary boys claim their man was not touched and accordingly they claim another run. However, this matter will be threshed out at the coming game.

Allen Haines and family and Mr. and Mrs. Conant have returned from a very pleasant automobile trip to Franklin, N. H.

F. I. Carter has purchased a two-ton truck from the agency of George White of Lowell, the truck being similar to that purchased by the state infirmary a couple of weeks ago.

Capt. H. J. Patten has returned from Salem, where he spent two weeks doing military duty. Yesterday he and his wife Mrs. M. A. Patten and Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Patten went to Bass Point in an expedition to break camp.

George Miller, a brakeman on the Lowell and Boston line of the Boston & Maine has been transferred to the Bay Harbor express for the summer.

Eugene Patterson, the town treasurer has purchased a Buick auto and he has also built a garage in the rear of his home in Main street.

Mrs. Larabee, wife of Dr. H. M. Larabee and now located, left yesterday for Beachwood, Mr. the trip being made in an automobile.

The chemical fire extinguishers for the town have arrived and one has been placed at Patten's greenhouse, another in the west and one in the south, while two others are to be placed later. As soon as the apparatus is all placed a fire department will be organized by the selectmen.

The residents of the town have thus far contributed the sum of $51.50 for the Salem relief fund. $15 of this money has been donated by the King's Daughters of the North church. In addition $42 have been collected at the Centre church.

FAVOR EQUAL SUFFRAGE

"Political Equality for Both Sexes Necessary for Best Interest of Nation," Say Educators

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 9.—At today's session of the National Educational association a resolution is to be introduced endorsing the principle of equal suffrage.

The resolutions committee embodied in its report a resolution stating that the educators of the country believe "political equality for both sexes necessary for the best interest of the nation."

While the business meeting was in session various problems pertaining to the welfare of children were being discussed by the delegates in different departments and plans outlined for the solution of questions vital to the educational world.

Speaking before the department of child hygiene, Dr. Louis Kapper of New York training school for teachers, advocated education as a means of eliminating enormous national financial loss due to ill health.

"The average workman's family has an economic loss of between five and six per cent of the annual income due to ill health," Dr. Kapper said. "The principal method of eliminating this waste is through education."

City boys with useless experience become convicts, while country boys educated in a natural environment by family responsibility become doctors, lawyers, merchants and teachers," according to Rufus Stanley of Elmira, N. Y., who spoke before the state and national leaders.

Timorous mothers who are afraid to allow their children out of their sight and are continually suggesting things to frighten them into obeying are responsible for the great number of adult neurotics in this country, Dr. T. A. Willimott of Washington, D. C., told a meeting of the department of special education.

P. H. Claxton, commissioner of education, speaking before the department of music said that if he were to make up a curriculum for public schools he would put in a little physical culture, a little reading and writing, a little arithmetic and a big dab of music.

TO LYNCH NEGRO BOMB EXPLOSION

Attempt Baffled by the Sheriff at Bay Springs, Michigan

BAY SPRINGS, Mich., July 9.—A mob which last night attempted to lynch Mose Johnson, a negro, was baffled by Sheriff Jones who summoned 30 citizens to reinforce his posse of 13 deputies and announced he would protect the prisoner at all hazards.

After having surrounded the local jail for several hours, the mob dispersed early today.

The negro will be taken to Jackson for safe keeping.

Johnson held up and robbed the pay car of the Gilchrist-Peddy Co. at Stevens on June 27, securing $1500 in cash. In effecting the robbery Johnson killed one clerk and wounded two.

STORES CLOSED AT NOON
TODAY FOR THURSDAY AFTER-NOON HALF HOLIDAY—OUTINGS TAKE PLACE NEXT WEEK

The large department and clothing stores of the city closed their doors at noon today and the clerks and other employees are enjoying their first weekly half holiday of the season. As in past years the stores will be closed on Thursday afternoon during the months of July, August and September.

Although no outings were planned for today many of the employees took advantage of the propitious weather to give the young men and women a journey to the nearby parks and suburbs for an afternoon away from the noise of the city. One week from today, several of the organizations connected with the different stores will hold their annual outings, elaborate preparations are being made to give the young men and young women an enjoyable day.

SAFETY FIRST RESULTS

COMMITTEE OF BOSTON CHAMBER OF COMMERCE SAYS NUMBER OF ACCIDENTS IS MUCH REDUCED

BOSTON, July 9.—The "Safety First" committee of the Boston chamber of commerce has issued a statement which claims a large reduction in the number of accidents for the first week of the campaign. The report is as follows:

The figures furnished by the police department show that during the first week of July, 1914, there were 13 street accidents, of which nine were fatal, to serious and 41 minor. During the past week only 43 accidents were reported, of which only two were fatal, 11 serious and 27 minor. During the first week of July, 1913, there were only 10 accidents, while during the past week fatal accidents were reported on only two days out of the seven.

The Boston city hospital reports 134 accidents during the first week of July, 1914, as against only 81 during the past week. Similarly, the Massachusetts General hospital reports a falling off in cases brought in last week as compared with the corresponding period of 1913.

"The Boston Elevated Railway company reports that from the beginning of this month to midnight last night the total number of accidents of all kinds was but 52 per cent of the number occurring during the corresponding period of 1913. Most of the accidents resulted in either no injury or in minor injuries to passengers and other persons. There was one fatality.

A man attempted to board a moving car between stopping places and fell to the street. There has been but one collision of cars in which passengers were injured and in this collision a number of passengers were shaken and frightened, but were not otherwise injured."

READY FOR CANAL OPENING

WASHINGTON, July 9.—That American marine men actively are preparing for the opening of the Panama canal was indicated today in reports of the department of commerce showing that seven of the principal merchant ships built in the United States in the fiscal year ending June 30 were for the isthmian trade. Each steamer averages more than 6000 gross tons.

WAKEFIELD, July 9.—No tangible clue had been discovered last night to the bomb thrower who early yesterday damaged the residence of Richard S. Stout, a superintendent of the Heywood Bros. & Wakefield company's ruffian factory and made a desperate attempt to assassinate the occupants of the house. Some of the police believe the bomb throwing work of a striker at the company's plant, which is closed.

State police officers, District Attorney William J. Corcoran of Middlesex county and Chief of Police James J. Connelley spent the whole day investigating the matter and gathered considerable important information in the case.

The only possible clue came from Charles Riley, a young man who lives on Main street near the Stout house. He says he saw two men running down Main street toward Melrose immediately after the bomb explosion. Riley told the investigators that he was awakened by the crash caused by the explosion and that upon going to a front window he struck a couple of men going down Main street on a quick run.

The police believe the pair escaped to Boston or Malden by boarding an electric car at Franklin square, Melrose Highlands. Car crews that left Melrose Highlands yesterday morning will be questioned in the hope of following this clue.

Albert Carter, a milk deliver, was delivering milk a few hundred feet away from the Stout residence when the explosion occurred about 2 o'clock and he says he neither saw nor heard any persons running down Main street. The police think the person or persons involved may have escaped by running through an estate adjacent to Stout's back yard and then out on Main street. Still another avenue of escape is on Bennett street.

Footprints were discovered near shrubbery in the rear of the house. The measurements indicate that the person who threw the missile wore a large sized shoe.

An order was issued by officers of the Allegheny Congenial Industrial union forbidding members to enter saloons.

WILSON TO HELP SALEM

PRESIDENT PROMISED GOVERNOR THAT HE WOULD ASSIST IN EVERY WAY WITHIN POWER

WASHINGTON, July 9.—The action of the senate in adopting an amendment to the sundry civil appropriation bill providing an appropriation of $200,000 for the relief of the Salem, Mass. fire sufferers, gave Governor Walsh and the Massachusetts delegation in congress renewed hope today that funds would yet be forthcoming from the federal government.

The congressional plan to continue their fight for the appropriation when the bill returns to the house from the senate where it was passed yesterday.

Governor Walsh in his conference with President Wilson yesterday felt the situation at Salem was very serious and that federal aid was greatly desired for the more than 1700 people out of employment. As a result the president promised to assist in every way within his power.

The governor arranged to meet Representative Fitzgerald, chairman of the appropriations committee, today and point out to him the necessity for financial aid. Prospects were, however, that the whole matter would be threshed out in conference to which the sundry civil bill was to go today.

His decision was brought about by the pressure of private business.

EMPRESS WRECK

The Finding Will Be Delivered Saturday—It Contains 1,000 Words

QUEBEC, July 9.—The finding of the Empress of Ireland wreck commission has been decided on by Lord Mersey and his co-commissioners and was typed today in preparation for its delivery on Saturday. The document is upwards of 1100 words in length.

"The whole finding will not be read," said Lord Mersey today, "since most of it is of technical nature, but all the salient points will be read."

Lord Mersey will personally read the finding which has been agreed upon by the whole court. It will be signed by the three commissioners and in the margin the four nautical assessors will sign "we concur."

The report not only deals with the evidence regarding the collision and loss of life, but includes a number of recommendations regarding lifesaving appliances to prevent disasters of a similar nature.

Though the commissioners have the power they will take no action in regard to the punishment of those blameable for the wreck. It is understood, but will leave that for the federal authorities.

One man was arrested by the troopers for using abusive language and W. R. Foley, a member of the strike committee, was placed under bonds to keep the peace.

An order was issued by officers of the Allegheny Congenial Industrial union forbidding members to enter saloons.

MAY CLOSE INQUEST SOON

NEAR MRS. ANGLE'S APARTMENTS

STAMFORD, Conn., July 9.—Possibility that the inquest of Coroner John J. Phelan on the death of Walter E. Ballou may be closed in a few days, perhaps by the end of the week, was said last night to rest largely on whether the report of the analyst on supposed blood stains found in and near the apartment of Mrs. Helen M. Angle, who is under arrest in connection with the case, is submitted to the coroner within a day or two. Ballou died of a fractured skull after a visit to Mrs. Angle's rooms.

The coroner said last night he hoped to have a report on the stains submitted, possibly by Friday. He could not say definitely, however, whether with this report in hand he would close the inquest. It was believed here, however, that such may be his action.

Chief of Police W. H. Brennan, who was in New Britain yesterday at a state meeting of police chiefs, was reported from there to have said that he expected the coroner's report by Friday. The coroner said last night, however, that he could not say anything about that.

THE MEXICAN SITUATION

U. S. Government Preparing for New Developments—Await Official News From Rebels

WASHINGTON, July 9.—That the Washington government would give within a few days some manifestation of the policy it intends to pursue to meet any new development in the Mexican situation was the better expressed today in many quarters.

President Wilson and his advisers still awaited official notification of the constitutionalists' attitude toward a proposed peace conference with Huerta's envoys and declined to comment on border reports that General Obregon's northern forces had beaten back an army of federalists almost at the gates of Guadalajara.

Obregon said he believed his men would capture the city without much serious fighting. Probably his forces would be unable, it was said, to attack Huerta's capital without help.

That the constitutionalist military campaign was progressing without the immediate co-operation of Villa was indicated in official revolutionary reports that General Obregon's northern forces had beaten back an army of federalists almost at the gates of Guadalajara.

Probably the definite expression of its plans for the future will not be made by the American government until the preparation for the conference is settled and specific information on the extent of the Villa-Carranza agreement is reached.

While reports from Torreón stated that the disagreement between the two chiefs had been settled, there remained an undercurrent of comment indicating that the truce was only temporary.

The movement today of Villa's troops northward from their Zacatecas campaign was explained by statements from some quarters that the United States and a few European nations had urged that the northern general be not allowed to reach Mexico city first. Administration officials declined to comment on such reports.

VERA CRUZ, July 9.—The crew of the American battleship Connecticut which sailed today for Haiti, have greatly enjoyed their visit here after their long sojourn at Vera Cruz. Their conduct on the whole has been exemplary, only minor misdemeanors having been reported. Last night two of the bluejackets who had not been granted shore leave, jumped overboard and swam ashore, but were soon brought back by the picket.

Dinner was given on board last night by Capt. Knapp to William Gonzales, the American minister here, Arthur D. Blanchard, the newly appointed minister to Haiti and several other distinguished Americans.

EXEMPTION OF LABOR

CLAUSE STAYS IN THE CIVIL SUNDRY BILL, DESPITE EFFORTS TO ALTER OR ELIMINATE IT

WASHINGTON, July 9.—All efforts in the senate yesterday to alter or eliminate the labor exemption clause of the sundry civil bill section providing funds for the enforcement of the anti-trust law were voted down.

Two roll calls put the senate on record in favor of the exemption clause, which caused the veto of the last sundry civil bill by President Taft, and which President Wilson, in a memorandum made when he signed the measure, characterized as unjustifiable in character and principle.

The clause provides that no part of the fund shall be spent in the prosecution of "any organization or any individual for entering into any combination or agreement having in view the increasing of wages, shortening of hours or bettering the conditions of labor or for any act done in furtherance thereof, not in itself unlawful. Co-operative farmers' organizations are also exempted.

Senator Sterling of South Dakota, proposed to strike out the exemption, characterizing it as "vicious class legislation."

The Sterling amendment was laid on the table by a vote of 41 to 27, only one democratic Senator Pomerehne, voting for it.

An amendment by Senator Sutherland of Utah to insert in the provision the words "by lawful means" was voted down, 35 to 22.

Later the bill itself, carrying $111,600,000, was passed without further serious opposition.

RUSSIAN FATHER HERE TO FIND LOST DAUGHTER

Believes She is Either in Lowell or in Lincoln, N. H. — He Has Letters to Show That She Corresponded With Lowell Man and Left Her Home in Russia

Believing that his nineteen-year-old daughter is married and living in this city, an elderly gentleman who gives the name of Peter Goveroski, said to own a large farm in northern Russia, arrived in Lowell about 9:30 o'clock this forenoon to make a tour of investigation in the hope of locating his daughter and if possible to take her back to the old country. According to Mr. Goveroski he has information which leads him to believe that the young woman is living either in Lowell or Lincoln, N. H., and he says he will visit the up-country city next week if he fails to find her here.

What led the anxious father to believe that his only daughter, who was known in Russian by the name of Marie, is residing with a husband in this city, he will not tell; but he claims that he has letters which will prove that the young woman lived with a man in this city and at Lincoln, N. H., during the past six months. He believes that she is married to a man who formerly lived in the Granite State for he says that his daughter carried on a correspondence for several months with a man who resided at Lincoln in that state.

Mr. Goveroski is by no means a stranger in Lowell, having worked in Manchester, N. H., for five years to earn money to purchase a farm, where he hoped to make a home for his wife and only daughter. While the man worked in a paper mill near Manchester, his wife and daughter lived together in a little town in Russia, waiting for him to return. When he did return they purchased a small farm and gradually enlarged it until today he claims that he has a very comfortable home.

Mr. Goveroski claims that his daughter left home during the month of December and since then he has spent considerable time and money in an attempt to find a clue as to her whereabouts and only recently he learned that she had lived in Lincoln, N. H., but is believed to be in Lowell at present, where she works in a cotton mill. The anxious father feels confident that he will see Marie before he returns, although he knows that he may have a hard time. The only picture of the girl which the parents possess was left with the mother in the old country as the father does not believe that it would aid him in ascertaining the whereabouts of his girl.

When asked what course he would pursue to find his daughter, Mr. Goveroski said that he had friends in Lowell, who reside on Lakeview avenue, with whom he would spend a few days and during that time he will investigate some of the information which he claims to have received before she left home. If he finds that the young woman has left Lowell, he says that he will follow her, but if she is married and living happily, he will not attempt to drag her from her husband, but if she is not married nothing will be left undone to find the person responsible for the girl's leaving home.

Mr. Goveroski arrived at the Middlesex street station shortly after 9:30 o'clock and he talked at length with an employee in the depot yard about the sudden disappearance of Marie and of his plans to locate her. He said that the girl's mother was waiting anxiously in her home across the water in the hope of getting a reply that the young woman is safe in this country and will be returned to her soon.

FIRE THREATENED THE CHATEAU FRONTENAC

Fire Broke Out on the Board Walk of Dufferin Terrace, Quebec's Famous Thoroughfare, and Spread to Other Buildings—Blaze Beyond Control of Firemen—Flames Eating Their Way Toward Famous Hotel

QUEBEC, July 9.—The board walk on Dufferin Terrace, Quebec's famous thoroughfare overlooking the St. Lawrence river, caught fire today and for a time threatened the Chateau Frontenac hotel. A high wind was blowing when the fire started, and when the firemen reached the scene the flames had gained such headway that they were unable to reach the farther end of the promenade. The entire staff of employees of the Chateau aided the brigade and saved the hotel proper. Over 500 feet of the terrace collapsed shortly before one o'clock, and it was feared that the stone walls overlooking Champlain Ward, a tenement district, would soon fall. The fire was getting beyond the control of the firemen. At two o'clock nine houses were on fire and the flames were eating their way toward the Chateau Frontenac. At three o'clock the fire was still raging but the firemen seemed to be getting the upper hand.

COMMISSIONER MORSE TALKS ON PAVING JOB

He Thinks Trouble Will be Settled in a Week—Paving Job on Gorham Street Tied up—Nobody Can Give Any Good Reason Why—Aldermen Investigate Civil Service Operation in Cambridge

According to the specifications accompanying the city's contract with E. A. Wilson & Co. for the cement to be used on the paving job in Gorham street, now at a standstill as a result of the coal teamster's strike, the city, in the event of the contractor failing to deliver the cement at the place required, may purchase the cement of other parties and may charge the extra expense of such purchase and delivery to the contractor.

This fact was admitted this morning as the result of interviews had by The Sun at city hall. Mr. Morse was the first to be interviewed. He said that the situation remains unchanged and he asked to have it stated, as emphatically as possible, that the city teamsters have not at any time refused to unload or handle cement in any way.

He was then asked why it was that the city teamsters were not employed to unload the cement from the car that Mr. Wilson placed on Runnels' siding, close by the scene of the paving.

CHASE CASE IN COURT

MOTION TO VACATE INJUNCTION AGAINST HAL CHASE ARGUED AT BUFFALO TODAY

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 9.—The motion to vacate the injunction obtained against Hal Chase by the Chicago American league baseball club restraining him from playing with the Buffalo Federal league club was argued before Supreme Court Justice Herbert P. Bissell today.

Justice Bissell, in his argument characterized organized baseball as a combination, contrary to common and statute law and a violation of the Sherman anti-trust law in that it constitutes a trade in players. He read various clauses of the national agreement in support of his argument and pointed out the different conditions which he claimed, operated against the players. When court adjourned for the noon recess his argument was unfinished.

President James A. Gilmore of the Federal league, attended the hearing. Chase was not in court.

TO WIDEN ALL STREETS IN DEVASTATED SALEM

Tentative Plans for Rebuilding Fire Swept District Announced — To Eliminate All Narrow Lanes and Streets — To Plant 1000 Shades Trees

SALEM, July 9.—Tentative plans for rebuilding the district devastated by the fire of June 25 were made public today.

The principal object in devising the plans has been to provide for the general widening of all streets and the main arteries of traffic. The elimination of all narrow lanes and streets in the Point district, which before the fire was a close network of narrow streets crowded with tenement houses whose roofs almost overlapped, is another important feature of the reconstruction plans.

Boston street, where the fire started,

is to be widened to 70 feet and a new street will be laid out to Broad street at a uniform width of 70 feet. In the Point district the principal alteration proposed is the widening of Congress street to 100 feet and extending it across the South river to Bertram square. Another important change is the connecting of new Derby street with Derby street, making a ninety-foot thoroughfare to Bertram square which will relieve congestion of traffic in the center of the city. The plans also call for the planting of 1000 shade trees. The superintendent of shade trees after consultation with the Massachusetts Agricultural college said he believed that many of the trees which were partly burned could be saved.

BUSINESS IS ALL RIGHT NEW INDUSTRY

WASHINGTON, July 9.—Optimistic views of business conditions were presented to President Wilson today by Henry Ford, the Detroit manufacturer, during an hour's conference at the White House.

"There is absolutely nothing wrong with business," Mr. Ford told the president. "The only trouble is that some people seem pessimistic. If everyone would only cheer up and attend to their business this calamity talk would stop immediately."

The president and Mr. Ford discussed the trust bills in a general way, as well as the business situation.

Officials close to the president said he was greatly encouraged by his talk with Mr. Ford and that he had been further strengthened in his determination to push the trust program during the present session.

Mr. Ford refused to discuss his call, saying that talk of business depression was unworthy of denial.

Four automatic balling machines have been installed and ten men are being employed in the sorting and baling of waste paper, while a wagon for collection has been placed on the road. The new plant started operations last Monday. Mr. Chase, a member of the firm, speaks highly of Lowell and in conversation with Secretary Murphy of the board of trade, he said the company is well satisfied with its location and it is possible that the business will expand within a short time. The company has several branches throughout the state and is doing a very prosperous business.

FITCHBURG AND LOWELL

Fred Lake and Band Clash With Jimmy Gray's Champs at Spalding Park This Afternoon

When the store clerks left their counters this noon and made tracks for the noonday meal those who passed Merrimack square received a chill when they read the indications on Page's big clock, "Thursday—Rain." But as they looked skyward and saw Old Sol merrily shining above they were reassured and hid themselves back to the square after dinner to celebrate their first Thursday afternoon off by attending the ball game.

With Fitchburg as the attraction and an old Lowell favorite, Fred Lake at the head of the visiting bunch, it was not surprising that they went out in big numbers for Fred could ever draw the bunch even in the old days when as a catcher for the Boston Nationals he would occasionally come to Lowell to catch in one of the games of the Old Urban and Suburban league, of hazy memory.

The visitors were rather late at arriving in Lowell and dressed at the grounds. They were full of pep as the result of their 11 inning victory over the Grays on the home grounds yesterday afternoon, and the confidence or nerve, whatever it may be called, to think they could get two in concession. There were 500 fans in attendance when the game opened and among them were some real hot rooters, from among the store clerks.

Fred Lake, manager of the visiting club, warmed up Scanlon, his mound choice for the game, as Killhullen, his catcher, was taking the throws of the infield. Fred did not bother to doff his straw hat during the operation. When Killhullen came in to catch Scanlon, Eddie Berard, the Lowell mascot, went out and took the catcher's place at the plate during the warming up practice. "Bobby" Keeler, the local boy, officiated and called the game shortly after 3 o'clock.

"Texas" Lohman went on to the firing line at the last moment instead of the new pitcher who was expected to work today.

Lowell
Dee, ss.
Do, G. F.
Matthews, cf.
Stimpson, lf.
Burke, 3b.
Cargo, 2b.
Kelly, 1b.
Wacab, c.
Lohman, p.

First Inning
Kane hit to Dee and "Shorty's" peg to first nailed him by a close margin.

Lohman then struck out Spires who made two attempts to bunt. Reed rapped one on the nose but as it was speeding toward left field Dee jumped into the air and pulled the line drive with his gloved hand. It was a nice play and "Shorty" deserved all the praise that was awarded him. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Dee sent up a high fly to Torphy and the red-headed first baseman made a put-out. DeGroat slammed a single into left. Matthews struck out and on the third strike DeGroat stole second.

Stimpson hit a slow grounder which Spires came over and took, retiring the Lowell left fielder at first. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Score: Lowell, 0; Fitchburg, 0.

LOCKED IN ICE CHEST

ASHMONT STORE KEEPER BATTLED WITH THUGS IN HIS STORE—ROBBED AND BEATEN

BOSTON, July 9.—Louis A. Cooper, proprietor of the Independent Beer company at 1502 Dorchester avenue, Ashmont, was attacked by a robber, choked, beaten and then thrown into his own refrigerator yesterday afternoon just before 2 o'clock while hundreds of people passed by, including three policemen, who rode past the store on an open car, while the encounter was at its height.

Cooper was quickly revived by the cold, the thermometer registering a few degrees above zero. The refrigerator, a massive affair, stands in the rear of the store. Gaining his feet, he scratched off the frost from the windows and peered out. He saw the robber hastily fumbling about the cash register.

With a blow of his fist he smashed the glass and then used his foot. With the opening thus made he climbed out. The robber, angered because he could not open the register, again attacked Cooper and the two were soon writhing it up on the floor. Cooper, shouting for help, but the sound of the unusual commotion had attracted clerks in a neighboring store and they rushed in, while the robber rushed out by a rear door.

Several customers found Mr. Cooper seated on a barrel of potatoes adjusting his clothes. His throat was marked by the fingers of his assailant. Cooper was alone in the store when the stranger walked in.

"I would like a pound and a half of sausage," was the request of the man. Cooper went to the big refrigerator, got the goods and was stepping back into the store when he saw his would-be customer with something in his hand. "What's that you have behind your back?" asked Cooper.

Then came the assault. Mr. Cooper says the man was about 35 years old, light complexion, and husky. He wore a blue serge suit and a checkered golf cap.

TEACHER SUES THE CITY

WILBUR F. WOODBURY CLAIMS CONTRACT STILL IN FORCE AS MANUAL TRAINING INSTRUCTOR

NEWBURYPORT, July 9.—Wilbur F. Woodbury, instructor in manual training, has brought suit against the city for his unpaid salary. Since the sensational closing of the manual training school by Mayor Landford Feb. 26, which created state-wide interest, the city auditor has refused to approve the payroll of the school department, so far as it applied to Mr. Woodbury's salary.

The school board has taken the position that Mr. Woodbury is still a teacher in the public schools and entitled to the salary voted him at the beginning of the scholastic year. It recently declined to discharge him.

Mr. Woodbury has reported daily for work, but owing to the closing of the manual training school, he has been unable to continue the teaching of manual training.

Mr. Woodbury was elected in 1911. He was re-elected in June, 1913, to serve for the ensuing year. As his term did not expire until the end of June this year, he was debarred from teaching suit until that time, although a pay was cut off last March.

The act recently passed by the legislature, which allows the mayor to make up the appropriation budget, Mayor Landford fixed no appropriation for manual training and closed the school. He claims that Mr. Woodbury has no contract with the city.

It is expected that the suit will be tried at the October term of the superior court, which sits in this city.

The manual training teacher takes the position that by virtue of the contract when he was employed, his salary must be paid.

URGES VOTES FOR WOMEN

DUCHESS OF MARLBOROUGH DESCRIBES WORK IN ENGLAND AT MEETING IN NEWPORT, R. I.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 9.—Votes for women were urged yesterday by the Duchess of Marlborough in an address before the Political Equality association. The meeting was held at Marble house, the splendid Newport residence of the duchess's mother, Mrs. Oliver H. Belmont, president of the association, and was attended by many women prominent in the movement for suffrage extension.

The greater part of the duchess's address was devoted to a description of two British reforms in which she is interested, the homes for prisoners' wives and children and the hostels for women.

The hostels, she said, were designed to furnish homes for women and girls who were unable to support themselves. The homes for prisoners' wives and children and the hostels for women.

The duchess told one refreshing story of a prisoner who was supplied by the home with money for the purchase of tools. The next day his wife reported that he had been arrested again.

"But didn't he buy tools and return to work?" the duchess asked the woman.

"Oh, yes," the wife replied, "but they were burglar's tools and he broke into a house last night."

How to Beautify a Summer Soiled Face

It's really a simple matter to renovate a face soiled by sun, winds or dirt. Ordinary mercurized wax, used like cold cream, will transform the worst old complexion into one of snowy whiteness and velvety softness. It literally peels off the outer veil of surface skin, but so gently, gradually, there's no discomfort. The worst skin comes off, not in patches, but evenly, in tiny particles, leaving no evidence of the treatment. The youngest, healthiest under-skin, forming the new complexion, is one of captivating loveliness. One ounce of mercurized wax, to be had at any drug store, is enough to remove any tanned, reddened, pimpled, freckled or blotchy skin. Apply before retiring, washing it off morning.

Many skins wrinkle easily with every wind that blows, with heat, worry, etc. An excellent wrinkle-remover, because it tightens the skin and strengthens relaxed muscles, is a wax lotion made as follows: Powdered axolite, 1 oz. dissolved in witch hazel, 1/2 pt. This gives immediate results.

Men Fight On Their Stomachs

Napoleon said, "A man pretty sure to be a poor fighter. It is difficult—almost impossible—for anyone, man or woman, if digestion is poor, to succeed in business or socially—or to enjoy life. In tablet or liquid form

DE GROFF FAMOUS AS COMEDIAN

Lowell Right Fielder Known All Over the Circuit

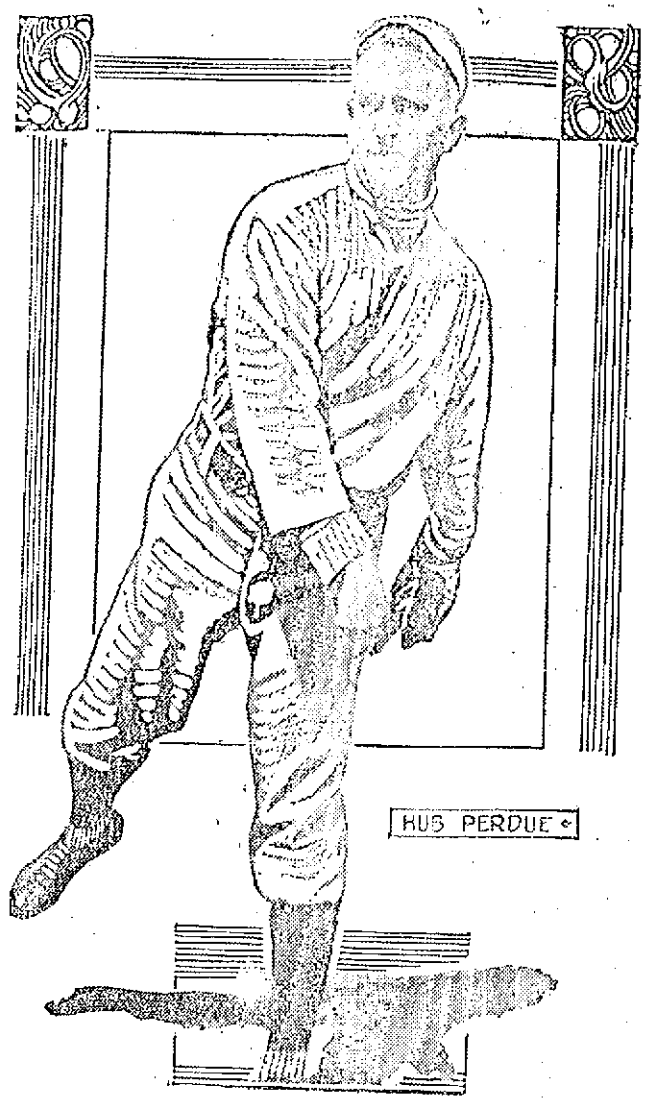

Rube is Also Some Slugger When He Lays His Wand Against the Ball

"RUBE" DEGROSS Comedian and Right Fielder of the Lowell Club

Rube DeGross, baseball player and comedian, is famous all over New England wherever he goes. He has been seen in a game in the "little old league" with the Lowell club as a contestant during the past three years. Although the Rube has always been well up around the top of the league's outer gardeners when the seasons averages were computed he is probably more noted for his antics on the coaching lines than he is for his playing. DeGross is a born fun-maker. Even when off the field, Rube continues his laugh-provoking antics. Many a traveler on the same train with the Lowell club has looked up from his seat and thought that a circus was boarding the car when Rube led in his fellow ball players. There's no satire about that at all—DeGross is funny in everything he does and simply has the knack of tickling the risibles of others. People who have never seen the Rube should take in a ball game just to see for themselves what kind of a character the Lowell right-fielder really is. The local club has probably received more advertising out of DeGross's comedy than any other one thing. In Hartford last fall during the post-season series the fans down in Connecticut went wild over the Lowell player's gyrations while on the base-lines. DeGross is also very witty. And his remarks are not the sort that grow tiresome, nor are they abusive. In fact, the Rube is a wonderful baseball comedian. Rube hasn't been playing the brand of baseball yet this season that he is capable of. Although he was up over 300 for a few days in his batting, he is only hitting for .283 at present. DeGross is a slugger, pure and simple. He stands up there at the plate and takes the heaviest swing at the ball of any man in the league. If he hits the ball square on the nose, we won't dare to say how far it will go, but we have all seen it disappear from sight over the fence on many occasions. But if the Rube doesn't hit the ball he looks awfully bad. Bets have been made that he would either strike out

PERDUE, DISSATISFIED WITH TRADE MAY TAKE JUMP TO FEDERAL LEAGUE

HUB PERDUE

Hub Perdue is dissatisfied with his new berth in St. Louis, where he was sent by the Boston Braves in exchange for Whitted and Cather. It seems that Hub had designs on New York and would have become a Giant but for the alleged interference of Owner Gaffney, who, he says, blocked the deal. Therefore he has expressed the desire to become a Fed and may soon be drawing salary from the Gilmore organization.

WITH THE PADDED MITTS

Just what is going to happen next in the lightweight division? Freddie Welsh had no sooner been awarded the decision over Ritchie than several fight promoters in this country began making overtures for a return match before the close of the summer. Although both men claim to be signed up for a coast bout a better offer from some other promoter might change their meeting place.

And Charlie White, of course, is showing no signs of bashfulness. White claims that as he beat Ritchie in their Milwaukee battle he should have the first crack at Ritchie and is of the opinion that the Briton has no more claim to the title than has he. However, with Ritchie weighing 133 pounds in the Milwaukee muss, Charley might not be saying so much now. At least Ritchie is the man who deserves all of Welsh's attention just at present.

With a return bout in this country Ritchie would probably be the favorite in the betting. The Californian would not be barred from using his free hand in the clinches under the American style of ring tactics and many critics think that this one factor lost him the fight Tuesday night. Welsh, however, surprised even his own seconds by his vicious rally in the last round and the magnificent manner in which he went at the fighting.

To come back to a prospective bout nearer at home, what do you think of the Matty Baldwin-Gilbert Gallant match? Matty is all ready to meet the Chelsea fighter provided Gallant makes 135 pounds and the match seems to be settled. Gallant won the New England lightweight title by his defeat of Eddie Murphy, but Baldwin thinks that he is the better man of the two. When the two get together the row ought to be well worth the price of admission.

Johnny Griffith, the hard hitting Akron, Ohio, lightweight, has been offered $20,000 for four bouts in Australia by Snowy Baker, the Kangaroo promoter. Griffith has sent no word across the water as yet, but it will be strange if the offer does not attract him. There are various quibblers of bouts in this country where a boxer of second rate calibre can pull down a like amount.

There has been much talk about a Gardner Brooks-Mickey Brown clash, but nothing but talk has developed thus far. These two boys are undoubtedly the best 115 pounders in New England and although we want to be fair we don't just see how Brown could possibly beat the local boy. The Mal-den had is a boxer pure and simple and would depend upon his speed and science to draw down the decision. But Brooks is some boxer himself, has the reach on Brown and can hit harder. This bout would make a hummer for any club to stage.

The Gunboat Smith-Georges Carpenter battle is the next big international fight engagement which will attract attention from both sides of the Atlantic. Bearing in mind always that Smith is a slugger, Gunboat also has learned to box better than ever before. Even in his bout with Sam Langford in Boston Smith displayed a far greater knowledge of the game than people generally gave him credit for. But Carpenter is touted as being one of the cleverest boxers of any weight today and can also deal out quite a hefty wallop. Should Smith win decisively it is more than likely that a bout between him and Johnson would prove the biggest ring attraction of the year.

Perhaps this is a scheme which local boxing promoters can make use of. Out in San Diego, Cal., four round bouts were inaugurated. Then the limit was bumped to ten rounds and finally Leach, Cross and "Red" Waddy fought 25 periods. The last bout, however, closed festivities in the boxing line for the 115 was put on by two mayor and screwed down tight. However, California isn't Massachusetts nor is San Diego Lowell.

KEITH SUES FOR $10,000

FOR LOSS OF BONDS AND STOCK —W. S. RADWAY AND MOTHER ARE DEFENDANTS

BOSTON, July 9.—Edward P. Keith of Brockton has entered suit in the superior court against William S. Radway of Worcester and his mother, Sarah E. Radway of this city, to recover $10,000 for the loss of bonds and stock, as the result of alleged expediting in connection with the Credit Reporting company of New England. The company was first organized under the laws of Maine, with a capital of $100,000. In 1909 Keith owned 234 shares of stock, worth $50 each at par. On June 30 of last year Radway, he alleges, acquired control of the corporation and put some of his holdings in the name of his mother.

Nominally Keith was vice-president. At the time Radway assumed control there was due Keith $500 for salary, and he alleges that Radway induced him to accept in payment of the salary 20-year 6 per cent bonds of the corporation. Keith alleges that the bonds were redeemed at an early date.

Subsequently, Keith alleges, he was induced, against his wishes, to take $1700 more of the same bonds, for which he gave his note. In December, 1913, Radway formed a new company, styled the Credit Reporting Co. of New England, under the laws of Massachusetts, with a capital of $30,000 in shares of $10 each. Radway subscribed for all the stock of the new corporation.

Then Keith asserts that Radway had the Maine corporation turn over his business, assets and good will to him in exchange for 12,540 shares of stock in the new corporation. Radway, it is alleged, sold the plaintiff's $600 worth of bonds and 234 shares of stock by virtue of a power of attorney in the note for $1100 that the plaintiff had given to him, for which he had pledged the securities as collateral. Then, it is alleged, Radway used him on the note for $1100.

Carpenters Met
The Carpenters' union, local 1610, held its regular business session in the Carpenters' hall in the Runcles building last night. Business of an important nature was transacted, and several new members were admitted. Several applications for membership were also received. After the meeting an impromptu entertainment was given and the numbers were all good. The report of the secretary showed all members to be working and the union in a good financial condition.

Street Railway Men's Union
The Amalgamated Association of Street Railway and Electric Railway Employees of America, of which the two locals 280 and 551 of this city are affiliated, was organized at Indianapolis, Ind., in September, 1893 by Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor. There were forty cities that had local organizations that responded to the call for the formation of the association. But before the organization could be placed in proper working order the memorable panic of 1893 swept over the country and the employers quickly took advantage of the demoralized industrial conditions that the panic produced to destroy the newly formed organization. In 1893 a convention was held in Cleveland, Ohio, and W. D. Mahan took up the work of trying to reorganize and establish the organization. This took several years, for the companies everywhere were opposed to the organization and fiercely contested the rights of the employees to organize. Whenever men attempted to organize and the fact became known to the company, before the men were fully united on the system, they were discharged and their organization was destroyed. This made it necessary for the men at that time to organize secretly. Secret organization was necessary slow and tedious, and this, coupled with the fact that they had no funds to finance the work, made it all the more disagreeable and hard, and there was many a brave good soul who, after making a struggle to organize under these conditions, gave up the battle and considered it hopeless. But they held their conventions annually. At the time of holding these conventions the officers always made it a rule to donate their salaries and order to clear the books and start anew. It was under these conditions that these men worked for the first four years. During the year 1897 things began to change for the better and the organization began to advance slowly in membership and in strength. From that time on the growth has been steady. Today the association has 207 local organizations throughout the United States and Canada in perfect working condition and in good standing. The majority of these local divisions have written agreements with the companies. The other divisions are working

HOW A MAN'S LIVER

DEFENDS HIS LIFE

The liver is usually a quiet, unassuming organ and we do not think much about it. It has, however, protective functions that should command respect.

In the process of intestinal indigestion there are set free what physicians and scientists call "toxic bodies," in other words poisons. If these poisons enter into the circulation of the blood biliousness or sick headache results.

Regularly the liver is able to destroy these toxic bodies but if it lags in its work they quickly form in moments excessive enough to be troublesome. Headache, constipation, dizziness, furred tongue, wind on the stomach, bad complexion are the means by which nature gives warning that the liver needs help.

The remedy is to stimulate the liver by the use of Pinkettes, the gentle laxative pills that do not grip or purge but simply assist nature. Harsh laxatives and salts often do harm by aggravating the conditions they are taken to correct. Pinkettes, taken regularly for a time, really do correct constipation.

Your own druggist can supply you with Pinkettes or they will be sent by mail, postpaid, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., at 25 cents per bottle. Send for helpful pamphlet.

upon voluntary and unwritten understanding. These written agreements specify wages, hours of labor and working conditions. They also provide for arbitration as a means of settling any dispute between the company and the association that can not be mutually agreed upon. This is a great advance from early conditions. When they first sought to establish an understanding with the companies they were refused consideration and when they appealed for arbitration, they were told that there was nothing to arbitrate. The minimum wage at first was 8 cents an hour. The employees now receive at the very lowest 23 cents per hour.

QUINCY MAN DROWNED

ALBERT M. ASHLAND FELL OVERBOARD FROM SLOOP—EFFORTS TO RESUSCITATE HIM FAILED

REVERE, July 9.—Albert M. Ashland of 22 Beebe road, Quincy, was drowned shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon by falling overboard from the sloop of James S. Hoffses of 310 Winthrop avenue, Beachmont, with whom he was sailing, near the Revere breakwater.

Guy B. Fisher of 24 Campbell ave., made a valiant attempt to save the life of Ashland, but the man probably died while Fisher was rowing him to shore in his tender.

Fisher was working on his sloop, the Narada, which was at her moorings, when Hoffses and Ashland sailed past him, inviting him to accompany them on a sail. Fisher replied that he had not time to do so.

When the Hoffses boat was about 150 yards away from him, Fisher saw Ashland, who was standing up, fall overboard and begin to struggle in the water. Hoffses shouted for help and Fisher, accompanied by Adam Benene, who was working with him on the Narada, jumped into the tender and rowed as fast as he could toward Ashland.

The latter swam for a few moments, then sank, coming to the surface a few minutes later and floating with his face down. He was in this position when Fisher reached him and hauled him into the tender. Although unconscious, Fisher felt certain that Ashland was still living when he snatched him from the water.

Fisher rowed rapidly for the shore, while Benene worked over the unconscious form of Ashland, succeeding in getting a quantity of water from his lungs. Upon reaching Ocean pier, Fisher shouted for a doctor, but there was a delay of more than 20 minutes before one arrived upon the scene.

Meanwhile every effort was made to resuscitate Ashland, but everything failed to produce a spark of life. Dr. B. W. Brown, who also worked over the body, had no better results and Ashland was finally pronounced dead. The body was taken to the Metropolitan Park police station, where it was claimed early in the evening by Mrs. Ashland.

TWO BOYS DROWNED

BYRON WARREN AND ELMER CARPENTER OF FALL RIVER VICTIMS NEAR Y. M. C. A. BOYS' CAMP

LITTLE COMPTON, R. I., July 9.—Two members of a Young Men's Christian association boys' camp were drowned in a pond between here and Westport harbor yesterday. The victims were Byron Warren, aged 20, and Elmer Carpenter, 13 years old, both of Fall River, Mass.

When an ear went overboard, Carpenter jumped and swam for it, then cried for help. Warren went to his assistance, but almost immediately both went under. Neither came to the surface again.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

B. F. KETH'S THEATRE

"The House of Temperley," a five reel photo drama produced under the supervision of G. K. Hodgkinson, the London film magnate, will be shown at the B. F. Keth theatre the remaining three days of this week, beginning this afternoon. Hodgkinson, who has had much experience in the making of motion picture masterpieces, selected on "Rodney Stone," one of Sir A. Conan Doyle's stories, as the drama with which to startle London. Giving it the name of "The House of Temperley," it was shown many weeks in various London theatres, and for three weeks at the Strand theatre, in New York. Everywhere it has met with a warm reception, and doubtless it will prove a striking feature in this city. The story, like all of Doyle's, is chock full of action and it holds some of the well nigh impossible things which fit so well into motion pictures nowadays. A realistic contest between the hero and the bad man of the story caps the climax. No body can watch this without having his blood stirred. In addition to the five-reel feature there will be three other single reels, embracing comedy and dramatic subjects. Admission to performances will remain the same as heretofore; 10 cents, with a few seats reserved at 15 cents, and children five cents.

CANOE LAKE THEATRE

It would be hard to imagine a comedy sketch with more soundly laughs than "Brown's Vacation" which is being presented by the Homan's Musical Revue at Canoe Lake Park. After this week and the company of artists who present it seem to enter into the fun with the rest of those present. Barner Williams as Mr. Brown is a veritable cyclone of fun and the rest of the cast do not allow him to monopolize the fun-making either. The description of the "Honey-to-goodness" vacation in the mountains with its terrifying incidents all vouched for by the reason of the church, is side-splitting to put it mildly. May Wright, a well-known local comedienne, appearing in a splendid voice and more than the usual amount of ability as an actress figures strongly when the honors are passed out, being "in the front row" so to speak. In all of her numbers she was received cordially by the patrons and promises to be one of the big favorites of the summer season. Miss Nance Shannon, the prima-donna with the big voice, really needs no mention, the patrons themselves saying about all that could be said. Her performance as was to be expected, swept the whole theatre with enthusiasm from their first appearance to their last and figured strongly in an after-piece which kept the audience in continual roars. Gordon and the Elgin Sisters made a hit with their Texas Tommy Dance.

the theatre have by special arrangements with the Thannouser Film company obtained the rights for the production of the entire series of "The Million Dollar Mystery" and the first episode will be shown in two reels at both theatres Friday and Saturday and will be continued each week hereafter. The entire series of "Honey-to-goodness" will take twenty-three weeks and ten thousand dollars will be given to the man, woman or child who solves the mystery. To do so successfully each episode should be seen as it is produced at these two theatres each week. This picture is the result of many months' work on the part of the company and has cost over a half a million dollars to produce. Never before has the moving picture public been offered a production of such magnitude. The story is filled with thrills from beginning to end and it is said to surpass in interest either "What Happened to Mary" or "The Perils of Pauline," and is acknowledged by the press and public as one of the most fascinating and charming serial stories ever shown.

The Lowell public is fortunate in having the opportunity of seeing this picture which the great modern detective, Wm. J. Burns, has acknowledged to be a master work of invention.

LAKEVIEW PARK
The Caledonian Pipe Band and dancers appearing at Lakeview Park this week are drawing large crowds and giving excellent satisfaction. Concerts are being given every afternoon and evening at 2.45, 4, 7.45 and 9 p. m., appearing on the outdoor stage. Miss Vina Ripple, who is a member of the band, varies the program being given by offering a series of character dances that are well executed. At the theatre there is a fine new program of the latest releases in moving pictures. The program at the theatre changes every Thursday, Sunday and Monday and the latest and best pictures in the market are shown.

Next Sunday the Spindle City band will give an afternoon and evening concert at Lakeview Park, offering a selected program.

THE OWL THEATRE
The Owl's program of photo-plays contains many new and interesting features. "Through Dante's Flames," a four-part drama, is a cleverly plotted play that will not fail to interest. "Ain't," a two-part feature is also a new drama, while "Lizzy," a Royston comedy, two other subjects and Jack Dalton's singing will complete one of the genuinely good programs of the week. The sliding roof keeps you cool and comfortable.

THE KASINO
Now and then one hears a protest against "that sameness" of orchestral music, and frequently, with good reason, but the same is not true of Minner's orchestra, which introduces quality and variety most pleasing to all. The Minner organization always has something up its sleeve to keep people interested. Dancing every night and on Saturday afternoon.

STAMP OUT ANARCHY

It must have become apparent to those at the head of great labor organizations that at times of labor unrest undesirable elements strive to inject real anarchy into the situation. Hoping to cover the venom of their acts under the guise of emotional necessity and to get a foothold for their diabolical principles on the sympathies of the public. Occasionally they overreach their mark as they are doing at present with a vengeance in New York and in Wakefield.

When a week ago a death-dealing bomb of fearful power exploded in a New York tenement block carrying three anarchists to destruction, the plot of the conspirators stood out in all its hideous nakedness. Uncontrovertible evidence linked the den of infamy with the I. W. W. and other pernicious bands that have sought to sow disruption in Lawrence, in Lowell, in Wakefield and wherever class feeling has been roused to any degree by labor disputes. With most amazing efficiency the leaders of such bodies, instead of stamping under cover like revealed rats, came out in glorification of the potential murderers who were blown to ignominious and retributive oblivion and announced that the miserable wretches were "martyrs." It is even proposed to hold a public funeral in their honor with all the pomp and trickery that the I. W. W. knows how to use only too well.

Now the papers that announce the New York plans tell how the home of an official of the case factory in Wakefield, in which the I. W. W. strike was declared recently, was wrecked partially by an internal machine placed in the kitchen by some conspirator similar to those who were killed in the New York explosion. Once again it is evident that those responsible for the proposed funeral and for the Wakefield explosion hold the laws in absolute contempt and revel in the "No God, no country" slogan that sent a warning broadcast at the time of the Lawrence strike.

The eyes of this country and of the world are on our government at the present time, when such incidents are in the air, so closely following on the recent assassination of the Austrian heir and his consort in Bosnia. Is it wise that the American toleration of the past should be shown? Is it prudent that the dark plotters of every country in Europe should abuse the liberty of this free land and attack our institutions with impunity? Far from it. While such things can happen and while the leaders of Godless and lawless groups may flock to our underworlds from every country on earth, there is a terrible and a growing menace like a cancer at the very root of our national life. When conspirators and incendiary orators dare to assert their treacherous independence on the eve of such terrible revelations, may not the leaders of our people pause and ask if we are not tolerant to the point of folly?

The great masses of American people are law-abiding, sane, and unemotional in all relating to their political and industrial life. They will not for a moment countenance any injustice, even to anarchists, and they will demand that the old rights of free speech and personal freedom be observed. But they will back up their officials in every station who seek to prevent the making of bombs and the throwing of them in this land of democracy. Here is something for the jingoes to take up instead of war with Mexico or any other nation. Let us in justice and righteousness arm ourselves against the anarchy which is growing up and thriving in our own country and let us strive to exterminate it so thoroughly that the poisonous brood of miscontents and conspirators against justice may perish automatically for want of their pestilential atmosphere.

ABOLISHING PARTY TIES

One of the last important acts of the 1914 legislature was the passage of the bill for the abolition of party enrollment in the direct primaries, with a referendum clause attached, and in due time the citizens of the Commonwealth will be called upon to pass on its merits. It is almost certain that it will be adopted—like the direct primary itself—because the trend of modern politics is more and more away from anything looking like technicality and real tape and more towards the adoption of direct methods. Yet it is not well for the public to enthrone too much over the innovation, for it may be disappointing in some important places just as the direct primary itself has been. The principle of the thing is most acceptable, but it will be at the mercy of the voting public—and the voting public does not as yet lay claim to any great idealism. In the machinery of practical politics, the abolition of party enrollment may be abused until it is worse than the evil it wishes to supplant. It remains in the hands of the electorate to make it an instrument of good or of evil, just as they may happen to choose. In the abstract, the proposed reform should have two most important results:

First, the doing away with undesirable influences on the voting public and the cultivation of a larger vote at primaries and elections. Heretofore many felt compelled to adhere to the party line, perhaps against their soundest convictions, and some refrained from voting because the party designation hedged them around too strongly. Now, there can be little excuse for this type of individual to neglect his voting privilege or duty, and no party enrollment will stand between a man and his conscience. The great danger will be in the introduction of influences into political affairs which have no rightful place in deciding the popular preference. Under the old system a party name often kept undesirable features out of political lights, and it is to be hoped that if the abolition of party names as primaries is sanctioned by the public, nothing less desirable will be substituted as a means to register political preference.

The greatest danger is that the members of one party will help nominate weak candidates for an opposing party in order that they may be defeated on election day. That is an old party trick that has often been resorted to with success in Lowell and elsewhere.

WARBURG WITHDRAWS

The refusal of Mr. Paul M. Warburg of the New York banking house of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. to serve on the new federal reserve board has been an undoubted disappointment to President Wilson and in some degree to the country at large, for Mr. Warburg was regarded as the pre-eminent strong man of a strong combination. He also possesses the detailed knowledge of international finance among the intricacies of which the new board will conduct many important activities. His resignation is said not to be final and it is no secret that the president would like him to reconsider his action and to serve on the very important body for which he is so thoroughly qualified.

Judgment of Mr. Warburg's withdrawal of his name will vary very much according to the bias of the individual who discusses it, for it was undoubtedly due to a very delicate weighing of the attendant circumstances. Owing to his connection with leaders of finance, or for some other such reason, the senate committee did not confirm his name immediately but selected him for a number of questions arranged for by the new law. This procrastination was quite natural and it was quite as natural that Mr. Warburg should resent the delay and the intention of interviewing him and that he should decline an honor which he did not seek. If he persists in his determination the loss is upon the country but it is problematical if the blame is on anybody, except on the gentleman himself, who showed almost abnormal sensitiveness.

It would be easy for the superficial observer to reflect that the refusal of Mr. Warburg to give an account of his financial stewardship of itself shows his unfitness for a high post calling for patriotic service and utmost disinterestedness, but this would be unjust. Mr. Warburg, despite his unpopular alliances, has had a clean record and there is nothing to prevent his accepting the momentous post with honor. Perhaps when the import of the congressional delay becomes plain to him he will accept it gracefully and acknowledge its importance. It is to be hoped so, for the sake of the currency law which will work well in relation to the ability and sincerity of those selected to administer its provisions. If he persists in refusing, the president will not find it hard to fill the place—acceptably.

OIL SPRINKLING

The Fall River Herald, commenting on some conditions of oil sprinkling on the streets of that city issues some warnings that are pertinent to Lowell where municipal oil sprinkling has scarcely passed the experimental stage. It seems that in the sister city the dust is beginning to blow on some of the streets that have been sprinkled, and the condition is far worse than before the treatment, for dust carrying oil particles is anything but a welcome visitor to the household. It is suggested that in the early stages of street oiling many applications should be given until the possibility of dust blowing is removed. "Complaint was made last year," says the Fall River Herald, "that the service was superficial and that in order to accomplish what was desired the surface of the highways should be treated until it was oil-soaked, as has been done in other cities. After that, a coating applied in the spring may be sufficient to last through the year."

Undoubtedly on many of our streets the application of oil was liberal, but in some cases the streets were not sufficiently prepared and the coating either blew away or was lifted by wheels of passing vehicles or by automobiles. Then, again, rain fell immediately after some of the applications and washed much of the oil away. For some of this the street department cannot be blamed, but the example of Fall River should be a guide to future activity along the same lines. All will agree that our contemporary does not exaggerate when it says in conclusion: "There is certainly no great economy in oil-sprinkling that is not sufficient to hold the road surface in dustless condition from one sprinkling to another."

UP TO COMMISSIONER MORSE

Strike or no strike, it is up to Commissioner Morse to keep the work of the street department moving without interruption. To allow the entire public to be inconvenienced by the strike of a few teamsters, will bring criticism not to the strikers but to the commissioner in charge. Don't let the paving job lag, Mr. Commissioner. There are other jobs to be attended to when that is finished and the wretched condition of the thoroughfares entering our city in the possible consequences.

There are other jobs waiting and if one be delayed some other may have to be laid over until next year.

SHINGLES TO GO

Warned by the lesson of its neighbor Salem, Lynn is said to be considering a municipal regulation which would eventually banish the wooden shingles from the roofs of the city. The proposed ordinance is expected to prohibit shingles on any building erected in Lynn after August 1, and will set a time, possibly 1923, when all roofs must be covered with non-combustible material. Mayor Newhall is in favor of the innovation, provided it is worded so that no unnecessary burden is imposed on property owners. In Worcester recently Mayor Wright recommended sweeping changes in the building laws, including the banishing of the shingle from congested areas. Lowell has received the recommendations of our recent investigating experts on the same subjects. All progressive cities now see the danger of the wooden shingles as never before, and if precautions are neglected, the cities must be ready for the possible consequences.

THE LIGHTNING BUG

Through the last week above the green grass of the lawn the night has been filled with twinkling lights as though there was a search being made with lanterns for some insect felon by the little denizens of bugdom. These flashing lanterns are carried by a strange little beetle, the lightning bug or firefly which emits from the under side of the body an intermittent phosphorescent light.

This beetle is little more than half an inch long. The aristocratic members of the family are the large tropical species, two inches long; the fireflies of the West Indies and Central and South America.

The great surgeon, Sir Frederick Treves, is quoted as saying that if he were compelled to undergo an operation he would be very careful to select a surgeon who was not brilliant. Church, head of the bureau of supplies of the department of water supply, gas and electricity of New York City, in talking about efficiency, says, "It is necessary that there be no 'dispensable' men. Such ones are the most dangerous units in any organization, for sooner or later they are taken sick or die, and get better positions elsewhere, and the work suffers, and there is no one prepared to take their places."

straight answer to a plain question. "Now," he demanded, "are you or were you not in the plaintiff's office at 1 p. m. on this particular afternoon?" "If I had been," replied the exasperated witness, "how—" But before he could get further, counsel interrupted him. "I want no explanations," he rapped out, "merely a plain answer! I suggest that you were in the plaintiff's office. Is that so?" The witness pursed his lips, then obstinately shook his head. "Well," continued the barrister. "I've answered you," retorted the witness. "I shook my head."

STRETCHING THE STORY

"You'd scarcely believe," said the man with the long whiskers, "how excessively damp it is along the Gulf coast of Texas. We all use rawhide harness, and a real hot, damp day sure does cause the tugs to stretch amazingly. One day I drove down on the Brazos river bottom more than a mile from home and loaded up three-quarters of a cord of wood. Just as I had finished loading a shower came up and the water that fell was as hot as the so-called hot coffee in restaurants."

"Well, I started the mules and drove on home, and when I got there the wagon was still down on the bottom and the tugs were stretched out as small as shoestrings. What did I do to get the wood home? That's easy. I just unharnessed and threw the gears over a stump in the back yard. Fifteen minutes later the sun shone out, dried up the dampness and in less than an hour that wagon came creeping up the hill. Yes, sir, that's a fact."

FOREIGN POLICIES

So far, the one bright deed in President Wilson's foreign policy is the repeal of the Panama toll provision. Even that was avariciously qualified to save any possible right to make such distinction. And, broadly, that repeal was but a backing out from a hogwash defiance of the obligation of an international contract.

THE MEXICAN ELECTION

None of the meager accounts of Europe's official Mexican report more than two per cent of the vote out, even in the parts of the country Huerta controls. As no election can constitutionally be held while a rebellion is in process, of course the tallying, reported to record a majority for Huerta as regular president, is only a joke. It is not easy to see what the astute oldascal is driving at, unless to claim a vote of confidence in Huerta's retirement. DR. CARMAN CONFIDENT OF WIFE'S ACQUITTAL

FREEPORT, N. Y., July 9.—With Mrs. Florence Conklin Carman in the county jail at Mineola a prisoner charged with the murder of Mrs. Louise Bailey on the night of June 30 last, District Attorney Smith today was prepared to go before the grand jury and begin the presentation of his case against the accused woman.

One of the first witnesses to appear before the grand jury today was announced, would be Edward T. Barde, the insurance agent, whose testimony yesterday before Coroner Norton caused that official to issue the warrant for Mrs. Carman's arrest. Another witness will be the Carman maid, Cella Coleman, a negro girl.

Counsel for Mrs. Carman today said that she was prepared to go before the grand jury and testify truthfully, a thing unusual in the case of a person charged with murder.

Mrs. Carman will be brought back to Freeport on Monday for arraignment when she is expected to repeat her plea of not guilty. It is expected that she will be held at that time for the action of the grand jury.

Dr. Carman, who accompanied Mrs. Carman to the jail at Mineola, declared his belief in her innocence and confidence in her acquittal.

NOT SUFFICIENT EVIDENCE YET FOR INDICTMENT, SAYS ASST. DIST. ATTY. WEEKS

MINEOLA, L. I., July 9.—It is not at all certain there will be enough evidence for a grand jury indictment against Mrs. Florence Carman, charged with the murder of Mrs. Louise Bailey and yesterday committed to the county jail awaiting an examination on the charge. This was the opinion Assistant District Attorney Weeks expressed today.

Mrs. Carman's case was expected to come up before the grand jury late today but, according to Mr. Weeks, there was little likelihood of an indictment. The number of witnesses to be examined would preclude this possibility today.

"It is not unlikely," said the assistant district attorney, "that when Mrs. Carman appears on Monday before Coroner Norton who will be acting in the capacity of justice of the peace she will be discharged. At that time Mrs. Carman's attorney will have a right to cross examine the witnesses who testify against the prisoner."

Dr. Carman, who has come to Mineola for the day, found his wife in better spirits when he visited her in jail. She seemed to have recovered her composure and to be less nervous.

Keyworkers Ransacked a Cottage House on Maple Street

It seems that the thief key workers who so successfully looted several residences in this city last year have returned to Lowell and again they are performing their work with much success, despite the efforts of the police to round them up.

The last case reported to the police was a theft committed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. August Johnson, 28 Maple street, where it is claimed the intruders got away with about $60 worth of jewelry without leaving the slightest clue as to their identity.

The key workers made their entrance into the house through the rear door of the cottage and after ransacking everything from the kitchen to the bed rooms upstairs, made their escape through the front door. This occurred sometime in the forenoon while Mrs. Johnson was away and when she returned at noon she was astonished to find the door opened. She immediately investigated and found that the house had been entered and that a gold watch valued at $35, a ring valued at $20 and several other pieces of jewelry were missing. These articles having been taken from a bureau drawer in a sleeping room on the second floor. It was also found that the front door was unlocked, which led the police to believe that the intruders left the house through that way. The police are working on the case, but as yet the thieves are still at large.

Nick Arode, said to be a New York gunman and a friend of Newman, also was locked up. He was found strolling about town without any particular business and was arrested on suspicion.

ing job, and Mr. Morse said the contract read that the cement should be delivered on the job. Mr. Morse also stated that he talked with one of the favers this morning and the paver told him he was willing to go to work and that he would have a talk with the other pavers.

Asked if he had any plan in mind for the resumption of the paving work in Gorham street, Mr. Morse said he did not have anything definite in mind, but he believed the matter would straighten itself out in a week or so.

It was reported that the mayor would call a special meeting for the purpose of having the council, as a whole, take some action relative to the holding up of paving and sewer work on account of the commissioner of streets and highways being unable to obtain the cement. Asked if he would call the meeting, Mayor Murphy said: "I have no intention of calling a special meeting at this time. I do not think that it is yet time for the municipal council to take action. The matter properly belongs to the commissioner of streets and highways."

The mayor said he could not understand why the city teamsters could not unload the cement from the cars placed by the contractors in Rutland siding, and he also suggested that if the contractor failed to deliver the cement, the city could purchase from other parties. Then came some discussion as to the contract and the mayor sent his private secretary to the auditor's office to get it. The mayor went over the contract very thoroughly and said: "I am not going to call the key to the situation. If the contractor fails to deliver the cement in the time, place and quantity required, the city may purchase from other parties and charge the extra expense to the contractor. I rather think this solves the problem."

Part of Specifications

The mayor then called attention to the concluding section of the specifications accompanying the contract. The section has to do with time and place of delivery and reads as follows:

"The cement to be delivered at such places and at such time and in such quantities as the commissioner of streets and highways shall designate to the purchasing agent. All orders or cement will be issued from the office of the purchasing agent and the contractor will notify the purchasing agent when he is to make deliveries."

"Thirty-six hours' notice will be given the contractor of the place where the cement is to be delivered and the kind and quantity required by the city. Should the contractor fail to deliver the cement in the time, place and quantity required by the foreman, the city is hereby agreed that the city shall have the right to purchase the cement of other parties and deliver the amount at the place required, and the extra expense of such purchase and delivery over the sum which would have been due the contractor under his contract for such delivery and purchase shall be deducted and repaid by the city of Lowell from money due or which may become due him."

And to Fill Places

"If you should discharge all of the men in your employ who refuse to go on with the work in Gorham street, you are delaying the work because of their sympathy with the coal teamsters. Do you think you could fill their places?"

This question was put to Mr. Morse and he replied that he thought it could be a rather difficult job to fill their places. He said it might be any enough to fill some of their places but he thought it would be hard to get any considerable number of experienced men.

Asked if he thought it would be a good idea to let the work out by contract, Mr. Morse said: "I would like a majority of the municipal council to settle that matter. Personally I am not in favor of contract work."

City Fathers in Cambridge

Mayor Murphy and Commissioners Brown, Donnelly and Morse went to Cambridge yesterday to find out how the civil service as applied to city fathers is operating in that city. Cambridge was the first city in the Commonwealth to apply civil service to city laborers and the mayor and other heads of departments there are quite well satisfied with it. "As far as we could learn, and we went into the matter very thoroughly," said Mayor Murphy, "the thing works all right in Cambridge. It was adopted there in 1890 and it has had ample time to work itself out. The heads of departments like it because it relieves them

THE LARGE WHEAT CROP

WILL NOT GREATLY REDUCE PRICES, ACCORDING TO DEPT. OF AGRICULTURE

WASHINGTON, July 9.—Despite a wheat crop estimated this year at 930,000,000 bushels, the largest on record, no hope is held out by the department of agriculture for greatly reduced prices. Such a large crop would augur very low prices, according to a statement today, were it not that the world crops of wheat and competing grains do not promise more than the average of recent years. Besides more than the usual diversion of wheat from its use as food for men its use for food for livestock may be expected because of the short supply of corn in sections where there is a promise of abundant crops.

With corn selling in Kansas for about seven cents more per bushel than wheat it is not surprising, officials say, that much wheat should be consumed as feed by animals. Kansas corn crop last year was only 25,000,000 bushels, compared with the usual production of 150,000,000 bushels. This year's estimates are for a crop of 150,000,000 bushels of wheat.

It is estimated that about 45,000,000 bushels of wheat of last year's crop was consumed as animal feed. Of the average annual production of 650,000,000 bushels of wheat during the past five years about 551,000,000 were retained in this country and 105,000,000 bushels exported. If the domestic wheat requirement were reckoned at about 520,000,000 bushels, exclusive of feed and 70,000,000 to 80,000,000 for seed and were applied to a population of 95,635,000, officials say it would indicate a normal requirement of 322,000,000 bushels plus seed requirement of 70,000,000 or a total of about 392,000,000. The statement adds that this would indicate an available export supply from the crop of nearly 330,000,000 bushels but there must be deducted from this amount the quantity used for livestock feeding estimated at approximately 75,000,000 and possibly more. Even this would leave about 255,000,000 for export.

The men whose names were mentioned in the letters included Smoko Inspector Charles Riley, William E. Kenefick, engineer at the Chestnut Street hospital; James Coleman, assistant physician at the Chestnut Street hospital; Walter Mulvaney, of the north department, and City Engineer George P. Noonan. Mr. Noonan has been city engineer for 20 years and the mayor was surprised that his right to the position should be questioned. The mayor said he would look into the appointment and report to Commissioner Dudley.

Building Permits Granted

Walter Coburn was granted a permit this morning for the construction of a seven-room residence at 15 East Mount street. The building will be of brick and wood and will cost approximately $4500.

Another petition granted this forenoon was to the B. F. Keith heirs for the addition of a store front and interior decoration to 11 Bridge street. The estimated cost is $5000.

SALEM RELIEF FUNDS

The money collected and contributed in this city for the relief of the Salem sufferers will be sent to Salem, it was stated today, either Monday or Tuesday of next week, and it is expected that the amount will reach and probably exceed $10,000.

The last tax day box was received at city hall this morning and was opened in the mayor's office. The box contained $378, making the total for tax day, $12,622. Additional subscriptions were received at the Lowell Trust Co. today and yesterday.

Additional amounts received at the Union National bank today were as follows:

Mrs. C. M. Morse, $25.00
Dr. William G. Ward, 20.00
Relle F. Bachelder, 5.00
Friend, 3.00

These amounts bring the Union National bank total up to $374.30. Other additional subscriptions today included $25.25 from the employees of The Sun. This amount was handed Mr. Patrick O'Hearn, treasurer of the Salem Relief committee. Total $212.55.

LINER PASSENGERS TRANSFERRED

QUEENSTOWN, July 9.—The Allan liner Sicilian's machinery broke down when she was two days out from Havre when she sailed on July 3 for Montreal and she has been forced to put back to this port. She has 245 passengers on board who are to be transferred to another Allan liner on the arrival of the Sicilian here.

Everybody interested in dancing should see the exhibition to be given by the McGuire at the Casino on Friday night. The McGuire will dance the one step, Maxine, hesitation, and Argentine tango and a new novelty of their own ribbon waltz.

TO HEAD STATE HEALTH BOARD

WASHINGTON, July 9.—Victor Heisl, public health service officer, has been asked by Massachusetts officials to head the new state health commission. Gov. Walsh will ask President Wilson to allow Dr. Heisl to take the post.

NO CUP RACE TODAY

THREE YACHTS, RESOLUTE, VANITIE AND DEFIANCE FOG-BOUND AND RACE WAS POSTPONED

NEWPORT, R. I., July 9.—The three American yachts, Resolute, Vanitie and Defiance were fog-bound in Newport harbor today and the regatta committee of the New York Yacht club decided at 12:20 that there was little prospect of the fog lifting and they declared the contest postponed until tomorrow. The three yachts took down their mainsails which had been hoisted early, and everything was made tight and light on board for a possible rainy afternoon and night.

The fog drove in all last night and this morning, but near 10 o'clock it began to burn off a little and the regatta committee on board C. K. Billings yachts, Vanitie, steamed slowly out of the harbor to look over weather conditions.

Weather permitting, the three big single-stickers will meet over a 30-mile triangular course tomorrow.

GREECE CONSIDERS SALE OF WAR-SHIPS BY UNITED STATES A GREAT ACT OF HUMANITY

WASHINGTON, July 9.—President Wilson today received a telegram from the Pan-Hellenic union in America thanking him for the sale of the battleships Idaho and Mississippi to Greece.

"We consider the transaction a great act of humanity in treating the outbreak of a new war in the Near East," says the president of the union.

GOV. WALSH AT CAPITAL

URGED FEDERAL APPROPRIATION OF $200,000 FOR SALEM FIRE SUFFERERS

WASHINGTON, July 9.—Governor David I. Walsh of Massachusetts conferred today with Chairman Fitzgerald of the house appropriation committee urging a federal appropriation of $200,000 for the Salem fire sufferers but the chairman declined to recede from his opposition. The Massachusetts delegation immediately got to work on plans to pass the appropriation in the house. It already has passed the senate and is approved by President Wilson.

When an amendment to the sundry civil appropriation bill came up today Mr. Fitzgerald sought to send it direct to a conference committee but Republican Leader Mann blocked that with an objection and the fight will come out on the floor tomorrow.

Mr. Fitzgerald expressed his sympathy for Salem but based his opposition on the fixed policy of the committee towards such occasions.

REMARKABLE SKIN GRAFTING CASE AT PITTSBURGH—PATIENT LEAVES HOSPITAL

PITTSBURGH, July 9.—Seventeen months from the time he was admitted to the hospital here, Every Jacobs of Chicago, Ill., was today discharged with 80 square inches of new skin. Jacobs, while employed in a mill, was frightfully burned and his father and nine young friends gave the cuticle which saved his life. Surgeons regard the case as one of the most remarkable in skin grafting.

CITIZENS AMERICANS MEET

An interesting meeting of the members of the Citizens-American club was held last night at the club rooms in Middle street with President Maxime Lepine in the chair. Sixteen new members were initiated and 15 applications for membership were received. The secretary's report was read and it showed that the membership of the organization has nearly doubled since the club moved into its new quarters.

It was decided to open a subscription among the members for the Salem relief fund and all members were urged to contribute their share for the sufferers of Salem, the amount collected to be later turned over to the committee of seventy.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Lureau of Hampton avenue are rejoicing at the birth of a daughter.

ROME, July 9.—The second wife of the distinguished Italian sculptor Filippo Caffarello was accidentally burned to death today through the explosion of a lamp. Caffarello in August, 1908, shot and killed his first wife in a fit of jealousy. He was acquitted after a sensational trial.

FOLKESTONE, England, July 9.—The English team today completed the rout of the Belgians in the first preliminary round of the Davis Cup tennis international lawn tennis trophy competition. T. M. Mayrongero in the singles beat A. G. Watson in straight sets and J. Parke defeated P. De Borman also in three straight sets.

CHICAGO, July 9.—Helmie Zimmerman, the Chicago Nationals third baseman today, received notice from President Tener of the National league that he was suspended for three days with loss of pay for arguing too strenuously with home plate umpire D. F. Egan. The local club also fined Zimmerman $50 and inflicted a similar penalty on outfielder Leach for similar offenses.

PRESS PHOTOGRAPHERS

Consult Newport, R. I., Police Chief on Right to Snap Notables on the Public Streets

NEWPORT, R. I., July 9.—A delegation of press photographers waited on the chief of police this morning and demanded that they shall not be interfered with in the performance of their work. They claimed the right to snap notables on the public streets.

The chief did not deny the legal right but contended that the police have a right to happen to be in front of cameras when they are to be snapped and said that they would continue to do so. He told the photographers that the cottagers were to be protected. Photographers, he said, have secured all the pictures they desired without complaint but present methods will be fought. The photographers say they will leave town tonight.

HENRY FORD OF DETROIT VISITS PRES. WILSON

Continuation of Informal Conferences to Discuss Industrial and Financial Conditions — Other Big Business Men Call

WASHINGTON, July 8.—President Wilson had another engagement today in continuation of his informal conferences with the heads of "big business" to discuss general industrial and financial conditions of the country. He was prepared to see Henry Ford of Detroit, a committee of bankers from Illinois and a delegation representing the National Association of State Bank Supervisors. The administration's anti-trust program also was expected to form an important part of the discussions.

It was said that Mr. Ford had been invited by the president. He was to be entertained at luncheon at the White House.

Today's engagement was the third in the series of conferences the president had arranged to talk over with leaders in the industrial and financial world general business conditions, as well as measures in congress.

One direct result of the conference yesterday with the Chicago business men is the possibility that the trade commission bill which has passed the house and is now pending in the senate may be modified as to details.

The delegation suggested certain modifications which, they contended, would make it a strengthening agency, helpful to all business.

They advocated a trade commission with broad powers of investigation and with authority to order the discontinuance of practices contrary to law. They objected to making all corporations return annual reports to the commission and thought the bill as it now stands contains too many definitions of illegal practices. After listening carefully to their arguments, President Wilson telegraphed the author of the bill, Representative Covington, at his Maryland home to come to Washington to confer with the president. He was expected here early today.

FELL DEAD ON FLOOR TURNED UPSIDE DOWN

STRANGER IN ROOM OF ARTIST IN NEW YORK VICTIM OF APPOXY

NEW YORK, July 8.—Mrs. Louise Julietta sent a hurry call at 4:30 p.m. yesterday afternoon for a physician from her home in the Artisan apartments, No. 250 West Fifty-fifth street. Dr. R. R. Tupper of No. 245 West Fifty-fifth street responded and found a man of middle age, dead, stretched on the floor. The physician said that apoplexy had killed him.

Coroner Helms and the police found on the man's body a bank book and papers, which identified it as that of Edward J. Lillen, lawyer, legislator and editorial writer for the Standard-Zeitung, who lived with his wife, son and daughter at No. 2163 Sixty-seventh street, Brooklyn.

Mrs. Julietta said that Lillen had called at her home to look at two paintings she had advertised for sale. "I was about to show him the paintings," Mrs. Julietta said, "when he fell to the floor and died almost immediately. I had never seen him before."

The body was taken to the West Fifty-eighth street police station where later it was claimed by members of the family.

The widow said last night that her husband, who was fifty-three years of age, had been in poor health and she supposed that he had gone to see his physician.

"My husband's right name is Lillian," she said, "but he came to this country five years ago he dropped the 'l'."

DOMINICAN REBELS SENT SEVERAL SHOTS AGAINST HULL OF MACHINES AND GET REPLY

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Recklessly firing, Dominican rebels sent several shots against the hull of the American gunboat Machias in Puerto Plata harbor, and drew upon themselves a warning volley from the Machias' three-pounders and automatic rifles. The shooting from the shore stopped at once.

ATHLETES AND ATHLETICS

Although the Resolute won on her time allowance yesterday the showing of the Yacht club was by far the best of the three yachts which are striving for the honor of meeting the Shamrock IV. Yesterday's race was the most stirring of any of the brushes held this far.

Fred Lake has two good men on his ball club, Kihullen and Sweet. Both of these players would be acceptable to any manager in the circuit and must be getting pretty fair money at Pittsburgh.

Mayor John P. Hurley, Salem's famous executive, plans to be present at the "Tall Hat" cricket game at the Bunting grounds Saturday, the results of which will be turned over to the relief of the Salem sufferers.

Jimmy Dunn has challenged Freddie Welsh in behalf of Johnny Kilbane for a lightweight title battle. Kilbane's manager has kept Johnny out of the lightweight ranks up to the present time in spite of the featherweight champion's assertion that he could hand out a beating to the best of them. Now that a boxer and not a fighter holds the title, Dunn evidently is of the opinion that his man can wrest the lightweight title as well.

Alce Pearson certainly got a hummering at Worcester yesterday in the first game of the Lawrence-Worcester double header. Burkett's men collected 12 hits off the veteran's delivery and took the contest 11-6. Lawrence came back in the second game with Miller in the box and beat Van Dyke 4-2.

AUTO STRUCK BY TROLLEY CAR AND HAVERTHILL PEOPLE WERE INJURED

OLD ORCHARD, Me., July 8.—A touring car containing Lyman Campbell, the driver; Mrs. Margaret Campbell, his wife; their daughter Alice, Dr. and Mrs. Charles N. McCuen and son Robert, all of Haverhill, Mass., was struck by a car of the Biddeford and Saco street railway on the Old Orchard road last evening and turned upside down, imprisoning the occupants beneath it.

All the motorists were bruised and shaken, but none was seriously hurt except Mrs. McCuen, Dr. J. A. Randall of Old Orchard, who examined her, said no bones were broken, though her back was badly wrenched.

The party had been in camp. At a point between Old Orchard and Saco, whether they were bound, in driving to avoid a public part of the car was permitted to overlap the railway track.

The motorman, Bertram H. Wakefield, said in a distance of 10 feet more he could have brought his car to a stop. The trolley passengers asserted that no blame should be attached to him.

Mrs. McCuen declined to go to a hospital. All the motorists were taken to an Old Orchard hotel. The auto was badly damaged.

THE PEACE CONFERENCE

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Rafael Zubaran, confidential agent here of General Carranza, said today that while he had received no word as to the attitude of the constitutional chief toward the proposed informal peace conference with Huerta's representatives, he had by no means lost hope of a favorable answer. Zubaran and his associate Louis Cabrera, indicated they would continue their efforts to bring about the conference and that probably one of their junta here would leave in a day or two for Saltillo to press the argument in person.

Minister Naon of Argentina who is in New York today conferring with Minister Suarez of Chile and the Huerta delegates, is understood to have communicated with Mr. Cabrera before leaving Washington learning that the constitutionalists here would not relax their efforts in behalf of the peace conference. Mr. Naon was believed to have gone to New York to convey that word of encouragement to the Huerta delegates.

WARBURG RECONSIDERS

BANKER WILL SERVE ON FEDERAL RESERVE BOARD IF HE IS NOT CROSS-EXAMINED BY SENATE

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Paul Warburg, the New York banker, has reconsidered his request that President Wilson withdraw his nomination as a member of the federal reserve board on condition that he will not consent to appear before the senate banking committee to be cross-examined.

After receipt of a telegram from Mr. Warburg today it was said by officials close to the president that an active fight would be made for the confirmation. It was declared that should the banking committee fail to report the nomination favorably the president expects the senate as a whole to act.

Mr. Warburg's telegram to the president was not given out but after his receipt officials at the White House said the name would not be withdrawn. That followed a visit by Senators Thomas and Shafroth to the White House. They are understood to have told the president that only a very few democrats would oppose Mr. Warburg's confirmation.

The situation as to the nomination of Thomas D. Jones of Chicago remained unchanged and it was said at the White House that the president would continue to press for his confirmation.

A letter from the Chicago delegation of business men received yesterday by the president endorsing Mr. Wilson's statement in support of Mr. Warburg and Mr. Jones was made public at the White House.

No more hopeful, helpful, finer words ever have come from the White House and we believe they will meet with the nation's hearty approval," said the letter.

Mrs. Jennie K. Moran of the Massachusetts club is spending her vacation visiting her sister, Mrs. Rob. Cris of Winthrop, near where, Mr. Lester of Woburn and another uncle at Neponset.

CRIMINAL PROSECUTION OF SIR THOMAS LIPTON AND OTHERS SUGGESTED BY SIR MARSHAM

LONDON, July 8.—Criminal prosecution of Sir Thomas Lipton, the chairman, and his co-directors in Lipton, Ltd., was suggested by Sir Arthur Marsham, a Liberal member, in a question addressed to the attorney general appearing in today's parliamentary papers.

The question, the putting of which was postponed by arrangement, asks whether, in view of Justice Darling's statement that the defendants in the army canteen scandal case was acting on a system which was encouraged by the directorate of the company, the attorney general has laid the papers in the case before the public prosecutor or with a view to criminal proceedings for fraud and bribery against Sir Thomas Lipton and his co-directors.

The question arose out of the recent conviction of nine British army officers and eight civilian employees of Lipton, Ltd., on charges of receiving and giving bribes to influence the allotment of supply contracts for the army canteens.

FOR AUTOS ON BOULEVARD

REVERE MEN ASK FOR REPEAL OF ORDER—LIEUT. HARRY STEARS FOR THE PETITIONERS

BOSTON, July 8.—A plea for the repeal of the Metropolitan police park commission shutting off automobiles from the Revere beach boulevard during the rush hours at Revere beach, was made at a hearing given by the commission yesterday afternoon to representatives of Revere and Lieut. Gov. E. P. Barry.

Representative Andrew A. Casassa, town solicitor of Revere, conducted the hearing, and associated with him were Frederick Goran and Howard H. Trach, Charles L. Higgins, James A. Rotherham and William Kilne, the last four representing the business interests of the beach.

The petitioners argued that the commission's order, which keeps the automobiles off the boulevard during the busy hours of Saturdays, Sundays and holidays, does more harm than good, since it forces the cars all into ocean avenue, which everybody coming to the beach must cross, and makes a dangerous congestion there.

They held, too, that when the automobiles were allowed on the boulevard there were no accidents during the busy hours, since the cars were obliged to go slowly and the roadway was well paved. This was the contention of Lieut. Gov. Barry, who said he spoke not as a state official, but as an interested individual observer.

The business men argued that the order worked an injustice to them in two ways. Not only did they lose the desirable automobile trade, but, since the town government had been obliged to deliver of goods on Ocean ave. when the automobiles were turned into it, they were unable to get ice, milk, bakery goods, express parcels or anything else during the very hours that their trade was busiest.

This was not a public hearing and there was no opposition. The commissioners took the matter under advisement.

The couples will spend their honeymoon together at Atlantic City and upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Hurley will make their home at 48 Hampshire street, while Mr. and Mrs. McDermott will reside in Concord, N. WATER WAGON FIRE

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 8.—Firemen here assert they have extinguished the strangest blaze on record. It was started by a water wagon. The "food for the flames" was a street.

Early yesterday the tank of a motor-driven street sprinkler spilled gasoline which trickled over a lantern at the rear. That fired the gasoline. The flames spread until a half square of the street was blazing. The firemen were half an hour in putting out the flames.

SUES FOR THE REWARD

CHAUFFEUR WANTS $100 FOR GIVING INFORMATION TO MR. HALLIAN.

BOSTON, July 9.—A suit against Joseph Hallian to recover $100, the sum said to have been offered by him as a reward for information as to the whereabouts of his daughter, Fern Hallian, and Louis Elman, the chauffeur with whom she eloped, has been brought by Daniel Brassalt of Boston, according to his counsel, Brassalt is the chauffeur who says he drove the couple from Boston to New York, where on the day they disappeared.

Inquiries made of Joseph Hallian yesterday to learn whether he offered such a reward and knew about the suit, were met with a flat refusal to discuss the matter. The inquiries were referred to his counsel, Atty. Soghruue. At the latter's office it was stated Atty. Soghruue was out and that he would probably follow the example of his client in refusing to answer inquiries as to the alleged offer of the reward.

Word was also received from Portland that Mrs. Roger of that city, who furnished information leading to the finding of the elopers, had entered a claim for the award.

Mrs. Hallian said yesterday: "Several claims have been made for the $100 reward offered by my husband. I don't know who made the claim. A summons has been issued for Louis Elman by Judge Hayden in the Roxbury court on complaint of Patrolmen Smith and Coughlin of the Roxbury Crossing station, who charge the chauffeur with over-speeding on Columbus avenue, near Egleston square, June 21. The summons is returnable Wednesday next. It has connection with any other charges which have recently been brought against Elman in other courts."

JOHN D. CELEBRATES

NEW YORK, July 9.—For the first time in years John D. Rockefeller celebrated his birthday yesterday on his estate at Pocantico Hills. He is 73 years old. It has been his custom heretofore to go to his Cleveland estate early in June and remain there until fall. The campaign against him conducted by the anarchists and I. W. W. leaders is believed to be partly the reason for Mr. Rockefeller's long stay at Pocantico Hills. He does not like to retire under fire.

The estate just outside of Tarrytown is in a state of siege. Armed guards are at each of the seven gates. No one is permitted to enter unless he is known and expected by the sentinels. Sheriff Wm. J. Doyle of White Plains still has his deputies on the grounds. Yesterday the sheriff himself was there. At night the guards are doubled and watchdogs are turned loose. A sign on the gates that used by the police has been installed by Mr. Rockefeller. If he wakes up at night and wishes to know how watchful are his guardians, he has merely to press a button beside his bed. Red and blue lights flash around the estate, warning the men to go to the nearest signal box and record their visit.

Heretofore Mr. Rockefeller has not denied himself to newspaper men upon his birthday, but has made that day an occasion to give advice as to how to reach an advanced age and acquire a fortune. Yesterday, however, no reporters were welcomed.

"Mr. Rockefeller has received many requests for an interview," said his secretary, Mr. Simms, "but is sorry to say that he must deny himself to every one."

Owing to the poor health of Mrs. Rockefeller and her sister and the absence of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., who is at Seal Harbor, there was no family party at dinner last night. "All days look alike to me now," said Mr. Rockefeller recently to one of his employees who spoke of his approaching birthday. "I enjoy playing golf and I enjoy my estate. I particularly enjoy the work on my estate and that it enables me to give so many men employment. I like to see things moving, and I hope to keep them moving for many years to come."

In spite of Mr. Rockefeller's cheerful philosophy he is regarded as a virtual prisoner on his estate. It has been weeks since any one has seen him outside of his grounds, and, owing to the precautions taken, those who have seen him there are few. On a clear day the jagged skyline of Manhattan can be made out, but it has been many a day since Mr. Rockefeller has had a closer view of the tall buildings.

CITY OF LOWELL

DEPARTMENT OF FINANCE TAXES

Taxes of 1912-1913 and all other bills due this city must be paid on or before August 1, 1914.

This notice is being given to give all persons who owe such bills an opportunity to pay the same before that time. ANDREW G. STILES, City Treasurer and Collector of Taxes.

pocket when driving a car and that Smith street cannot be used in both directions, the defendant was asked to deliver a $5.00 note to Acting Clerk Toye.

James Glynn was arrested on Dutton street and charged this morning with drunkenness. Two little girls testified against him and Judge Enright ordered him to pay a fine of $5 and gave him no probationary term in which to pay it.

John T. Riley was accused by his wife of assaulting her. Judge Enright told the defendant that he would allow him to escape with a suspended sentence on promise of good behavior.

There were several old cases up for trial this morning on continuance and a half dozen unfortunate occupied the police dock as well. Sheriff Eveleth's Thurdike street castle was the destination of the majority.

Frederick J. Forgarty, after thinking the matter over carefully, withdrew his appeal and was sent to jail for the next four months. Bartholomew O'Neil and Joseph Dushenko accompanied Forgarty to the jail, their terms being one month shorter.

William Mercier pleaded not guilty, through his counsel, Lawyer Hamel, to assault and battery upon Daniel Morlary. Defendant and complainant are both young fellows.

The scene of the alleged assault was Fort Hill and the time this night before the Fourth. An argument ensued between the two and they went at it in earnest.

Young Morlary testified that while the defendant and himself were fighting he felt a pain in his thigh which later proved to be wounds from some sharp instrument.

Dr. Finnegan informed the court that he had treated the complainant. The physician described the wounds and said that he took six stitches in one, and two stitches in the other. Two of the complainant's companions told practically the same story as that of Morlary. No one saw a knife in Mercier's hand.

The defendant testified that the complainant swore at him and that he, the defendant, pushed him. Mercier's eye was still discolored this morning from where he says, he was struck that night. He stated emphatically that he did not stab Morlary.

Four young fellows who were with Mercier the night of the trouble corroborated Mercier's story in its essential details.

Judge Enright found the defendant guilty. The court, on account of the violent nature of the assault, ordered the defendant committed to the jail for a term of three months.

Against Merrimack Hotel

Supt. Welsh has filed a complaint against the proprietors of the Merrimack hotel with the license commission, alleging a violation of the conditions under which the license was granted.

The police allege that two young men bought several bottles of beer from the night clerk at a few minutes before midnight before the Fourth. A hearing will be held by the commission at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning.

TEWKSBURY PEOPLE FAVOR ANNEXATION

Their Chief Objection Being to Our Bad Roads—Rogers Street Complained of—What Chauffeurs Say of Our Roads

Annexation seems to be the watchword in the surrounding towns, or at least it is the main topic of discussion. Many of the suburban residents speak favorably of the editorial published in The Sun last Monday in which good reasons were set forth for annexing some of the suburban towns. However, some of the townspeople are from Missouri and they want to be shown before any real move is started in favor of annexation. In Tewksbury, for instance, some of the citizens want to see good roads in Lowell before they consent to become a part of the Spindle City, while others favor awaiting further developments in South Lowell, which was taken away from Tewksbury a few years ago. Although some of the men are very conservative on the annexation question, one of the town officials believes the annexation of Tewksbury to Lowell would be a highly good proposition for the town and although some say that South Lowell people have not benefited by the annexation, he seems to believe that great improvements have been made in that part of the city, and in his opinion if the other part of Tewksbury were to be treated as fairly as was South Lowell, he would recommend annexation at once.

"Show us good roads in Lowell," said a prominent business man of Tewksbury, "and then we will talk annexation, but not until then. Automobile drivers of the town complain of suffering more wear and tear on their machines while traveling in Lowell than in any other part of the state. This condition of the streets in Lowell is keeping your city from progressing and this is a well known fact throughout the state. Automobile parties coming from other parts of the state through Tewksbury to Lowell will have not been in the Spindle City for some time, stop in Tewksbury to get posted as to the condition of streets in Lowell and their first question is, 'Are Lowell streets as bad as ever?' and in many instances the reply is, 'Yes, worse than ever.'"

"We, residents of Tewksbury, would like to know how Lowell will manage to keep up the good condition of our roads, when she cannot attend to her own streets at the present time. Some of the main thoroughfares in Lowell are in a very bad condition and almost impossible to travel. The West end of Rogers street is nothing but a rock and a hole, while Westford street is a disgrace to your city. There are many other streets too numerous to mention that need repaving and repaving and unless the condition of your streets is brought to a high standard you can rest assured that there will be no annexation of Tewksbury."

Another prominent resident of the town spoke of the South Lowell and Westville districts which were annexed to Lowell some years ago and he said that many of the residents of that locality are quite satisfied; they think more might have been done in the sewerage line, although the problem there is a very big one. They appreciate the water service, the fire protection and the freedom of the schools. They are hopeful that the big Oakland sewer will be completed some day and some other means of solving the difficulty found.

Town Official Talks

One of the officials of the town claims that South Lowell and Wigganville have greatly benefited by the change and he favors the annexation of at least another slice of the town if not the whole of it. He said the water supply the residents of the annexed district are being given and the fire protection they are receiving is worth the difference in tax rate, and he feels that in time the new district will be properly taken care of. He also believes that within a short time a sewerage system will be constructed in that locality and the streets and sidewalks will be put in good condition.

This official said the present tax rate is $15 per thousand and it is very probable this year the assessors will announce an increase of one or two dollars. The increase will be due to the erection of the Shawheen school last year at a cost of $8,000 and also of at least another $10,000 for the Clark road improvement. The school debt is to be wiped out at a rate of $2,000 a year, which means that a high tax rate will be in evidence for at least four years. Now another schoolhouse will have to be built and that will be another burden on the town. The town has been talking for some time of building a water system and as some of that goes through money will be needed and the taxpayers will be called upon to disburse. There are other numerous improvements needed in the town which cannot be done just because the taxpayers refuse to shoulder the burden. With the annexation to Lowell the city would take care of all the needs and as a whole the town would be better off.

No Fire Protection

"We have practically no water available in case of fire and hardly any fire protection and some day we may find ourselves in the same predicament as the Salem victims. By annexing Tewksbury to Lowell the water mains would be extended to the town. It is also certain that we would have no difficulty in having electric power and lighting and the citizens would get all the benefits," said the official.

News of the Town

The annual outing of the Tewksbury Congregational church Sunday school was held yesterday at Bass Point. Two special electric cars left the Centre in the forenoon and conveyed the excursionists to the famous resort where a pleasant day was spent. The party was composed of children, who were in charge of Rev. Sarah Dixon and Clayton Colby.

The annual outing of the members of the Junior Holy Name society of St. M. L. Keville will be held a week from Saturday at Revere beach, special cars to convey the young folks to the sea shore.

The Tennis club is making arrangements for their annual outing which will be held in the near future at Canobie lake park. The court of the club is in the rear of the Congregational church and is being put in shape for the season.

On Saturday, Aug. 1, an interesting baseball game will be played between the boys of the State Infirmary and the town boys and it is believed that the game will be largely attended for there is considerable rivalry between both teams. Both aggregations crossed bats last Saturday with Dr. H. M. Larabee acting as umpire and at the close of the ninth inning the score stood 5 to 5. It seems that the boys from the infirmary were the victors. There was one man out and the batter tried to left field. The fly was caught and sent right back to the home plate, and according to the umpire the man who was endeavoring to reach the home plate was put out, the score being then six to six, but the infirmary boys claim their man was not touched and accordingly they claim another run. However, this matter will be threshed out at the coming game.

Alden Haines and family and Mr. and Mrs. Conant have returned from a very pleasant automobile trip to Franklin, N. H.

F. I. Carter has purchased a two-ton truck from the agency of George White of Lowell, the truck being similar to that purchased by the state infirmary a couple of weeks ago.

Capt. H. J. Patten has returned from Salem, where he spent two weeks doing military duty. Yesterday he and his wife Mrs. M. A. Patten and Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Patten went to Bass Point in the captain's new 1800 auto.

George Miller, a brickman on the Lowell and Boston line of the Boston & Maine has been transferred to the Bar Harbor express for the summer.

Eugene Patterson, the town treasurer has purchased a Buick auto and he has also built a garage in the rear of his home in Main street.

Mrs. Larabee, wife of Dr. H. M. Larabee and son Herbert, left yesterday for Haverhill, Me., the trip being made in an automobile.

The chemical fire extinguishers for the town have arrived and one has been placed at Patten's greenhouse, another in the west end and one in the south, while two others are to be placed later. As soon as the apparatus is all placed a fire department will be organized by the selectmen.

The residents of the town have thus far contributed the sum of $51.60 for the Salem relief fund. $15 of this money has been donated by the Kings Daughters of the North church. In addition $42 have been collected at the Centre church.

FAVOR EQUAL SUFFRAGE EMPRESS WRECK

"Political Equality for Both Sexes Necessary for Best Interest of Nation," Say Educators

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 9.—At today's session of the National Education association a resolution is to be introduced endorsing the principle of equal suffrage.

The resolution committee embodied in its report a resolution stating that the educators of the country believe "political equality for both sexes necessary for the best interest of the nation."

While the business meeting was in session various problems pertaining to the welfare of children were being discussed by the delegates in different departments and plans outlined for the solution of questions vital to the educational world.

Speaking before the department of child hygiene Dr. Lester Raper of New York training school for teachers advocated education as a means of eliminating enormous national financial loss due to ill health.

"The average workman's family has an economic loss of between five and six per cent of the annual income due to ill health," Dr. Raper said. "The principal method of eliminating this waste is through education."

"City boys with useless experience become convicts, while country boys educated in a natural environment by family responsibility become doctors, lawyers, merchants and teachers," according to Rufus Stanley of Elmira, N. Y., who spoke for the state and national child leaders.

Timorous mothers who are afraid to allow their children out of their sight and are continually suggesting things to frighten them into obeying are responsible for the great number of adult nervous in this country, Dr. T. A. Williams of Washington, D. C., told a meeting of the department of special education.

P. J. Chaston, commissioner of education, speaking before the department of music said that if he were to make up a curriculum for public schools he would put in little physical culture, a little reading and writing, a little arithmetic and a big dab of music.

Attempt Baffled by the No Trace of Perpetrators at Bay Springs, Michigan

BAY SPRINGS, Mich., July 9.—A mob which last night attempted to lynch Mose Johnson, a negro, was baffled by Sheriff Jones who summoned 30 citizens to reinforce his posse of 13 deputies and announced he would protect the prisoner at all hazards.

After having surrounded the hotel for several hours, the mob dispersed early today.

The negro will be taken to Jackson for safe keeping.

Johnson held up and robbed the pay car of the Gilchrist-Fordney Co. at Stevens on June 27, securing $1200 in currency. In effecting the robbery Johnson killed one clerk and wounded two.

STORES CLOSED AT NOON

TODAY FOR THURSDAY AFTERNOON HAD HOLIDAY—OUTINGS TAKE PLACE NEXT WEEK

The large department and clothing stores of the city closed their doors at noon today and the clerks and other employees are enjoying their first weekly half holiday of the season. As in past years the stores will be closed on Thursday afternoon during the months of July, August and September.

Although no outings were planned for today many of the employees took advantage of the propitious weather and journeyed to the nearby parks and suburbs for an afternoon away from the noise of the city. One week from today, several of the organizations connected with the different stores will hold their annual outings, elaborate preparations are being made to give the young men and young women an enjoyable day.

SAFETY FIRST RESULTS

BOSTON, July 9.—The "Safety First" committee of the Boston chamber of commerce has issued a statement which claims a large reduction in the number of accidents for the first week of the campaign. The report is as follows:

The figures furnished by the police department during the first week of July, 1914, show that 22 street accidents, of which nine were fatal, 10 serious and 44 minor. During the past week only 43 accidents were reported, of which only two were fatal, 14 serious and 27 minor. During the first week of July, 1913, there was only one day in which a fatal accident did not occur, while during the past week fatal accidents were reported on only two days out of the seven.

The Boston city hospital reports equally satisfactory figures, showing 130 accidents during the first week of July, 1914, as against only 51 during the past week. Similarly, the Massachusetts General hospital reports a falling off in cases brought in last week as compared with the corresponding period of 1913. Most of the accidents resulted in either no injury or in minor injuries to passengers and other persons. There was one fatality.

A man attempted to board a motor car between stopping places and fell to the street. There has been but one collision of cars in which passengers were injured and in this collision number of passengers were shaken up and frightened, but were not otherwise injured.

READY FOR CANAL OPENING

WASHINGTON, July 9.—That American marine men actively are preparing for the opening of the Panama canal was indicated today in a report of the department of commerce showing that seven of the principal merchant ships built in the United States in the fiscal year ending June 30 were for the isthmian trade. Each steamer averages more than 6000 gross tons.

WAKEFIELD, July 9.—No tangible clue had been discovered last night to the bomb thrower who early yesterday damaged the residence of Richard S. Stout, a superintendent of the Heywood mills. A Wakefield company's ration factory and made a desperate attempt to assassinate the occupants of the house. Some of the police believe the bomb throwing the work of a striker at the company's plant, which is closed.

State police officers, District Attorney William J. Corcoran of Middlesex county and Chief of Police James J. Follard spent the whole day investigating the matter and gathered considerable important information in the case.

The only possible clue came from Charles Riley, a young man who lives on Main street near the Stout house. He says he saw two men running down Main street toward Melrose immediately after the bomb explosion. Riley told the investigators that he was awakened by the crash caused by the explosion and that upon going to a front window he noticed a couple of men going down Main street on a quick run.

The police believe the pair escaped to Boston or Malden by boarding an electric car at Franklin square, Melrose Highlands. Car crews that left Melrose Highlands yesterday morning will be questioned in the hope of following this clue.

Albert Carter, a milk driver, was delivering milk a few hundred feet away from the Stout residence when the explosion occurred about 2 o'clock and he says he neither saw nor heard any persons running down Main street. The police think the person or persons involved may have escaped by running through an estate adjacent to Stout's back yard and then out on Main street. Still another avenue of escape is on Bennett street.

Roots were discovered near shrubbery in the rear of the house. The measurements indicate that the person who throw the missile wore a large sized shoe.

WILSON TO HELP SALEM

WASHINGTON, July 9.—The action of the senate in adopting an amendment to the sundry civil appropriation bill providing an appropriation of $200,000 for the relief of the Salem, Mass., sufferers, gave Governor Walsh and the Massachusetts delegation in congress renewed hope today that funds would yet be forthcoming from the federal government. The congressman plan to continue their fight for the appropriation when the bill returns to the house from the senate where it was passed yesterday.

Governor Walsh in his conference with President Wilson yesterday told him the situation at Salem was very serious and that federal aid was greatly desired for the more than 1700 people out of employment. As a result the president promised to assist in every way within his power. The governor arranged to meet Representative Fitzgerald, chairman of the appropriations committee, today and financial aid to him the necessity for the relief of the sufferers were, however, that the whole matter would be thrashed out in conference to which the sundry civil bill was to go today.

UNABLE TO PLAY IN CUP GAME

LONDON, July 9.—H. Roper Barrett, the main hope of Great Britain's team for the Dwight D. Davis international lawn tennis trophy announced definitely today that he would be unable to go to America to take part in the matches there in the event of England being successful over France in the next round. His decision was brought about by the pressure of private business.

HANGED FOR MURDER

THE FINDING WILL BE DELIVERED SATURDAY—IT CONTAINS 11,000 WORDS

The Finding Will Be Delivered Saturday—It Contains 11,000 Words

QUEBEC, July 9.—The finding of the Empress of Ireland wreck commission has been decided on by Lord Mersey and his co-commissioners and was typed today in preparation for its delivery on Saturday. The document is upwards of 11,000 words in length.

"The whole finding will not be read," said Lord Mersey today, "since much of it is of technical nature, but all the salient points will be read."

Lord Mersey will personally read the finding which has been agreed upon by the whole court. It will be signed by the three commissioners and in the margin the four nautical assessors will sign "we concur."

The report not only deals with the evidence regarding the collision and loss of life, but includes a number of recommendations regarding lifesaving appliances to prevent disasters of a similar nature.

Though the commissioners have the power they will take no action in regard to the punishment of these blameable for the wreck, it is understood, but will leave that for the federal authorities.

ENCOUNTERED A TYPHOON

AMERICAN SHIP 24 DAYS OUT FROM PHILADELPHIA, BADLY BATTERED

SAN FRANCISCO, July 9.—The American ship Edward Sewall, 244 days out from Philadelphia for Seattle, arrived here yesterday short of provisions and badly battered from an encounter with a typhoon.

A series of severe storms was met by the Sewall after leaving Bahia Blanca, Argentina, Feb. 27. After repairs the ship ran into the typhoon and lost much canvas. It was necessary to repair the hull.

THE PITTSBURGH STRIKE

SEVERAL THOUSAND STRIKERS AT FACTORIES TODAY—ONE MAN ARRESTED

PITTSBURGH, July 9.—Several thousand strikers hurried to the Westinghouse factories in East Pittsburgh early today when it was reported that three cars loaded with workmen from Detroit and Philadelphia were coming. The train had arrived earlier, however, and later the men were joined by others said to have been employed in Pittsburgh. One man was arrested by the troopers for using abusive language and W. R. Foley, member of the strike committee, was placed under bonds to keep the peace.

An order was issued by officers of the Allegheny Congregational Industrial union forbidding members to enter saloons.

FOUR BATTLED WITH MAN WHO ATTEMPTED TO HOLD UP THE TRAIN

WATERLOO, Ia., July 9.—An attempt was made to hold up Illinois Central passenger train number 11 by a bandit on the east of Epworth, Ia., last night. The bandit ordered the porter, Henry Bruce to search the passengers while he stood guard with a drawn revolver. The porter snatched the bandit's gun and both men fell to the floor of the car. The gun was discharged several times but no one was injured. Passengers hearing the struggle gave the signal to stop the train. The bandit freed himself and jumped off, escaping into the woods.

STAMFORD, CONN., CORONER WAITS FOR REPORT ON BLOOD STAINS

NEAR MRS. ANGLE'S APARTMENT'S STAMFORD, Conn., July 9.—Possibility that the inquest of Coroner John B. Phelan on the death of Waldo B. Ballou may be closed in a few days, perhaps by the end of the week, was said last night to rest largely on whether the report of the analysis on supposed blood stains found in and near the apartment of Mrs. Helen M. Angle, who is under arrest in connection with the case, is submitted to the coroner within a day or two. Ballou died of a fractured skull after a visit to Mrs. Angle's rooms.

The coroner said last night he hoped to have a report on the stains shortly, possibly by Friday. He could not say definitely, however, whether, with this report in hand, he would close the inquest, that such was his action.

Chief of Police W. H. Breunan, who was in New Britain yesterday at a state meeting of police chiefs, was reported from there to have said that he expected the coroner's report by Friday. The coroner said last night, however, that he could not say anything about that.

THE MEXICAN SITUATION

U. S. Government Preparing for New Developments—Await Official News From Rebels

WASHINGTON, July 9.—That the Washington government would give within a few days some manifestation of the policy it intends to pursue to meet any new development in the Mexican situation was the belief expressed today in many quarters. President Wilson and his advisers still awaited official notification of the constitutionalists' attitude toward a proposed peace conference with Huerta's envoys and declined to comment on border reports partially confirmed in Washington to the effect that the revolutionary leaders would not agree to a parity.

Probably the definite expression of its plans for the future will not be made by the American government until the preparation for the conference is settled and specific information on the extent of the Villa-Carranza agreement is reached.

While reports from Torreon stated that the disagreement between the two chiefs had been settled, there remained an undercurrent of comment indicating that the truce was only temporary. The movement today of Villa's troops northward from their Zacatecas campaign was explained by state-ments from some quarters that the United States and a few European nations had urged that the northern general be not allowed to reach Mexico city first. Administration officials declined to comment on such reports.

That the constitutionalist military campaign was progressing without the immediate co-operation of Villa was indicated in official revolutionary reports that General Obregon's northwestern forces had beaten back an army of federalists almost at the gates of Guadalupe. Obregon said he believed his men would capture the city without much serious fighting. Probably his forces would be unable, it was said to attack Huerta's capital without help.

TWO JUMPED OVERBOARD CITY IS BLAMED

For Collapse of Long Beach Pier in Which 41 Were Killed

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 9.—The city of Long Beach was held responsible of the condition of its municipal pier when it collapsed during a celebration on Empire day, May 21, 1913, killing 41 persons and injuring more than 200.

This was decided by a jury in the superior court yesterday in awarding $7500 damages to George Chaffin and his son Edward for the death of Chaffin's wife. They asked for $15,500.

More than 100 other damage suits aggregating $3,500,000, have been held in abeyance awaiting the outcome of this test suit.

CLAUDE STAYS IN THE CIVIL SUN-DRY BILL, DESPITE EFFORTS TO ALTER OR ELIMINATE IT

WASHINGTON, July 9.—All efforts in the senate yesterday to alter or eliminate the labor exemption clause of the sundry civil bill section providing funds for the enforcement of the anti-trust laws were voted down.

Two roll calls put the senate on record in favor of the exemption clause, which caused the veto of the last sundry civil bill by President Taft, and which President Wilson, in a memorandum made when he signed the measure, characterized as unjustifiable in character and principle.

The clause provides that no part of the fund shall be spent in the prosecution of any organization or any individual for entering into any combination or agreement having in view the increasing of wages, shortening of hours or bettering the conditions of labor or for any act done in furtherance thereof, not in itself unlawful. Co-operative farmers' organizations are also exempted.

Senator Sterling of South Dakota, proposed to strike the exemption, characterizing it as "vicious class legislation."

The Sterling amendment was laid on the table by a vote of 41 to 21, only one democratic Senator Pomeroy, voting for it.

An amendment by Senator Sutherland of Utah to insert in the provisions the words "by lawful means" was voted down, 23 to 22.

Later the bill itself, carrying $11,000,000, was passed without further serious opposition.

It is aimed to form a permanent organization at the Niagara Falls conference, and this session of this conference will be open to all, any man or woman in any part of the United States being privileged to join the Catholic movement in the anti-liquor fight.

RUSSIAN FATHER HERE TO FIND LOST DAUGHTER

Believes She is Either in Lowell or in Lincoln, N. H. — He Has Letters to Show That She Corresponded With Lowell Man and

Believing that his nineteen-year-old daughter is married and living in this city, an elderly gentleman who gives the name of Peter Goverski, said to own a large farm in northern Russia, arrived in Lowell about 9.30 o'clock this forenoon to make a tour of investigation in the hope of locating his daughter and if possible to take her back to the old country. According to Mr. Goverski he has information which leads him to believe that the young woman is living either in Lowell or in Lincoln, N. H., and he says he will visit the up-country city next week if he fails to find her here.

What led the anxious father to believe that his only daughter, who was known in Russian by the name of Maria, is residing with a husband in this city, he will not tell, but he claims that he has letters which will prove that the young woman lived with a man in this city and at Lincoln, N. H., during the past six months. He believes that she is married to a man who formerly lived in the Granite State for he says that his daughter carried on a correspondence for several months with a man who resided at Lincoln in that state.

Mr. Goverski is by no means a stranger in Lowell, having worked in Manchester, N. H., for five years to earn money to purchase a farm, where he hoped to make a home for his wife and only daughter. While the man worked in a paper mill, near Manchester, his wife and daughter lived together in a little town in Russia, waiting for him to return. When he did return, they purchased a small farm and gradually enlarged it until today he claims that he has a very comfortable home.

Mr. Goverski claims that his daughter left home during the month of December and since then he has spent considerable time and money in an attempt to find a clue as to her whereabouts and only recently he learned that she had lived in Lincoln, N. H., but he believed to be in Lowell at present, where she works in a cotton mill. The anxious father feels confident that he will see Maria before he returns, although he knows that he may have a hard time. The only picture of the girl which the parents possess was left with her mother in the old country as the father does not believe that it would aid him in ascertaining the whereabouts of his girl.

When asked what course he would pursue to find his daughter, Mr. Goverski said that he had friends in Lowell, and he would spend a few days and during that time he will investigate some of the information which he claims to have received before he left home. If he finds that the young woman has left Lowell, he says that he will follow her, but if she is married and living happily, he will not attempt to drag her from her husband, but if she is not married nothing will be left undone to find the person responsible for the girl's leaving home.

Mr. Goverski arrived at the Middlesex street station shortly after 9.30 o'clock and he talked at length with an employee in the depot yard about the sudden disappearance of Maria and of his plans to locate her. He said that the girl's mother was waiting anxiously in her home across the water in the hope of getting a reply that the young woman was safe in this country and will be returned to her soon.

When the store clerks left their counters this noon and made tracks for the noonday meal those who passed Merrimack square received a chill when they read the indications on Page's big clock, "Thursday—Rain." But as they looked skyward and saw Old Sol merrily shining above they were reassured and hid themselves back to the square after dinner to celebrate their first Thursday afternoon off by attending the ball game.

With Fitchburg as the attraction and an old Lowell favorite, Frederigo Lake at the head of the visiting bunch, it was not surprising that they went out in big numbers for Fred could ever draw a bunch even in the old days when as a catcher for the Boston Nationals he would occasionally come to Lowell to catch in one of the games of the Old Urban and Suburban league, of old memory.

The visitors were rather late at arriving in Lowell and dressed at the grounds. They were full of "jazz" as the result of their 11 inning victory over the Grays on the home grounds yesterday afternoon, and the confidence or nerve, whatever it may be called, to think they could get two in "conclusion." There were 300 fans in attendance when the game opened and among them were some real hot roots.

Fred Lake, manager of the visiting club, warmed up Scanlon, his mound choice for the game, as Kilhullen, his catcher, was taking the throws of the infield. Fred did not bother to deft his straw hat during the operation. When Kilhullen came in to catch Scanlon, Eddie Berard, the Lowell mascot, went out and took the catcher's place at the plate, during the warming up practice, "Bobby" Keeler, the local boy, officiated and called the game shortly after 3 o'clock.

"Texas" Lohman went on to the firing line at the last moment instead of the new pitcher who was expected to work today.

Lowell	Fitchburg
Dee, ss	cf, Kane
De Groff, rf	3b, Spires
Matthews, cf	rf, Reed
Stimpson, lf	2b, Swart
Burke, 3b	1b, Kilhullen
Cargo, 2b	1b, Torphy
Kelly, 1b	lf, King
Waco, c	ss, Conney
Lohman, p	p, Scanlon

First Inning
Kane hit to Dee and "Shorty" peg to first killed him by a close margin. Lohman then struck out Spires who made two attempts to bunt. Reed rapped on the nose but as it was speeding toward left field Dee jumped into the air and pulled the line drive with his gloved hand. It was a nice play and "Shorty" deserved all the praise that was awarded him. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Dee sent up a high fly to Torphy and the red-headed first baseman made a put-out. DeGroff slammed a single into left, Matthews struck out and on the third strike DeGroff stole second. Stimpson hit a slow grounder which Spires came over and took, retiring the Lowell left fielder at first. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Second Inning
Sweat, the first Fitchburg batter up in the second inning, hit the ball hard to right centre but DeGroff was under it and Sweat returned to the bench. Burke made a beautiful throw of Kilhullen's slow grounder along the third base line getting the classy catcher at first. Torphy hit the first ball pitched to right field. The youngster attempted to steal second, however, and was nipped by Waco's throw to Dee. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Burke started off Lowell's half of the second with a strike out, an unusual performance for the Lowell captain. Cargo sent a short fly into Sweat's hand. Kelly also struck out. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Score: Lowell, 0; Fitchburg, 0.

Third Inning
King hit a grounder to Burke and was an easy out at first. The play was a peculiar one for King was striving to get out of the way of the ball. Cargo and Kelly made the next two put outs, Conney and Scanlon both sending him stinging grounders. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Waco sent up a long fly to Kane in left centre. Lohman could do nothing with Scanlon's delivery and took three vigorous whiffs. Kane was on the job when Dee smashed out a long fly to centre. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Fourth Inning
Lohman took Kane's grounder and his throw to Kelly completed the first put-out of the fourth inning. Spires attempted to bunt, but Kelly grabbed his grounder and tagged him as he was hiking for first. Reed did some fast sprinting and reached the initial sack in safety on a ground ball which Cargo helded close to second base. Reed was foolish enough to think that Waco possessed a candy arm, but "Pete" showed him something when he tried to steal second and Lowell went to bat. No runs, one hit, no errors.

DeGroff put up a high fly to short right which Reed came in and took. Kilhullen made a fine catch of Matthews' foul fly behind the plate. The visiting catcher crashed into the grandstand after making the put-out. Stimpson made the third out with a fly to Kane in short centre. All three put-outs in this inning were on fly balls. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Score: Lowell, 0; Fitchburg, 0.

Fifth Inning

Sweat opened the fifth by dropping a Texas leaguer into right which DeGroff could not quite reach. Kilhullen sacrificed Sweat to second, Lohman holding his grounder. Torphy hit to Burke; the latter touched Sweat as he was running to third. Sweat took the ball out of Burke's hand. Umpire Keeler decided that Sweat was out and practically the whole Fitchburg team clustered around the umpire. Sweat and several other players were waved to the bench by Umpire Keeler and the game was resumed after several minutes' delay. King completed the lining with a pop fly to Dee. No runs, one hit, no errors.

"Billy" Burke laid down a perfect bunt along the first base line and beat Spires' throw to first. Cargo sacrificed him to second, Torphy fielding the ball and Sweat covering the bag. With one out and Burke on second the Lowell first baseman, Lohman, pulled off one of the prettiest plays seen at the park this year when he took a long lead of second and drew Kilhullen's throw to Spires. This feat seemed to unnerve Scanlon for he walked Kelly. Waco sent a long single into centre on which Kelly went to third and "Pete" took second on Kane's throw to Spires in an attempt to get the Lowell first baseman. Lohman laid down a short bunt and Kane scored, Waco going to third. Scanlon juggled the bunt, but Lohman would have reached the bag in safety anyhow. On a double steal Waco crossed the plate and Lohman went to second. Lohman tried to steal third but was thrown out. Kilhullen to Spires. Three runs, three hits, one error.

Sixth Inning
Dee made a fine stop and subsequent throw of Coney's short grounder. Waco ran back and took Scanlon's foul fly in spite of the efforts of "Chick" Cargo's dog, Buster, to fasten onto his shining, during the maneuvers. Kane, first when Kelly dropped Cargo's throw after Reed had sent "Chick" a hard grounder. A fast double play, however, made up for the error. Burke took Sweat's grounder and threw to Cargo, forcing Reed at second while "Chick" peg to Kelly nailed Sweat at first. No runs, no errors.

Burke lifted a foul fly which Kilhullen took care of. Cargo singled to left. Cargo then proceeded to steal second. On Kelly's infield out, Conney to Torphy, "Chick" went to third. Cargo attempted to steal home but Kilhullen got him at the plate on a close play. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Score: Lowell, 3; Fitchburg, 0.

Seventh Inning
Lohman knocked down Kilhullen's drive and threw him out at first. Burke threw out Torphy. Burke made the feature play of the game when he ran over to the third sack and grabbed King's hard hit grounder with his bare hand, his throw also being perfect. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Waco got his second single, this time to left centre and went to second on Lohman's infield out. Sweat to Torphy. Waco was out at third when Dee hit to Conney, the latter's throw to Spires getting the Lowell catcher. Dee went out trying to steal second. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Score: Lowell, 3; Fitchburg, 0.

Eighth Inning

Conney started to left field. Conney went to second on Scanlon's infield out.

Kane flied to Cargo.

Stimpson took Spires' fly.

Final score: Lowell 3, Fitchburg 0.

TO WIDEN ALL STREETS

IN DEVASTATED SALEM

Tentative Plans for Rebuilding

Fire Swept District Announced

— To Eliminate All Narrow

Lanes and Streets — To Plant

1000 Shades Trees

SALEM, July 9.—Tentative plans for rebuilding the district devastated by the fire of June 25 were made public today.

The principal object in devising the plans has been to provide for the general widening of all streets and the main arteries of traffic. The elimination of all narrow lanes and streets in the Point district, which before the fire was a close network of narrow streets crowded with tenement houses whose roofs almost overlapped, is another important feature of the reconstruction plans.

Boston street, where the fire started,

is to be widened to 70 feet and a new street will be laid out to Broad street at a uniform width of 70 feet. In the Point district the principal alteration proposed is the widening of Congress street to 100 feet and extending it across the South river to Bertram square. Another important change is the connecting of new Derby street with Derby street, making a ninety foot thoroughfare to Bertram square which will relieve congestion of traffic in the center of the city. The plans also call for the planting of 1000 shade trees. The superintendent of streets after consultation with the Massachusetts Agricultural college said he believed that many of the trees which were partly burned could be saved.

DISSOLUTION SUIT

BOSTON, July 9.—The purchase of the Steeper Machine Co. of Lancaster, N. H., by the American Can Co., which is the defendant in a dissolution suit instituted by the government for alleged violation of the Sherman anti-trust law was probed by the government's attorney at the public hearing before a master here today.

Nathaniel Danforth of a Boston brokerage house, testified that his father and brother were associated with Charles W. Steeper in the management of the firm. After several conferences with Edward Norton representing the American Can Co. at which the Steeper company was present with his father, the Steeper company agreed to engage in the can-making business for a period of 15 years within 2000 miles of Chicago.

The course of the negotiation he said Norton stated that he was investigating the possibility of forming a combination of can manufacturers and that no combination would be complete without the Steeper company. Witness stated that an option was given the American Can Co. on the Steeper company's patents and machines used in the manufacture of cans. All these patents and machines were sold to the American.

Regarding the raise in prices which followed the formation of the American company in 1901, Edward Patch of the Walter Baker Co., once manufacturer of this city, testified that previous to 1901 he was able to get half-pound cocoa cans from the Glen Can Co. of Brooklyn for $13.50 a thousand. Since the formation of the American company the price had advanced from $13.50 to $17 a thousand. In 1909, however, prices dropped below those prevailing before the foundation of the American. The present price, he testified, was $12.40 a thousand.

CHASE CASE IN COURT

AGAINST HALL CHASE ARGUED AT BUFFALO TODAY

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 9.—The motion to vacate the injunction obtained against Hall Chase by the Chicago American league baseball club restraining him from playing with the Buffalo Federal league club was argued before Supreme Court Justice Herbert P. Bissell today. Keene Haddington of Chicago, personal counsel for Chase, in his argument characterized organized baseball as a combination contrary to common and statute law and a violation of the Sherman anti-trust law in that it constitutes a traffic in players. He read various clauses of the national agreement in support of his argument and pointed out the different conditions which he claimed, operated against the players. When court adjourned for the noon recess his argument was unfinished.

NEW INDUSTRY

of Boston, Paper Dealers, Moved to Lowell

Through the efforts of the Lowell board of trade a new concern established itself in this city this week and at the present although the business has been running but a few days a dozen men are being employed.

The new concern is the P. E. Chase & Son Co. of Boston, paper dealers. They have opened quarters at the old plant of the American Hide and Leather Co. at the foot of Howe street. Four automatic baling machines have been installed and ten men are being employed in the sorting and baling of waste paper, while a season for collection has been placed on the road. The plant started operations last Monday. Mr. Chase, a member of the board of trade, of Lowell and in conversation with Secretary Murphy of the board of trade, he said the company is well satisfied with its location and it is possible that the business will expand within a short time. The company has several branches throughout the state and is doing a very prosperous business.

BUSINESS IS ALL RIGHT

WASHINGTON, July 9.—Optimistic views of business conditions were presented to President Wilson today by Henry Ford, the Detroit manufacturer, during an hour's conference at the White House.

"There is absolutely nothing wrong with business," Mr. Ford, told the president. "The only trouble is that some people seem pessimistic. If everyone would only cheer up and attend to their business this calamity talk would stop immediately."

The president and Mr. Ford discussed the trust bills in a general way, as well as the business situation. Officials close to the president said he was greatly encouraged by his talk with Mr. Ford and that he had been further strengthened in his determination to push the trust program during the present session. Mr. Ford refused to discuss his call, saying that talk of business depression was unworthy of denial.

BIG FIRE IN QUEBEC

QUEBEC, July 9.—The board walk on Dufferin Terrace, Quebec's famous thoroughfare overlooking the St. Lawrence river, caught fire today and for a time threatened the Chateau Frontenac hotel. A high wind was blowing when the fire started, and when the firemen reached the scene the flames had gained such headway that they were unable to reach the farther end of the promenade. The entire staff of employees of the Chateau aided the brigade and saved the hotel proper. Over 500 feet of the terrace collapsed shortly before one o'clock, and it was feared that the stone walls overlooking Champlain Ward, a tenement district, would soon fall. The fire was getting beyond the control of the firemen. At two o'clock nine houses were on fire and the flames were eating their way toward the Chateau Frontenac. At three o'clock the fire was still raging but the firemen seemed to be getting the upper hand.

COMMISSIONER MORSE TALKS ON PAVING JOB

According to the specifications accompanying the city's contract with E. A. Wilson & Co. for the cement to be used on the paving job in Gorham street, now at a standstill as a result of the coal teamsters' strike, the city, in the event of the contractor failing to deliver the cement at the place required, may purchase the cement of other parties and may charge the extra expense of such purchase and delivery to the contractor. This fact was admitted this morning as the result of interviews had by The Sun at city hall. Mr. Morse was the first to be interviewed. He said that the situation remains unchanged and he asked to have it stated, as emphatically as possible, that the city teamsters have not at any time refused to unload or handle cement in any way. He was then asked why it was that the city teamsters were not employed to unload the cement from the car that Mr. Wilson placed on Rime's siding, close by the scene of the paving. ASHMONT STORE KEEPER BAT- TLED WITH THUGS IN HIS STORE—ROBBED AND BEATEN

BOSTON, July 9.—Louis A. Cooper, proprietor of the Independent feet company at 1802 Dorchester avenue, Ashmont, was attacked by a robber, choked, beaten and then thrown into his own refrigerator yesterday afternoon just before 2 o'clock while hundreds of people passed by, including three policemen, who rode past the store on an open car, while the encounter was at its height.

Cooper was quickly revived by the cold, the thermometer registering a few degrees above zero. The refrigerator, a massive affair, stands in the rear of the store. Gaining his feet, he scratched off the frost from the windows and peered out. He saw the robber hastily fumbling about the cash register.

With a blow of his fist he smashed the glass and then used his foot. With the opening thus made he climbed out. The robber, angered because he could not open the register, again attacked Cooper and the two were soon mixing it up on the floor. Cooper shouted for help, but the sound of the unusual commotion had attracted works in a neighboring store and they rushed in, while the robber rushed out by a rear door.

Several customers found Mr. Cooper seated on a barrel of potatoes, adjusting his clothes. His throat was marked by the fingers of his assailant. Cooper was alone in the store when the stranger walked in.

"I would like a pound and a half of sausage," was the request of the man. Cooper went to the big refrigerator, got the goods and was stepping back into the store when he saw his would-be customer with something in his hand. "What's that you have behind your back?" asked Cooper.

Then came the assault.

Mr. Cooper says the man was about 35 years old, light complexion, and husky. He wore a blue serge suit and a checkered golf cap.

WILBUR F. WOODBURY CLAIMS CONTRACT STILL IN FORCE AS MANUAL TRAINING INSTRUCTOR

NEWBURYPORT, July 9.—Wilbur F. Woodbury, instructor in manual training, has brought suit against the city for his unpaid salary. Since the sensational closing of the manual training school by Mayor Landford Feb. 26, which created state-wide interest, the city auditor has refused to approve the payroll of the school department, so far as it applied to Mr. Woodbury's salary.

The school board has taken the position that Mr. Woodbury is still a teacher in the public schools and entitled to the salary voted him at the beginning of the scholastic year. It recently declined to discharge him.

Mr. Woodbury has reported daily for work, but owing to the closing and the removing of the apparatus, he has been unable to continue the teaching of manual training.

Mr. Woodbury was elected in 1911, he was re-elected in June, 1912, to serve for the ensuing year. As his term did not expire until the end of June this year, he was debarred from bringing suit until that time, although his pay was cut off last March.

Under the act recently passed by the legislature, which allows the mayor to make up the appropriation budget, Mayor Landford fixed no appropriation for manual training and closed the school. He claims that Mr. Woodbury has no contract with the city.

It is expected that the suit will be tried at the October term of the superior court, which sits in this city. The manual training teacher takes the position that by virtue of the contract when he was employed, his salary must be paid.

NO MORE SHOWERS IN SIGHT

BOSTON, July 9.—With a maximum temperature of 85, attained at 1 p. m., yesterday was the warmest day the month of July has produced so far, and one of the few which could really be called summerlike. From an early morning minimum of 64 the mercury rose steadily, until 55 had been recorded early in the afternoon.

In spite of the fact that a threatening cloud bank overspread the sky toward sunset, no showers are expected here.

DUCHESS OF MARLBOROUGH DE- SCRIBES WORK IN ENGLAND AT MEETING IN NEWPORT, R. I.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 9.—Votes for women were urged yesterday by the Duchess of Marlborough in an address before the Political Equality association. The meeting was held at Marble house, the splendid Newport residence of the duchess's mother, Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont, president of the association, and was attended by many women prominent in the movement for suffrage extension.

The greater part of the duchess's address was devoted to a description of two British reforms in which she is interested, the homes for prisoners' wives and children and the hostels for women.

The hostels, she said, were designed to furnish homes for women and girls who would otherwise be subject to moral dangers as well as disease and infection in the unhygienic and dirty surroundings of the common lodging houses. Many of the hostels, she said, are now nearly self-supporting.

In the homes for prisoners' wives and children, the women are given employment as seamstresses and laundresses, by which they may maintain their economic independence. Assistance is often given the prisoner when his sentence has expired.

The duchess told one refreshing story of a prisoner who was supplied by the home with money for the purchase of tools. The next day his wife reported that he had been arrested again. "But didn't he buy tools and return to work?" the duchess asked the woman.

"Oh, yes," the wife replied, "but they were burglars' tools and he broke into a house last night."

CLEARING HOUSE FIGURES Show Increase of Business Over Last Year—Lowell Banking Business Done Largely in Boston

At the meeting of the Lowell clearing house, held at the Lowell National Bank building, July 8, the following officers were installed by District Deputy Thomson of Lawrence:

If bank clearances can be taken as a business barometer there has been a big improvement in conditions in various New England cities within a year. Lowell, however, does not show up as well as some other cities for the reason that the banking of the mills of

Lowell is done in Boston or outside of Lowell. Although the money is used in the city, no trace of it is to be found in the statements of the clearing house.

How to Beautify a Summer Soiled Face

It's really a simple matter to renovate a face soiled by sun, winds or dirt. Ordinary mercurized wax, used like cold cream, will transform the worst old complexion into one of snowy whiteness and velvety softness. It literally peels off the outer veil of surface skin, but so gently, gradually, there's no discomfort. The worst skin comes off, not in patches, but evenly, in tiny particles, leaving no evidence of the treatment. The young, clearer, healthier under-skin forming the new complexion, is one of captivating loveliness. One ounce of mercurized wax, to be had at any drug store, is enough to remove any tanned, reddened, pimpled, freckled or blotchy skin. Apply before retiring, washing it off morning.

Many skins wrinkle easily with every wind that blows, with heat, worry, etc. An excellent wrinkle-remover, because it tightens the skin and strengthens relaxed muscles, is a wash lotion made as follows: Powdered saffron, 1 oz.; dissolved in witch hazel, 12 pt. This gives immediate results.

STRIKE IN ALMSHOUSE

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., July 9.—Desperate over the lack of a meat diet at Lake View, the almshouse in this city, following the edict of the superintendent that "all able-bodied" inmates must work, the inmates went on a strike yesterday.

A large number of them were set to work haymaking on the large almshouse farm. After several meals in which no meat appeared and, they say, little other food of any other kind, they refused yesterday morning to go to the field.

A special session of the board of charities was called. After discussion the inmates were given the desired diet. They returned to work at noon yesterday.

Men Fight On Their Stomachs

Nature's law is plain. A man with a weak stomach is pretty sure to be a poor fighter. It is difficult—almost impossible—for anyone, man or woman, if digestion is poor, to succeed in business or socially—or to enjoy life. In tablet or liquid form helps weak stomachs to strong, healthy action—helps them to digest the food that makes the good, rich, red blood which nourishes the entire body.

This vegetable remedy, to a great extent, puts the liver into activity—oil the machinery of the human system so that those who spend their working hours at the desk, behind the counter, or in the home are regenerated into vigorous health.

Has brought relief to many thousands every year for over forty years. It is a powerful and delicate medicine. At last you can have Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser of 1008 Pages for 25c.

Saying that things are wonderful values does not make them so. Look for yourself and judge. While looking keep in mind that the qualities are up to the standards that you have found right.

DE GROFF FAMOUS AS COMEDIAN

Lowell Right Fielder
Known All Over the

Rube is Also Some Slug-
ger When He Lays His
Wand Against the Ball

"RUBE" DEGROFF
Comedian and Right Fielder of the
Lowell Club

Rube DeGroff, baseball player and comedian, is famous all over New England wherever resides a fan who has seen a game in the "little old league" with the Lowell club as a contestant during the past three years. Although the Rube has always been well up around the top of the league's outer gardeners when the season's averages were computed he is probably more noted for his antics on the coaching lines than he is for his playing.

DeGroff is a born fun-maker. Even when off the field, Rube continues his laugh-provoking actions. Many a traveler on the same train with the Lowell club has looked up from his seat and thought that a circus was boarding the car when Rube led in his fellow ball players. There's no satire about that at all—DeGroff is funny in everything he does and simply has the knack of tickling the risibles of others.

People who have never seen the Rube should take in a ball game just to see for themselves what kind of a character the Lowell rightfielder really is. The local club has probably received more advertising out of DeGroff's comedy than any other one thing.

In Hartford last fall during the post-season series the fans down in Connecticut went wild over the Lowell player's gyrations while on the bases. DeGroff is also very witty, and his remarks are not the sort that grow tiresome, nor are they abusive. In fact, the Rube is a wonderful baseball comedian.

Rube hasn't been playing the brand of baseball yet this season that he is capable of. Although he was up over 300 for a few days in his batting, he is only hitting for .283 at present.

DeGroff is a slugger, pure and simple. He stands up there at the plate and takes the headiest swing at the ball of any man in the league. If he hits the ball square on the nose we won't dare to say how far it will go, but we have all seen it disappear from right over the fence on many occasions.

But if the Rube doesn't hit the ball he looks awfully bad. He's laid a bet made that he would either strike out or make an extra-base hit. And that is just about the way he does.

In the field DeGroff isn't as good as some in the league, but is a mighty steady ball player. He seldom drops a ball once it touches his glove and is too experienced an outfielder to allow a drive to get beyond him very often. DeGroff as a rule hits his best stride toward the end of the season so that we may expect more results from him but from now until the close of the season.

BASEBALL TRADE

CINCINNATI, July 9.—Claude Derrick, the infielder purchased by the Cincinnati National league club from Baltimore was yesterday traded to Chicago in exchange for First Baseman Fred McWhorter and Outfielder Cy Williams.

It was for this purpose that Derrick was purchased for a big sum, the trade having been consummated before Derrick's purchase.

PERDUE, DISSATISFIED WITH TRADE
MAY TAKE JUMP TO FEDERAL LEAGUE

HUB PERDUE

Hub Perdue is dissatisfied with his new berth in St. Louis, where he was sent by the Boston Braves in exchange for Whitted and Gatcher. It seems that Hub had designs on New York and would have become a Giant but for the alleged interference of Owner Gaffney, who, he says, blocked the deal. Therefore he has expressed the desire to become a Fed and may soon be drawing salary from the Gilmora organization.

WITH THE PADDED MITTS

Just what is going to happen next in the lightweight division? Freddie Welsh had no sooner been awarded the decision over Ritchie than several fight promoters in this country began making overtures for a return match before the close of the summer. Although both men claim to be signed up for a coast tour a better offer from some other promoter might change their meeting place.

And Charlie White, of course, is showing no signs of bashfulness. White claims that as he beat Ritchie in their Milwaukee battle he should have the first crack at Ritchie and is of the opinion that the Briton has no more claim to the title than has he. However, with Ritchie weighing 133 pounds in the Milwaukee muss, Charley might not be saying so much now. At least Ritchie is the man who deserves all of Welsh's attention just at present.

With a return bout in this country Ritchie would probably be the favorite in the betting. The Californian would not be barred from using his free hand in the clinches under the American style of ring tactics and many critics think that this one factor lost him the fight Tuesday night. Welsh, however, surprised even his own seconds by his vicious rally in the last round and the magnificent manner in which he went at the nightingale.

To come back to a prospective bout nearer at home, what do you think of the Matty Baldwin-Gilbert Gallant match? Matty is all ready to meet the Chelsea fighter provided Gallant makes 135 pounds and the match seems to be settled. Gallant won the New England lightweight title by his defeat of Eddie Murphy, but Baldwin thinks that he is the better man of the two. When the two get together the row ought to be well worth the price of admission.

Johnny Griffith, the hard hitting Akron, Ohio, lightweight, has been offered $20,000 for four bouts in Australia by Snowy Baker, the Kangaroo promoter. Griffith has sent no word across the water as yet, but it will be strange if the offer does not attract him. There are various quints of bouts in this country where a boxer of second rate calibre can pull down a like amount.

There has been much talk about a Gardner Brooks-Mickey Brown clash, but nothing but talk has developed thus far. These two boys are undoubtedly the best 125 pounders in New England and although we want to be fair we don't just see how Brown could possibly beat the local boy. The Malden lad is a boxer pure and simple and would depend upon his speed and science to draw down the decision. But Brooks is some boxer himself, has the reach on Brown and can hit harder. This bout would make a hummer for any club to stage.

people generally gave him credit for. But Carpenter is touted as being one of the cleverest losers of any weight today and can also deal out quite a hefty wallop. Should Smith win decisively it is more than likely that a bout between he and Johnson would prove the biggest ring attraction of the year.

Perhaps this is a scheme which local boxing promoters can make use of. Out in San Diego, Cal., four round bouts were inaugurated. Then the line it was jumped to ten rounds and finally Leach, Cross and "Red" Watson fought 20 periods. The last bout, however, closed festivities in the boxing line for the bit was put on by the mayor and screwed down tight. However, California isn't Massachusetts nor is San Diego Lowell.

KEITH SUES FOR $10,000

FOR LOSS OF BONDS AND STOCK
ARE DEFENDANTS

BOSTON, July 9.—Edward P. Keith of Brockton has entered suit in the superior court against William S. Radway of Worcester and his mother, Sarah E. Radway of this city, to recover $10,000 for the loss of bonds and stock, as the result of alleged experiences in connection with the Credit Reporting company of New England.

The company was first organized under the laws of Maine, with a capital of $100,000. In 1909 Keith owned 284 shares of stock, worth $50 each at par. On June 30 of last year Radway, he alleges, acquired control of the corporation and put some of his holdings in the name of his mother.

Nominally Keith was vice-president. At the time Radway assumed control there was due Keith $500 for salary, and he alleges that Radway induced him to accept in payment of the salary 20-year 6 per cent bonds of the corporation. Keith alleges that Radway promised to see that the bonds were redeemed at an early date.

Subsequently, Keith alleges, he was induced, against his wishes, to take $1000 more of the same bonds, for which he gave his note.

In December, 1913, Radway formed a new company, styled the Credit Reporting Co. of New England, under the laws of Massachusetts, with a capital of $50,000 in shares of $10 each. Radway subscribed for all the stock of the new corporation.

Then Keith asserts that Radway had the Maine corporation turn over its business, assets and good will to him in exchange for 15,000 shares of stock in the new corporation.

Although outbait by Lowell yesterday afternoon Fitchburg managed to win an eleven inning victory 7-6. Pete Condon, the Lowell boy twirling for Fred Lake, was in the box and Manager Gray used Sheak, Weaver and Ring.

The game was loosely played by both teams, Lowell having five errors and Fitchburg making four misplays. The local team played indifferent ball at stages when the game should have been clinched. The score:

Carpenters Meet

The Carpenters' union, local 1610, held its regular business session in Carpenters' hall in the Rundles building last night. Business of an important nature was transacted and several applications for membership were also received. After the meeting an impromptu entertainment was given and the numbers were all good. The report of the secretary showed all members to be working and the union in a good financial condition.

Street Railway Men's Union

The Amalgamated Association of Street Railway and Electric Railway Employees of America, of which the two locals 250 and 551 of this city are affiliated was organized at Indianapolis, Indiana in September, 1892 by Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor. There were forty cities that had local organizations that responded to the call for the formation of the association. But before the organization could be placed in proper working order the strike of 1893 swept over the country and the employers quickly took advantage of the demoralized industrial conditions that the strike produced to destroy the newly formed organization. In 1893 a convention was held in Cleveland, Ohio, and W. D. Mahan took up the work of trying to reorganize and establish the organization. This took several years, for the companies everywhere were opposed to the organization and fiercely contested the rights of the employees to organize.

Whenever men attempted to organize and the fact became known to the company, before the men were fully united on the system, they were discharged and their organization was destroyed. This made it necessary for the men at that time to organize secretly. Secret organizations were necessarily slow and tedious, and this, coupled with the fact that they had no funds to finance the work, made it all the more disagreeable and hard, and there was many a brave good soul who, after making a struggle to organize under these conditions, gave up the battle and considered it hopeless. But they held their conventions annually. At the time of holding these conventions the officers always made it a rule to clear the books and start anew. It was under these conditions that these men worked for the first four years. During the year 1897 things began to change for the better and the organization began to advance slowly in membership and in strength. From that time on the growth has been steady. Today the association has 207 local organizations throughout the United States and Canada in perfect working condition and in good standing. The majority of these local divisions have written agreements with the companies. The other divisions are working upon voluntary and unwritten understanding. These written agreements specify wages, hours of labor and working conditions. They also provide for arbitration as a means of settling any dispute between the company and the association that can not be mutually agreed upon. This is a great advance from early conditions when they first sought to establish an understanding with the companies they were refused consideration, and when they appealed for arbitration, they were told that there was nothing to arbitrate. The minimum wage, a first was 8 cents an hour. The employees now receive at the very lowest 23 cents per hour.

QUINCY MAN DROWNED

ALBERT M. ASHLAND FELL OVERBOARD FROM SLOOP—EFFORTS TO RESUSCITATE HIM FAILED

REVERE, July 9.—Albert M. Ashland of 22 Beebe road, Quincy, was drowned shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon by falling overboard from the sloop of James S. Hoffses of 810 Winthrop avenue, Beachmont, with whom he was sailing, near the Revere breakwater.

Guy B. Fisher of 24 Campbell ave., made a valiant attempt to save the life of Ashland, but the man probably died while Fisher was rowing him to shore in his tender.

Fisher was working on his sloop, the Narada, which was at her moorings, when Hoffses and Ashland sailed past him, inviting him to accompany them on a sail. Fisher replied that he had not time to do so.

When the Hoffses boat was about 150 yards away from him, Fisher saw Ashland, who was standing up, fall overboard and begin to struggle in the water. Hoffses shouted for help and Fisher, accompanied by Adam Heene, who was working with him on the Narada, jumped into the tender and rowed as fast as he could toward Ashland.

The latter swam for a few moments, then sank, coming to the surface a few minutes later and floating with his face down. He was in this position when Fisher reached him and hauled him into the tender. Although unconscious, Fisher feels certain that Ashland was still living when he scratched him from the water. Fisher rowed rapidly for the shore, while Heene worked over the unconscious form of Ashland, succeeding in getting a quantity of water from his lungs. Upon reaching Ocean pier, Fisher shouted for a doctor, but there was a delay of more than 20 minutes before one arrived upon the scene.

Meanwhile every effort was made to resuscitate Ashland, but everything failed to produce a spark of life. Dr. W. W. Brown, who also worked over the body, had no better results and Ashland was finally pronounced dead. The body was taken to the Metropolitan Park police station, where it was claimed early in the evening by Mrs. Ashland.

TWO BOYS DROWNED

BYRON WARREN AND ELMER CARPENTER OF FALL RIVER VICTIMS NEAR Y. M. C. A. BOYS' CAMP

LITTLE COMPTON, R. I., July 9.—Two members of a Young Men's Christian association boys' camp were drowned in a pond between here and Westport harbor yesterday. The victims were Byron Warren, aged 29, and Elmer Carpenter, 13 years old, both of Fall River, Mass.

When our men went overboard, Carpenter jumped and swam for it, then cried for help. Warren went to his assistance, but almost immediately both went under. Neither came to the surface again.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

"The House of Temperley," a five reel photo drama produced under the supervision of G. K. Hollingsworth, the London film magnate, will be shown at the B. F. Keith theatre the remaining three days of this week, beginning this afternoon. Hollingsworth, who has had much experience in the directing of motion picture masterpieces, seized on "Rodney Stone," one of Sir Conan Doyle's stories, as the drama with which to startle London. Giving it the name of "The House of Temperley" it was shown many weeks in various London theatres, and for three weeks at the Strand theatre, in New York. Everywhere it has met with a warm reception, and doubtless it will prove a striking feature in this city. The story, like all of Doyle's, is a check full of action, and it holds some of the well known impossible things which fit so well into motion pictures nowadays. A realistic contest between the hero and the bad man of the story ensues the climax. Nobody can watch this without being his blood stirred. In addition to the five-reel feature there will be three other single reels, embracing comedy and dramatic subjects. Admission to performances will remain the same as heretofore; 10 cents, with a few seats reserved at 15 cents, and children five cents.

CANOE LAKE THEATRE

It would be hard to imagine a comedienne with more genuine hearty laughter than "Brown's Vaseline" which is being presented by the Woman's Musical Revue at Canoe Lake park theater this week and the company of artists who present it seem to enter into the fun with the rest of those present. Barney Williams as Mr. Brown is a veritable cyclone of fun and the rest of the cast do not allow him to monopolize the fun-making either. The description of the "honest-to-goodness" vacation in the mountains with its terrifying incidents all vouched for by the deacons of the church, is side-splitting to put it mildly. May Wright, a well-built, handsome appearing girl with a splendid voice and more than the usual amount of ability as an actress figures strongly when the honors are passed out, being "in the front row" so to speak. In all of her numbers she has received cordially by the patrons and promises to be one of the big favorites of the summer season. Miss Nance Shannon, the prima-donna, with the big voice, really needs no mention, the patrons themselves saying about all that could be said. The Oxford Four, a quartet of enthusiastic, sweet the whole first appearance to their last and figured strongly in an after-piece of the Weber and Fields type which kept the audience in continual roars. Gordon and the Elric Sisters made a hit with their Texas Tommy Dance.

HOW A MAN'S LIVER DEFENDS HIS LIFE

The liver is usually a quiet, unassuming organ and we do not think much about it. It has, however, protective functions that should command respect. In the process of intestinal indigestion there are set free what physicians call "toxic bodies," in other words poisons. If these poisons enter into the circulation of the blood biliousness or sick headache results. Regularly the liver is able to destroy these toxic bodies but if it lags in its work they quickly form in amounts excessive enough to be troublesome. Headaches, constipation, dizziness, furred tongue, wind on the stomach, bad complexion are the means by which nature gives warning that the liver needs help. The remedy is to stimulate the liver by the use of Pinkettes, the gentle laxative pills that do not gripe or purge but simply assist nature. Harsh laxatives and salts often do harm by aggravating the conditions they are taken to correct. Pinkettes, taken regularly for a time, really do correct constipation. Your own druggist can supply you with Pinkettes or they will be sent by mail, postpaid, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., at 25 cents per bottle. Send for helpful pamphlet.

el theatre have by special arrangements with the Thanouser Film company obtained the rights for the production of the entire series of "The Million Dollar Mystery" and the first episode will be shown in two reels at both theatres Friday and Saturday and will be continued each week hereafter on the same days. The entire series of twenty-three weeks and ten thousand dollars will be given to the man, woman or child who solves the mystery. To do so successfully each episode should be seen as it is produced at these two theatres each week. This picture is the result of many months' work on the part of the company and has cost over a half a million dollars to produce. Never before has the moving picture public been offered a production of such magnitude. The story is filled with thrills from beginning to end and it is said to surpass in interest either "What Happened to Mary" or "The Perils of Pauline," and is acknowledged by the press and public as one of the most fascinating and charming serial stories ever shown. The Lowell public is fortunate in having the opportunity of seeing this picture with the great modern detective, Wm. J. Burns, has acknowledged to be a master work of ingenuity and the latest and best pictures in the market are shown. Next Sunday the Spindis City band will give an afternoon and evening concert at Lakeview Park, offering a selected program. THE OWL THEATRE The Owl's program of photo-plays contains many new and interesting features. "Through Dante's Flames," a four-part drama, is a cleverly plotted play that will not fail to interest. "Jim," a two-part feature is also a fine drama, while "Tazzy," a Keystone comedy, two other subjects and Jack Dalton's singing will complete one of the genuinely good programs of the week. The sliding roof keeps you cool and comfortable. THE CASINO "Now and then one hears a protest against 'hot sameness' of orchestral music, and frequently, with good reason, but the same is not true of Minor's orchestra, which introduces quality and variety most pleasing to all. Rustic matrons, 75c entrance, fully requires versatility. A good orchestra sometimes goes stale, if its members have little in reserve. The Minor organization always has something up its sleeve to keep people in the theatre. Dancing every night and on Saturday afternoon.

STAMP OUT ANARCHY

It must have become apparent to those at the head of great labor organizations that at times of labor unrest undesirable elements strive to inject real anarchy into the situation hoping to cover the venom of their acts under the guise of emotional necessity and to get a foothold for their diabolical principles on the sympathies of the public. Occasionally they overreach their mark as they are doing at present with a vengeance in New York and in Wakefield.

When a week ago a death-dealing bomb of fearful power exploded in a New York tenement block carrying three anarchists to destruction, the plot of the conspirators stood out in all its hideous nakedness. Uncontrovertible evidence linked the den of infamy with the I. W. W. and other perditional bands that have sought to sow disruption in Lawrence, in Lowell, in Wakefield and wherever class feeling has been raised to any degree by labor disputes. With most amazing efficiency the leaders of such bodies, instead of scurrying under cover like revealed rats, came out in glorification of the potential murderers who were blown to ignominious and retributive oblivion and announced that the miserable wretches were "martyrs." It is even proposed to hold a public funeral in their honor with all the trumpery and trickery that the I. W. W. knows how to use only too well.

Now the papers that announce the New York plans tell how the home of an official of the cane factory in Wakefield, in which the I. W. W. strike was declared recently, was wrecked partially by an infernal machine placed in the kitchen by some conspirator similar to those who were killed in the New York explosion. Once again it is evident that these responsible for the proposed funeral and for the Wakefield explosion hold the laws in absolute contempt and revel in the "No God, no country" slogan that sent a warning broadcast at the time of the Lawrence strike.

The eyes of this country and of the world are on our government at the present time, when such incidents are in the air, so closely following on the recent assassination of the Austrian heir and his consort in Bosnia. Is it wise that the American toleration of the past should be shown? Is it prudent that the dark plotters of every country in Europe should abuse the liberty of this free land and attack our institutions with impunity? Far from it. While such things can happen and while the leaders of Godless and lawless groups may flock to our underworlds from every country on earth, there is a terrible and a growing menace like a cancer at the very root of our national life. When conspirators and incendiary orators dare to assert their treasonable independence on the eve of such terrible revelations, may not the leaders of our people pause and ask if we are not tolerant to the point of folly?

The great masses of American people are law-abiding, sane, and unemotional in all relating to their political and industrial life. They will not for a moment countenance any injustice, even to anarchists, and they will demand that the rights of free speech and personal freedom be observed. But they will back up their officials in every station who seek to prevent the making of bombs and the throwing of them in this land of democracy. Here is something for the flunkies to take up instead of war with Mexico or any other nation. Let us in justice and righteousness arm ourselves against the anarchy which is growing up and thriving in our own country and let us strive to exterminate it so thoroughly that the poisonous brood of malcontents and conspirators against justice may perish automatically for want of their pestilential atmosphere.

ABOLISHING PARTY TIES

One of the last important acts of the 1914 legislature was the passage of the bill for the abolition of party enrollment in the direct primaries, with a referendum clause attached, and in due time the citizens of the commonwealth will be called upon to pass on its merits. It is almost certain that it will be adopted—like the direct primary itself—because the trend of modern politics is more and more away from anything looking like technicality and red tape and more towards the adoption of direct methods. Yet it is not well for the public to enhance too much over the innovation, for it may be disappointing in some important phases just as the direct primary itself has been. The principle of the thing is most acceptable, but it will be at the mercy of the voting public—and the voting public does not as yet lay claim to any too great idealism. In the machinations of practical politics, the abolition of party enrollment may be abused until it is worse than the evil it wishes to supplant. It remains in the hands of the electorate to make it an instrument of good or of ill, just as they may happen to choose. In the abstract, the proposed reform should have two most important results:

the doing away with undesirable influences on the voting public and the cultivation of a larger vote at primaries and elections. Heretofore many felt compelled to adhere to the party tag, perhaps against their soundest convictions, and some refrained from voting because the party designation hedged them around too strongly. Now, there can be little excuse for this type of individual to neglect his voting privilege or duty, and no party enrollment will stand between a man and his conscience. The great danger will be in the introduction of influences into political affairs which have no rightful place in deciding the popular preference. Under the old system a party name often kept undesirable features out of political fights, and it is to be hoped that if the abolition of party names at primaries is sanctioned by the public, nothing less desirable will be substituted as a means to register political preference.

The greatest danger is that the members of one party will help nominate weak candidates for an opposing party in order that they may be defeated on election day. That is an old party trick that has often been resorted to with success in Lowell and elsewhere.

WARBURG WITHDRAWS

The refusal of Mr. Paul M. Warburg of the New York banking house of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. to serve on the new federal reserve board has been an undoubted disappointment to President Wilson and in some degree to the country at large, for Mr. Warburg was regarded as the pre-eminently strong man of a strong combination. He also possesses the detailed knowledge of international finance among the intricacies of which the new board will conduct many important activities. His resignation is said not to be final and it is no secret that the president would like him to reconsider his action and to serve on the very important body for which he is so thoroughly qualified.

Judgment of Mr. Warburg's withdrawal of his name will vary very much according to the bias of the individual who discusses it, for it was undoubtedly due to a very delicate weighing of the attendant circumstances. Owing to his connection with leaders of finance, or for some other such reason, the senate committee did not confirm his name immediately but selected him for a number of questions arranged for by the new law. This procrastination was quite natural and it was quite as natural that Mr. Warburg should resent the delay and the intention of interviewing him and that he should decline an honor which he did not seek. If he persists in his determination the loss is upon the country but it is problematical if the blame is on anybody, except on the gentleman himself, who showed almost abnormal sensitiveness.

It would be easy for the superficial observer to reflect that the refusal of Mr. Warburg to give an account of his financial stewardship of himself shows his unfitness for a high post calling for patriotic service and utmost disinterestedness, but this would be unjust. Mr. Warburg, despite his unpopular alliances, has had a clean record and there is nothing to prevent his accepting the momentous post with honor. Perhaps when the import of the congressional delay becomes plainer to him he will accept it gracefully and acknowledge its importance. It is to be hoped so, for the sake of the currency law which will work well in relation to the ability and sincerity of those selected to administer its provisions. If he persists in refusing, the president will not find it hard to fill the place acceptably.

OIL SPRINKLING

The Fall River Herald, commenting on some conditions of oil sprinkling on the streets of that city issues some warnings that are pertinent to Lowell where municipal oil sprinkling has scarcely passed the experimental stage. It seems that in the sister city the dust is beginning to blow on some of the streets that have been sprinkled, and the condition is far worse than before the treatment, for dust carrying oil particles is anything but a welcome visitor to the household. It is suggested that in the early stages of street oiling many applications should be given until the possibility of dust blowing is removed. "Complaint was made last year," says the Fall River Herald, "that the service was superficial and that in order to accomplish what was desired the surface of the highways should be treated with oil." It was oil-sprinkled, as has been done elsewhere and so with several of the in other cities. After that, a coating of other streets over which autoists pass applied in the spring may be sufficient to last through the year."

Undoubtedly on many of our streets, where that should be attended to at the application of oil was liberal, but in some cases the streets were not carefully prepared and the coating either blew away or was lifted by the wheels of passing vehicles or by auto tires. Then, again, rain fell immediately after some of the applications and washed much of the oil away. For some of this the street department cannot be blamed, but the example of Fall River should be a guide to future activity along the same lines. All will agree that our contemporary does not exaggerate when it says in conclusion: "There is certainly no great economy in oil-sprinkling that is not sufficient to hold the road surface in dustless condition from one sprinkling to another."

UP TO COMMISSIONER MORSE

Strike or no strike, it is up to Commissioner Morse to keep the work of the street department moving without interruption. To allow the entire public to be inconvenienced by the strike of a few teamsters, will bring criticism not to the strikers but to the commissioner in charge. Don't let the paving job lag, Mr. Commissioner. There are other jobs to be attended to when that is finished and the wretched condition of the thoroughfares entering our city is the possible consequence.

SHINGLES TO GO

Warned by the lesson of its neighbor Salem, Lynn is said to be considering a municipal regulation which would eventually banish the wooden shingle from the roofs of the city. The proposed ordinance is expected to prohibit shingles on any building erected in Lynn after August 1, and will set a time, possibly 1929, when all roofs must be covered with non-combustible material. Mayor Newhall is in favor of the innovation, provided it is worded so that no unnecessary burden is imposed on property owners. In Worcester recently Mayor Wright recommended sweeping changes in the building laws, including the banning of the shingle from congested areas. Lowell has received the recommendations of our recent investigating experts on the same subject. All progressive cities now see the danger of the wooden shingles as new and the wretched condition of the neglected, the cities must be ready for thoroughfare entering our city is the possible consequences.

The Greenhalge playground in Ennall and Victor streets, which was opened for the season Monday morning, will be closed in a short time and all the apparatus and paraphernalia will be removed to the Aiken street playground or otherwise known as the Lawrence Mfg. Co.'s playground. It was the park committee's idea to open the Aiken street playground and give up the Greenhalge on account of lack of funds, but it seems that the Lawrence Mfg. Co., owners of the land, wanted an abatement of taxes on the said tract of land and the council refused the request. However, an understanding was reached between the park committee and the officials of the Lawrence Co. and the result will be the opening of the Aiken street playground, which will be very beneficial to the children of the congested district.

DR. CARMAN CONFIDENT OF WIFE'S ACQUITTAL

FREEMONT, N. Y., July 9.—With Mrs. Florence Conklin Carman in the county jail at Minerva a prisoner charged with the murder of Mrs. Louise Bailey on the night of June 30 last, District Attorney Smith today was prepared to go before the grand jury and begin the presentation of his case against the accused woman.

One of the first witnesses to appear before the grand jury today, it was announced, would be Edward T. Ruffalo, the insurance agent, whose testimony yesterday before Coroner Norton caused that official to issue the warrant for Mrs. Carman's arrest. Another witness, it is expected, will be Cella Coleman, a negro girl, counsel for Mrs. Carman today said that she was prepared to go before the grand jury and waive immunity, a thing unusual in the case of a person charged with murder.

Mrs. Carman will be brought back to Freemont on Monday for arraignment when she is expected to repeat her plea of not guilty. It is expected that she will be held at that place for the action of the grand jury.

Dr. Carman, who accompanied Mrs. Carman to the jail at Minerva, declared his belief in her innocence and confidence in her acquittal.

NOT SUFFICIENT EVIDENCE YET FOR INDICTMENT, SAYS ASST. DIST. ATTY. WEEKS

MINERVA, L. I., July 9.—It is not at all certain there will be enough evidence for a grand jury indictment against Mrs. Florence Carman, charged with the murder of Mrs. Louise Bailey and yesterday committed to the county jail awaiting an examination on the charge. This was the opinion Assistant District Attorney Weeks expressed today.

Mrs. Carman's case was expected to come up before the grand jury today, but, according to Mr. Weeks, there was little likelihood of an indictment. The number of witnesses to be examined would preclude this possibility today.

"It is not unlikely," said the assistant district attorney, "that when Mrs. Carman appears on Monday before Coroner Norton who will then be acting in the capacity of justice of the peace she will be discharged. At that time Mrs. Carman's attorney will have a right to cross examine the witnesses who testify against the prisoner."

Dr. Carman, who has come to Minerva for the day, found his wife in better spirits when he visited her in jail. She seemed to have recovered her composure and to be less nervous.

ing job, and Mr. Morse said the contract read that the cement should be delivered on the job. Mr. Morse also stated that he talked with one of the pavers this morning and the paver told him he was willing to go to work and that he would have a talk with the other pavers.

Asked if he had any plan in mind for the resumption of the paving work in Gorham street, Mr. Morse said he did not have anything definite in mind, but he believed the matter would straighten itself out in a week or so.

It was reported that the mayor would call a special meeting for the purpose of having the council, as a whole, take some action relative to the holding up of paving and sewer work on account of the contractors of streets and highways being unable to obtain the cement. Asked if he would call the meeting, Mayor Murphy said: "I have no intention of calling a special meeting at this time. I do not think that it is yet time for the municipal council to take action. The matter properly belongs to the commissioner of streets and highways."

The mayor said he could not understand why the city engineers could not unload the cement from the car placed by the contractors in Runcie's siding, and he also suggested that if the contractor failed to deliver the cement the city could purchase from other parties. Then came some discussion as to the contract and the mayor sent his private secretary to the auditor's office to get it. The mayor went over the contract very thoroughly and said: "The contract holds the key to the situation. If the contractor fails to deliver the cement in the time, place and quantity required, the city may purchase from other parties and charge the extra expense to the contractor. I rather think this solves the problem."

Part of Specifications

The mayor then called attention to the concluding section of the specifications accompanying the contract. The section has to do with time and place of delivery and reads as follows:

"The cement to be delivered at such places and at such time and in such quantities as the commissioner of streets and highways shall designate to the purchasing agent. All orders for cement will be issued from the office of the purchasing agent and the contractor will notify the purchasing agent when he is to make deliveries."

"Thirty-six hours' notice will be given the contractor of the place where the cement is to be delivered and the kind and quantity required by the city. Should the contractor fail to deliver the cement in the time, place and quantity required by the aforesaid notice it is hereby agreed that the city shall have the right to purchase the cement of other parties and deliver the amount at the place required, and the extra expense of such purchase and delivery over the sum which would have been due the contractor under this contract for such delivery and purchase shall be deducted and retained by the city of Lowell from money due or which may become due him."

Hard to Fill Places

"If you should discharge all of the men in your employ who refuse to go on with the work in Gorham street, or who are delaying the work because of their sympathy with the coal teamsters, do you think you could fill their places?"

This question was put to Mr. Morse and he replied that he thought it would be a rather difficult job to fill their places. He said it might be easy enough to fill some of their places but he thought it would be hard to get any considerable number of experienced men.

Asked if he thought it would be a good idea to let the work out by contract, Mr. Morse said: "It would take a majority of the municipal council to settle that matter. Personally I am not in favor of contract work."

City Fathers in Cambridge

Mayor Murphy and Commissioners Brown, Dumelle and Morse went to Cambridge yesterday to find out how the civil service as applied to city laborers is operating in that city. Cambridge was the first city in the commonwealth to apply civil service to city laborers and the mayor and other heads of departments there are quite well satisfied with it. "As far as we could learn, and we went into the matter very thoroughly," said Mayor Murphy, "the thing works all right. In 1882 and it has had ample time to work itself out. The heads of departments like it because it relieves them

THE LARGE WHEAT CROP

Will Not Greatly Reduce Prices, According to Dept. of Agriculture

WASHINGTON, July 9.—Despite a wheat crop estimated this year at 539,000,000 bushels, the largest on record, no hope is held out by the department of agriculture for greatly reduced prices. Such a large crop would augur very low prices, according to a statement today, were it not that the world's crops of wheat and competing grains do not promise more than the average of recent years. Besides more than the usual diversion of wheat from its use as food for men its use for food for livestock may be expected because of the short supply of corn in sections where there is a promise of abundant wheat.

With corn selling in Kansas for about seven cents more per bushel than wheat it is not surprising, officials say, that much wheat should be consumed as feed by animals. Kansas corn crop last year was only $300,000 less than compared with the usual production of 150,000,000 bushels. This year's estimates are for a crop of 150,000,000 bushels of wheat.

It is estimated that about 45,000,000 bushels of wheat last year's crop was consumed as animal feed. Of the average annual production of 650,000,000 bushels of wheat during the past five years about 551,000,000 were retained in this country and 105,000,000 bushels were exported. If the domestic wheat requirement were reckoned at about 1,500 bushels per capita, consisting of seed and 70,000,000 to 80,000,000 for feed and were applied to a population of 75,000,000, the total of about 600,000,000 bushels plus seed requirement of 75,000,000, the statement adds that this would indicate an available export supply from the crop of nearly 330,000,000 bushels but there must be deducted from this amount the quantity used for livestock feeding, estimated at approximately 75,000,000, and possibly more. Even this would leave about 255,000,000 for export.

Building Permits Granted

Walter Coburn was granted a permit this morning for the construction of a seven-room residence at 75 Fairmount street. The building will be of brick and wood and will cost approximately $4500.

Another petition granted this forenoon was to the B. & F. Keith heirs for the addition of a store front and interior decorations at 11 Bridge street. The estimated cost is $6000.

SALEM RELIEF FUNDS

The money collected and contributed in this city for the relief of the Salem sufferers will be sent to Salem, it was stated today, either Monday or Tuesday of next week, and it is expected that the amount will reach and probably exceed $100,000.

The last tag day box was received at city hall this morning and was opened in the mayor's office. The box contained $175, making the total for tag day, $257.02. No additional subscriptions were received at the Lowell Trust Co. today or yesterday.

Additional amounts received at the Union National bank today were as follows:

Mrs. C. C. Morse.....$25.00
Dr. William G. Ward.....20.00
Bella F. Bachelder.....5.00
Friend.....3.00

These amounts bring the Union National bank total up to $374.30. Other additional subscriptions today included $25 from the employees of the Sun. This amount was handed Mr. Patrick O'Leary, treasurer of the Salem Relief committee. Total $399.30.

It is estimated that about 45,000,000 bushels of wheat last year's crop was consumed as animal feed. Of the average annual production of 650,000,000 bushels of wheat during the past five years about 551,000,000 were retained in this country and 105,000,000 bushels were exported. If the domestic wheat requirement were reckoned at about 1,500 bushels per capita, consisting of seed and 70,000,000 to 80,000,000 for feed and were applied to a population of 75,000,000, the total of about 600,000,000 bushels plus seed requirement of 75,000,000, the statement adds that this would indicate an available export supply from the crop of nearly 330,000,000 bushels but there must be deducted from this amount the quantity used for livestock feeding, estimated at approximately 75,000,000, and possibly more. Even this would leave about 255,000,000 for export.

Building Permits Granted

Walter Coburn was granted a permit this morning for the construction of a seven-room residence at 75 Fairmount street. The building will be of brick and wood and will cost approximately $4500.

Another petition granted this forenoon was to the B. & F. Keith heirs for the addition of a store front and interior decorations at 11 Bridge street. The estimated cost is $6000.

STOLE JEWELRY TODAY'S MARKET

Keyworkers Ransacked a Cottage House on Maple Street

It seems that the slick key workers who so successfully looted several residences in this city last year have returned to Lowell and again they are performing their work with much success, despite the efforts of the police to round them up.

The last case reported to the police was a theft committed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. August Johnson, 28 Maple street, where it is claimed the intruders got away with about $50 worth of jewelry without leaving the slightest clue as to their identity.

The key workers' made their entrance into the house through the rear door of the cottage and after ransacking everything from the kitchen to the bed rooms upstairs, made their escape through the front door. This occurred sometime in the forenoon while Mrs. Johnson was away and when she returned at noon she was astonished to find the door opened.

She immediately investigated and found that the house had been entered and that a gold watch valued at $35, a ring valued at $20 and several other pieces of jewelry were missing. These articles having been taken from a bureau drawer in a sleeping room on the second floor. It was also found that the fire door was unlocked, which led the police to believe that the intruders left the house through that way. The police are working on the case, but as yet the thieves are still at large.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 9.—The three America cup yachts, Resolute, Vantile and Defiance were fog-bound in Newport harbor today and the regatta committee of the New York Yacht club decided at 12:20 that there was little prospect of the fog lifting and they decided the contest postponed until tomorrow. The three yachts took down their mainsails which had been hoisted early, and everything was made right and light on board for a possible rainy afternoon and night.

The fog drove in at last night and this morning, but near 10 o'clock it began to burn off a little and the regatta committee on board C. K. Billings' steam yacht Vanadis, steamed slowly out of the harbor to look over weather conditions.

Weather permitting, the three big single-stickers will meet over a 33-mile triangular course tomorrow.

GREECE CONSIDERS SALE OF WARSHIPS BY UNITED STATES A GREAT ACT OF HUMANITY

WASHINGTON, July 9.—President Wilson today received a telegram from the Pan-Hellenic union in America thanking him for the sale of the battleships Idaho and Mississippi to Greece.

GOV. WALSH AT CAPITAL

URGENT FEDERAL APPROPRIATION OF $200,000 FOR SALEM FIRE SUFFERERS

WASHINGTON, July 9.—Governor David I. Walsh of Massachusetts conferred today with Chairman Fitzgerald of the House appropriation committee urging a federal appropriation of $200,000 for the Salem fire sufferers but the chairman declined to recede from his opposition. The Massachusetts delegation, immediately got to work on plans to pass the appropriation in the house. It already has passed the senate and is approved by President Wilson.

As an amendment to the sundry civil appropriation bill it came up today Mr. Fitzgerald sought to send it direct to a conference committee but Republican Leader Mann blocked that with an objection and the bill will come out on the floor tomorrow.

Mr. Fitzgerald expressed his sympathy for Salem but based his opposition on the fixed policy of the committee towards such occasions.

The secretary's report was read and it showed that the membership of the organization has nearly doubled since the club moved into its new quarters.

It was decided to open a subscription among the members for the Salem relief fund and all members were urged to contribute their share for the sufferers of Salem, the amount collected to be later turned over to the committee of seventy.

SUES FOR THE REWARD

CHAUFFEUR WANTS $100 FOR GIVING INFORMATION TO MR. HALLIAN

BOSTON, July 8.—A suit against Joseph Hallian to recover $100, the sum said to have been offered by him as a reward for information as to the whereabouts of his daughter, Fern Hallian, and Louis Elsmann, the chauffeur with whom she eloped, has been brought by Daniel Brassalt of Boston, according to his counsel, Brassalt is the chauffeur who says he drove the couple from Boston to South Lawrence on the day they disappeared. Inquiries made of Joseph Hallian yesterday to learn whether he offered such a reward and knew about the suit, were met with a flat refusal to discuss the matter. The inquiries were referred to his counsel, Atty. Sugrue. At the latter's office it was stated Atty. Sugrue was out and that he would probably follow the example of his client in refusing to answer inquiries as to the alleged offer of the reward.

Word was also received from Portland that Mrs. Roger of that city, who furnished information leading to the finding of the elopers, had entered a claim for the award.

Mrs. Hallian said yesterday: "Several claims have been made for my reward offered by my husband, I don't know who made the claims."

A summons has been issued for Louis Elsmann by Judge Hayden in the Roxbury court on complaint of Patience Smith and Coughlin of the Roxbury Crossing station, who charge the chauffeur with over-speeding on Columbus avenue, near Eggleston square, June 24. The summons is returnable Wednesday next. It has no connection with any other charges which have recently been brought against Elsmann in other courts.

JOHN D. CELEBRATES

NEW YORK, July 8.—For the first time in years John D. Rockefeller celebrated his birthday yesterday on his estate at Pocantico Hills. He is 72 years old. It has been his custom heretofore to go to his Cleveland estate early in June and remain there until fall. The campaign against him conducted by the anarchists and I. W. W. leaders is believed to be partly the reason for Mr. Rockefeller's long stay at Pocantico Hills. He does not like to retire under fire.

The estate just outside of Tarrytown is in a state of siege. Armed guards are at each of the seven gates. No one is permitted to enter unless he is known and escorted by the sentinels. Sheriff Wm. J. Doyle of White Plains still has his deputies on the grounds. Yesterday the sheriff himself was there. At night the guards are doubled and watchdogs are turned loose.

A signal system not unlike that used by the military has been installed by Mr. Rockefeller. If he wakes up at night and wishes to know how watchdogs are his guardians he has merely to press a button beside his bed. Red and blue lights flash around the estate, warning the man to go to the nearest signal box and record their visit.

Heretofore Mr. Rockefeller has not denied himself to newspaper men upon his birthday, but has made that day an occasion to give advice as to how to reach an advanced age and acquire a fortune. Yesterday, however, no reporters were welcomed.

"Mr. Rockefeller has received many requests for an interview," said his secretary, Mr. Simms, "but is sorry to say that he must deny himself to every one."

Owing to the poor health of Mrs. Rockefeller and her sister and the absence of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., who is at Sea Harbor, there was no family party at dinner last night. "All days look alike to me now," said Mr. Rockefeller recently to one of his employees who spoke of his approaching birthday. "I enjoy playing golf and I enjoy my friends. I particularly enjoy the work on my estate and that it enables me to give to my men employment. I like to see things moving, and I hope to keep them moving for many years to come."

John J. Harvey, Esq., appeared for the defendant and entered a plea of guilty.

The case was continued for sentence until tomorrow morning's session. Francis Smith, a driver for friend Brothers Bakery, pleaded guilty to driving an auto without a license. The young man possessed a license but did not have it with him when arrested. Smith met disaster on the street of that name. Smith street is a one way street and the defendant drove in the wrong direction. In order to impress upon his mind the fact Anderson; three daughters, Martha, Taxes of 1912-1913 and all other bills due the city must be paid on or before August 1, 1914. This notice is being given to give all persons who owe such bills an opportunity to pay the same before that time. ANDREW G. STILES, City Treasurer and Collector of Taxes.

CITY OF LOWELL

pocket when driving a car and that Smith street cannot be used in both directions, the defendant was asked to deliver a $5.00 note to Acting Clerk Toye. James Glynn was arrested on Dutton street and charged this morning with drunkenness. Two little girls testified against the man and Judge Enright ordered him to pay a fine of $35 and gave him no probationary term in which to pay it. John T. Riley was accused by his wife of assaulting her. Judge Enright told the defendant that he would allow him to escape with a suspended sentence on promise of good behavior. There were several old cases up for trial this morning on continuance and a half dozen unfortunates occupied the police dock as well. Sheriff Evelyn's Thorndike street castle was the destination of the majority. Frederick J. Forgarty, after thinking the matter over carefully, withdrew his appeal and was sent to jail for the next four months. Bartholomew O'Neill and Joseph Dushene accompanied Fogarty to the jail, their terms being one month shorter. William Morier pleaded not guilty, through his counsel, Lawyer Hancil, to assault and battery upon Daniel Morlary. Defendant and complainant are both young fellows. The scene of the alleged assault was Fort Hill and the time the night before the Fourth. An argument ensued between the two and they went at it in earnest. Young Morlarty testified that while the defendant and himself were fighting he felt a pain in his thigh which later proved to be wounds from some sharp instrument. Dr. Finnegan informed the court that he had treated the complainant. The physician described the wounds and said that he took six stitches in one and two stitches in the other. Two of the complainant's companions told practically the same story as that of Morlarty. No one saw a knife in Morier's hand. The defendant testified that the complainant swore at him and that he, the defendant, pushed him. Morier's eye was still discolored this morning from where he says, he was struck that night. He stated emphatically that he did not stab Morlarty. Four young fellows who were with Morier the night of the trouble corroborated Morier's story in its essential details. Judge Enright found the defendant guilty. The court, on account of the vicious nature of the assault, ordered the defendant committed to the jail for a term of three months. Against Merrimack Hotel Supt. Welsh has filed a complaint against the proprietors of the Merrimack hotel with the license commission, alleging a violation of the conditions under which the license was granted. The police allege that two young men bought several bottles of beer from the hotel clerk at a few minutes before midnight before the Fourth. A hearing will be held by the commission at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning.

TEWKSBURY PEOPLE FAVOR ANNEXATION

Their Chief Objection Being to Our Bad Roads—Rogers Street Complained of—What Chauffeurs Say of Our Roads

Annexation seems to be the watchword in the surrounding towns, or at least it is the main topic of discussion. Many of the suburban residents speak favorably of the editorial published in The Sun last Monday in which good reasons were set forth for annexing some of the suburban towns. However, some of the townspeople are from Missouri and they want to be shown before any real move is started in favor of annexation. In Tewksbury, for instance, some of the citizens want to see good roads in Lowell before they consent to become a part of the Spindle City, while others favor awaiting further developments in South Lowell, which was taken away from Tewksbury a few years ago. Although some of the men are very conservative on the annexation question, one of the town officials believes the annexation of Tewksbury to Lowell would be a mighty good proposition for the town and although some say that South Lowell people have not benefited by the annexation, he seems to believe that great improvements have been made in that part of the city, and in his opinion if the other part of Tewksbury were to be treated as fairly as was South Lowell, he would recommend annexation at once.

"Show us good roads in Lowell," said a prominent business man of Tewksbury, "and then we will talk annexation, but not until then. Automobile drivers of the town complain of suffering more wear and tear on their machines while traveling in Lowell than in any other part of the state. This condition of the streets in Lowell is keeping you city from progressing and this is a well known fact throughout the state. Automobile parties coming from other parts of the state through Tewksbury to Lowell, who have not been in the Spindle City for some time, stop in Tewksbury to get posted as to the condition of streets in Lowell and their first question is 'Are Lowell streets as bad as ever?' and in many instances the reply is, 'Yes, worse than ever.'"

"We residents of Tewksbury, would like to know how Lowell will manage to keep up the good condition of our roads, when she cannot afford to keep our streets in the present time. Some of the main thoroughfares in Lowell are in a very bad condition and almost unfit for travel. The Western end of Rogers street is nothing but a rock and a hole, while Western street is a disgrace to your city. There are many other streets in need of repair and unless the condition of your streets is brought to a high standard you can rest assured that there will be no annexation of Tewksbury."

Another prominent resident of the town spoke of the South Lowell and Wigganville districts which were annexed to Lowell some years ago and he said that many of the residents of that locality are not quite satisfied; they think more might have been done in the sewerage line, although the problem there is a very big one. They appreciate the water service, the fire protection and the freedom of the schools. They are hopeful that the big Oakland sewer will be completed some day or else some other means of solving the difficulty found.

Town Official Talks
One of the officials of the town claims that South Lowell and Wigganville have greatly benefited by the change and he favors the annexation of at least another slice of the town if not the whole of it. He said the water supply the residents of the annexed district are being given is a fire protection and the sewerage is worth the difference in tax rate, and he feels that in time the new district will be properly taken care of. He also believes that within a short time a sewerage system will be constructed in that locality and the streets and sidewalks will be put in good condition.

This official said the present tax rate is $18 per thousand and it is very probable this year the assessors will announce an increase of one or two dollars. The increase will be due to the erection of the Shawheen school last year at a cost of $5,000 and also the appropriation of $6,000 for the Clark road improvement. The school debt is to be wiped off at a rate of $5,000 a year, which means that a high tax rate will be in evidence for at least four years. Now another school-house will have to be built and that will be another burden on the town. The town hall has seen better days and a new building will be needed within a short time and that will mean another jump in the tax rate. The town has been talking for some of installing a water system and as soon as that goes through money will be needed and the taxpayers will be called upon to disburse. There are other numerous improvements needed in the town which cannot be done just because the taxpayers refuse to shoulder the burden. With the annexation to Lowell the city would take care of all the needs and as a whole the town would be better off.

No Fire Protection
"We have practically no water available in case of fire and hardly any fire protection and some day we may find ourselves in the same predicament as the Salem victims. By annexing Tewksbury to Lowell the water mains would be extended to the town. It is also certain that we would have no difficulty in having electric

FAVOR EQUAL SUFFRAGE

"Political Equality for Both Sexes Necessary for Best Interest of Nation," Say Educators

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 9.—At today's session of the National Education association a resolution is to be introduced endorsing the principle of equal suffrage.

The resolutions committee embodied in its report a resolution stating that the educators of the country believe "political equality for both sexes necessary for the best interest of the nation."

While the business meeting was in session various problems pertaining to the welfare of children were being discussed by the delegates in different departments and plans outlined for the solution of questions vital to the educational world.

Speaking before the department of child hygiene Dr. Louis J. Hupper of the New York training school for teachers advocated education as a means of eliminating enormous national financial loss due to ill health.

"The average workingman's family has an economic loss of between five and six per cent of the annual income due to ill health," Dr. Hupper said. "The principal method of eliminating this waste is through education."

"City boys with useless experience become criminals, while country boys educated in a natural environment, by family responsibility become doctors, lawyers, merchants and teachers," according to Rufus Stanley of Elmira, N. Y., who spoke before the state and national child leaders.

Timorous mothers who are afraid to allow their children out of their sight and are continually suggesting things to frighten them into obeying are responsible for the great number of adult neurotics in this country, Dr. T. A. Williams of Washington, D. C., told a meeting of the department of special education.

P. H. Claxton, commissioner of education, speaking before the department of music said that if he were to make up a curriculum for public schools he would put in a little physical culture, a little reading and writing, a little arithmetic and a big dab of music.

TO LYNCH NEGRO BOMB EXPLOSION

BAY SPRINGS, Mich., July 9.—A mob which last night attempted to lynch Mass Johnson, a negro, was baffled by Sheriff Jones who summoned 30 citizens to reinforce his posse of 13 deputies and announced he would protect the prisoner at all hazards.

After having surrounded the local jail for several hours, the mob dispersed early today.

The negro will be taken to Jackson for safe keeping.

Johnson held up and robbed the pay car of the Chicago & North Western Co. at Stevens on June 27, securing $1200 in currency. In effecting the robbery Johnson killed one clerk and wounded two.

STORES CLOSED AT NOON

TODAY FOR THURSDAY AFTER-NOON HALF HOLIDAY—OUTINGS TAKE PLACE NEXT WEEK

The large department and clothing stores of the city closed their doors at noon today and the clerks and other employees are enjoying their first weekly half holiday of the season. As in past years the stores will be closed on Thursday afternoon during the months of July, August and September.

Although no outings were planned for today many of the employees took advantage of the propitious weather and journeyed to the nearby parks and suburbs for an afternoon away from the noise of the city. One week from today, several of the organizations connected with the different stores will hold their annual outings, elaborate preparations are being made to give the young men and young women an enjoyable day.

SAFETY FIRST RESULTS

BOSTON, July 9.—The "Safety First" committee of the Boston chamber of commerce has issued a statement which shows a large reduction in the number of accidents for the first week of the campaign. The report is as follows:

"The figures furnished by the police department show that during the first week of July, 1914, there were 63 street accidents of which nine were fatal, 24 serious and 44 minor. During the past week only 43 accidents were reported, of which only two were fatal, 14 serious and 27 minor. During the first week of July, 1913, there was only one serious accident while during the past week fatal accidents were reported on only two days out of the seven."

"The Boston city hospital reports equally satisfactory figures, showing 25 accidents during the first week of July, 1914, as against only 34 during the past week. Similarly, the Massachusetts general hospital reports a falling off in cases brought in last week as compared with the corresponding period of 1913."

"The Boston Elevated Railway company reports that from the beginning of this month to midnight last night the total number of accidents of all kinds was but 52 per cent of the number occurring during the corresponding period of 1913. Most of the accidents were injuries to passengers and other persons. There was one fatality."

A man attempted to board a moving car between stopping places and fell to the street. There has been but one collision of cars in which passengers were injured and in this collision a number of passengers were shaken up and frightened, but were not otherwise injured."

WILSON TO HELP SALEM

PRESIDENT PROMISED GOVERNOR THAT HE WOULD ASSIST IN EVERY WAY WITHIN POWER

WASHINGTON, July 9.—The action of the senate in adopting an amendment to the sundry civil appropriation bill providing an appropriation of $200,000 for the relief of the Salem, Mass., fire sufferers, gave Governor Walsh and the Massachusetts delegation in congress renewed hope today that funds would yet be forthcoming from the federal government.

The congressman plan to continue their fight for the appropriation when the bill returns to the house from the senate where it was passed yesterday.

Governor Walsh in his conference with President Wilson yesterday told him the situation at Salem was very serious and that federal aid was greatly desired for the more than 1700 people out of employment. As a result the president promised to assist in every way within his power. The governor arranged to meet Representative Fitzgerald, chairman of the appropriations committee, today and point out to him the necessity for financial aid. Prospects were, however, that the whole matter would be threshed out in conference to which the sundry civil bill was to go today.

UNABLE TO PLAY IN CUP GAME

LONDON, July 9.—H. Roper Barrett, the main hope of Great Britain's team for the Dwight D. Davis international lawn tennis trophy announced today that he was unable to take part in the matches there in the event of England being successful over France in the next round. His decision was brought about by the pressure of private business.

EMPEROR WRECK

The Finding Will be Delivered Saturday—It Contains 11,000 Words

QUEBEC, July 9.—The finding of the Emperor of Ireland wreck commission has been decided on by Lord Mersey and his co-commissioners and was typed today in preparation for its delivery on Saturday. The document is upwards of 11,000 words in length.

"The whole finding will not be read," said Lord Mersey today, "since much of it is of technical nature, but all the salient points will be read."

Lord Mersey will personally read the finding which has been agreed upon by the whole court. It will be signed by the three commissioners and in the margin the four nautical assessors will sign a concurrence.

The report not only deals with the evidence regarding the collision and loss of life, but includes a number of recommendations regarding lifesaving appliances to prevent disasters of a similar nature.

Though the commissioners have the power they will take no action in regard to the punishment of those blamed for the wreck, it is understood, but will leave that for the federal authorities.

BOY MAY LOSE HAND

AS A RESULT OF ACCIDENT AT SLAW STOCKING COMPANY THIS FORENOON

A young man who gave his name as Frank Harris of 69 White street, sustained a serious injury to his right hand about 5:15 o'clock this morning while at work in the plant of the Slaw Stocking Co., and he is now at St. John's hospital where the physicians are working in attempt to prevent amputating it. Mr. Harris was working on a carding machine and in some way his hand got caught in a gear and before the machine was stopped it was badly crushed and burned.

ENCOUNTERED A TYPHOON

AMERICAN SHIP 24 DAYS OUT FROM PHILADELPHIA, BADLY BATTERED

SAN FRANCISCO, July 9.—The American ship Edward Sewall, 211 days out from Philadelphia for Seattle, arrived here yesterday short of provisions and badly battered from an encounter with a typhoon.

A series of severe storms was met by the Sewall after leaving Bahia Blanca, Argentina, Feb. 27. After repairs the ship ran into the typhoon and lost much canvas. It was necessary to repair the hull.

THE PITTSBURGH STRIKE

SEVERAL THOUSAND STRIKERS AT FACTORIES TODAY—ONE MAN ARRESTED

PITTSBURGH, July 9.—Several thousand strikers hurried to the Westinghouse factories in East Pittsburgh early today when it was reported that three cars loaded with workmen from Detroit and Philadelphia were coming. The train had arrived earlier, however, and later the men were joined by others said to have been employed in Pittsburgh. One man was arrested by the troopers for using abusive language and R. Foley, a member of the strike committee, was placed under bonds to keep the peace.

An order was issued by officers of the Allegheny Congregational Industrial union forbidding members to enter saloons.

FOURER BATTLED WITH MAN WHO ATTEMPTED TO HOLD UP THE TRAIN

WATERLOO, Ia., July 9.—An attempt was made to hold up Illinois Central passenger train number 11 by a bandit one mile east of Epworth, Ia., last night. The bandit ordered the negro porter, Henry Bruce, to search the passengers while he stood guard with a drawn revolver. The porter snatched the bandit's gun and both men fell to the floor of the car. The gun was disarmed and the bandit was held. The porter, however, was not hurt. The bandit freed himself and jumped off, escaping into the woods.

MAY CLOSE INQUEST SOON

STAMFORD, CONN., CORONER WAITS FOR REPORT ON BLOOD STAINS

STAMFORD, Conn., July 9.—Possibility that the inquest of coroner John J. Phelan on the death of Waldo B. Batten may be closed in a few days, is held by the end of the week, was said last night to be resting on whether the report of the analysis on supposed blood stains found in and near the apartment of Mrs. Helen M. Angle, who is under arrest in connection with the case, is submitted to the coroner within a day or two. Batten died of a gunshot wound after a visit to Mrs. Angle's room.

The coroner said last night he hoped to have a report on the stains shortly, possibly by Friday. He could not say definitely, however, whether, with this report in hand, he would close the inquest. It was believed here, however, that such may be his action.

Chief of Police W. H. Brennan, who was in New Britain yesterday at a state meeting of police chiefs, was reported from there to have said that he expected the coroner's report by Friday. The coroner said last night, however, that he could not say anything about that.

THE MEXICAN SITUATION

U. S. Government Preparing for New Developments—Await Official News From Rebels

WASHINGTON, July 9.—That the Washington government would give within a few days some manifestation of the policy it intends to pursue to meet any new development in the Mexican situation was the belief, expressed today in many quarters. President Wilson and his advisers still awaited official notification of the constitutionalists' attitude toward a proposed peace conference with Huerta's envoys and declined to comment on border reports to the effect that the revolutionary leaders would not agree to a parity.

Probably the definite expression of its plans for the future will not be made by the American government until the preparation for the conference is settled and specific information on the extent of the Villa-Carranza agreement is received.

While reports from Torreon stated that the disagreement between the two chiefs has been settled, there remained an undercurrent of comment indicating that the truce was only temporary. The movement today of Villa's troops northward from their Zacatecas campaign was explained by statements from some quarters that the United States and a few European nations had urged that the northern general be not allowed to reach Mexico City first. Administration officials declined to comment on such reports.

That the constitutionalist military campaign was progressing without the immediate co-operation of Villa was indicated in official revolutionary reports that General Obregon's northwestern forces had beaten back an army of federalists almost at the gates of Guadalupe. Obregon said he believed his men would capture the city without much serious fighting. Probably his forces would be unable, it was said, to attack Huerta's capital without help.

TWO JUMPED OVERBOARD CITY IS BLAMED

For Collapse of Long Beach Pier in Which 41 Were Killed

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 9.—The city of Long Beach was held responsible of the condition of its municipal pier when it collapsed during a celebration on Empire day, May 24, 1913, killing 41 persons and injuring more than 200.

This was decided by a jury in the superior court yesterday in awarding $7500 damages to George Chafar and his son Edward for the death of Chafar's wife. They asked for $15,500.

More than 100 other damage suits, aggregating $3,500,000, have been held in abeyance awaiting the outcome of this test suit.

CLAUDE STAYS IN THE CIVIL SUNDRY BILL, DESPITE EFFORTS TO AUTHOR OR ELIMINATE IT

WASHINGTON, July 9.—All efforts in the senate yesterday to alter or eliminate the labor exemption clause of the sundry civil bill section providing funds for the enforcement of the anti-trust law were voted down.

On roll calls put the senate on record in favor of the exemption clause, which caused the veto of the last sundry civil bill by President Taft, and which President Wilson, in a memorandum made when he signed the measure, characterized as unjustifiable in character and principle.

The clause provides that no part of the fund shall be spent in the prosecution of "any organization or any individual for entering into any combination or agreement having in view the increasing of wages, shortening of hours or bettering the conditions of labor or for any act done in furtherance thereof, not in itself unlawful. Co-operative farmers' organizations are also exempted."

Senator Sterling of South Dakota, proposed to strike out the exemption, characterizing it as "vicious class legislation."

The Sterling amendment was laid on the table by a vote of 41 to 27, only one democrat, Senator Pomeroy, voting for it.

An amendment by Senator Sutherland of Utah to insert in the provisions the words "by lawful means," was voted down 38 to 22.

Later the bill itself, carrying $111,000,000, was passed without further serious opposition.

Curran of Wilkesbarre and other opponents of the saloon, a conference of Catholics in the United States and Canada has been called for August 4 at Niagara Falls for the purpose of shaping a movement that will enlist the active services of Catholic men and women in the work of eradicating laws to eradicate the liquor traffic in the various states of the nation.

CONFESSED TO MURDER REJECTED BY NEW HAVEN

Beverly Woman Tells Police That Directors Turn Agreement Down — Tell McReynolds "String" Law Cannot be Accepted

BEVERLY, July 9.—What the police fear may develop into a murder was brought to the attention of Chief of Police S. Walker Woodberry late yesterday afternoon, when Mrs. Benedicta Divaio appeared at station 1 and asked the aid of the police to assist her in finding her husband, Gafano Divaio, who, she said, has been missing from his home, 2 Cabot street, since Monday morning.

Mrs. Divaio told a most exciting story to Chief Woodberry in connection with the disappearance of her husband. She stated that on Saturday morning, July 4, about 2 o'clock, her husband, with Mr. and Mrs. Gafano Barlato, who also reside at 2 Cabot street, left the house to go to work.

About 11 o'clock the same morning, Divaio and Mrs. Barlato returned to the house, but Mrs. Barlato was not with them. Mrs. Divaio said she asked her husband and Mrs. Barlato about the whereabouts of Mr. Barlato, and they informed her that he had secured a job as a farmhand and would not return home for a month.

She said her husband acted very queer and appeared restless on Sunday morning, she said, he informed her that he had killed Barlato and dragged his body into the woods about one-half mile from the Wenham line, where Barlato had been at work cleaning trees about a week ago.

ONLY SIXTEEN, GIRL VERY SICK

Tells How She Was Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

New Orleans, La.—"I take pleasure in writing these lines to express my gratitude to you. I am only 16 years old and work in a tobacco factory. I have been a very sick girl but I have improved wonderfully since taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and am now looking fine and feeling a thousand times better."

—Miss AMELIA JAQUILLARD, 3961 Tchoupitoulas St., New Orleans, La.

St. Clair, Pa.—"My mother was alarmed because I was troubled with suppression and had pains in my back and side, and severe headaches. I had pimples on my face, my complexion was sallow, my sleep was disturbed, I had nervous spells, was very tired and had no ambition. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has worked like a charm in my case and has regulated me. I worked in a mill among hundreds of girls and have recommended your medicine to many of them."

—Miss ESTELLA MAGUIRE, 110 Thwing St., St. Clair, Pa.

Pipings are used in the embellishment of many new gowns. The smart model shown here has the pipings on the coat and to edge the scallops of the double tunic. The humped up appearance of the coat on the shoulders is a fashion novelty achieved by slightly gathering in the coat at the neck line. The high model collar is faced with velvet.

SILK TAILORED SUIT

NEW YORK, July 9.—The directors of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad yesterday rejected the agreement made with the federal department of justice and the authorities of Massachusetts for the divorce of the Boston & Maine railroad.

In resolutions unanimously adopted they put the blame on the conditions set by the Massachusetts legislature, the so-called "string" legislation, which would allow the commonwealth of Massachusetts at any time to take the Boston & Maine shares in question at a price fixed by agreement or the courts.

These conditions, they say, "are so different from anything which was contemplated at the time of the original agreement that the board has not the right to accept them and involve such severe and apparently necessary loss that it ought not to recommend or expect their acceptance by the stockholders themselves."

This conclusion, which reaffirms their statement of June 25, the directors set forth at greater length in a statement to the stockholders, copy of which they have sent to Gov. David I. Walsh of Massachusetts, Pres. Calvin Coolidge of the senate, Speaker Grafton D. Cushing of the house and Chairman Frederick J. Macleod of the public service commission of that state.

In this statement they take issue with the argument that the "string" provision gives the commonwealth of Massachusetts no new power since the shares can always be taken by eminent domain, an argument made by Public Service Commissioner George W. Anderson in his letter two days ago to Moorfield Storey, attorney for the New Haven, advising and warning the directors to abide by the agreement.

The Boston & Maine railroad, the directors point out, is only partly situated in Massachusetts, and the corporation is incorporated also in other states. Hence "it is by no means clear that the shares belonging to citizens of other states can be taken by Massachusetts; New Hampshire and Maine would have the same right, and all could not exercise it."

Chairman Howard Elliott was not present at the meeting yesterday, which was held in the Grand Central terminal, and Pres. James H. Hustle, who has just been elected president of the Boston & Maine railroad, presided in his absence.

The following resolution was unanimously adopted, a copy being forwarded to Atty. Gen. McReynolds: "To reaffirm the conclusions set forth by the board of directors in its statement of June 25, regarding Massachusetts legislation then pending and now adopted."

"To express our regret to the attorney general of the United States that the conditions on which the Massachusetts legislature is willing to permit the company to try out this agreement with the department of justice are so different from anything which was contemplated at the time the board has not the right to accept them; and that they involve such severe and apparently necessary loss that it ought not to recommend or expect their acceptance by the stockholders themselves."

CHICAGO, July 9.—The efforts to save the life of Lee Wade, son of Dr. Francis Wade of Cambridge, Mass., ended in vain a few minutes after 7 o'clock last evening when the boy died at Wesley hospital. The cause of the death was poisoning by bichloride of mercury which the young man had taken by mistake at the Culver Military academy in Indiana, where he was the president of the junior class.

The youth, who was 21 years old and a graduate of Harvard, was rushed to Chicago on a special train in charge of an instructor when he was found in his room suffering from the effects of the poison. His father and mother hurried to the bedside of their son from Salem, where they were helping the victims of the recent fire. In time to be on hand when he was operated on in an effort to remove the fatal drug from his kidneys. Considerable mystery was attached to the manner in which the youth took the bichloride, but his father now makes the following statement:

"Last Thursday night after retiring the boy remembered he had neglected to take a laxative tablet as he had intended to do before going to bed. There was a bottle of laxative tablets on a shelf above his head. He reached up in the dark, took what he thought was the bottle of laxative tablets and swallowed one—a mercury tablet."

MAY GET THE $200,000

FEDERAL AID FOR SALEM EXPECTED AFTER CONFERENCE BETWEEN WILSON AND WALSH

WASHINGTON, July 9.—The unanimous adoption by the senate yesterday afternoon of an amendment to the sundry civil bill for an appropriation of $200,000 for the relief of Salem, coupled with the visit of Gov. Walsh to the White House and the capital, has given impetus to the proposal for federal aid for the destitute of the devastated city.

Members of the Massachusetts delegation were confident that the house would concur in the amendment and that the money, asked for last Friday by President Wilson in a special message to congress, would be available within a day or two.

The attitude of the members of the senate was gratifying to Congressman Gardner and the members of the state delegation who have been urging the appropriation. They declared that the senators fulfilled the letter of the maxim that "he gives twice who gives quickly," for the proceedings which concluded with the attachment of the rider to the sundry civil bill occupied only a short time.

Gov. Walsh's visit to the president probably had a great deal to do with the prompt action of the senate. The governor arrived in Washington at 1:30, accompanied by Sec. of State Donahue, and was met by Congressman Gardner Murray and Gallahan.
